WESTERLY

APPROPRIATES TAXI-CAB; GOES TO TAXIDERMIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 28—William Holden, Westerly and Watch Hill taxi driver is the unexpected recipient of a Christmas present which came to him out of the dark night air of Christmas eve. As he was about to take his auto from the darkened garage he observed two round bright spots inside the taxi just above the seat which as he looked gradually grew larger. As fast as the bright spots increased in size Driver Holden's eyes dialated more rapidly until he comprehended that his unpaying fare was of that family of wise birds commonly known as owls. Mr. Holden did not wait for a writ of habeas corpus to get the owl out of his self-inflicted prison but seized the bird by the forelock or whatever happened to be the nearest tangible "holt" for Mr. Holden in past years has been a consistent sport follower of boxing exhibitions and "wrastlings." Without waiting for a decision he hurried his antagonist to a taxi—this time "taxi"-dermist, and expects before the first of the year to have a newly mounted home ornament.

No Place to Economize

Persons building new homes should not try to economize on the heating plant. Heating plants that do not "fit the house," or plants of inferior quality, will not furnish sufficient heat and are liable to fail in periods of real cold weather causing extreme discomfort and unnecessary expense. Persons who contemplate buying a home already built find it a good investment to have the heating plant, including the chimney, inspected by competent heating engineers before completing their purchase, to determine whether the system is in good condition and will function satisfactorily.

DANIELSON

DOWNS-SPAULDING WEDDING IS BRILLIANT AFFAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 28—At four o'clock yesterday afternoon, Westfield Congregational church, prettily decorated with chrysanthemums and calla lilies, was the scene of a very colorful wedding when Miss Ruth Ella Spaulding, daughter of Mrs. Ella S. Spaulding of 207 Main street, became the bride of Eugene Fanning Downs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver F. Downs of Prospect avenue. The bride was given in marriage by the Rev. L. M. Spaulding. The double ring service was used and Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's recessional was played after the ceremony. Theb ride was attended by Miss Thelma Bruce of Providence, as maid of honor. Her bridesmaids were Miss Lily Wilkins of Providence, Mrs. Richard Glazier of Stafford Springs, Miss Gladys Franklin of Central Falls, R. I., Miss Esther Louise Spaulding of South Killingly, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl. Carl Alsing of Sharon, Pa., was the best man, and the ushers were, Harry Anderson of New York city, Raymond Mayhew of Danielson, Nathan Southwick of Webster and Sylvanus Smith of Worcester.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white satin, princess style, with veil of chantilly silk lace, and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore powder blue satin, with velvet hat and satin slippers to match, and her bouquet was of Talisman roses. The first pair of bridesmaids were attired in green satin with pink bows, with green velvet hats and slippers to match, and carried bouquets of pink roses. The second pair wore pink satin with green bows, with pink velvet hats and slippers to match, carrying Rapture roses. The little flower girl was dainty in orchid satin, carrying a basket of roses and lilies of the valley.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Downs were assisted in receiving by their parents. Mrs. Spaulding wore black lace with corsage of lavender and pink sweet peas. Mrs. Downs wore blue lace with corsage of tea roses.

Early in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Downs left for a wedding trip to New York and Philadelphia. The bride's traveling costume was a dress of black flat crepe, with hat to match, and coat of black trimmed with grey fur. They will make their home in New York.

Mrs. Downs is a graduate of Killingly high school and Bryant-Stratton Business college, Providence, and has been head of the commercial department of the Stafford high school in Stafford Springs. Mr. Downs is also a graduate of Killingly high school and Worcester Polytechnic institute, Worcester. He is an electrical engineer employed by the New York Edison company, in which city they will make their home.

The wedding gifts were many and beautiful, consisting of silver, linen, pewter, cut glass and crystal, pictures, and gold. The groom's gift to the bride was a crystal bracelet.

STRICKEN FAMILY DEEPLY GRATEFUL FOR AID

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 28—George Sarantopoulos, head of the family that lost all of its possessions in a fire that destroyed the new home in the Riverview section where they lived, last Tuesday morning, while the parents and their seven children were attending a pre-Christmas service at the Greek Orthodox church on Water street, said this morning that he was overwhelmed with gratitude, as are his wife and children, over the manner in which the people of Danielson have come to their relief. "It is almost impossible to believe so many people could be so good to us," he said, and he is profoundly grateful—grateful beyond expression.

The appeal through The Bulletin for the community to respond at Christmas time for the relief of this very worthy and distressingly unfortunate family brought striking results. The original story of their misfortune in this newspaper contained the comment that Danielson is a community that "gives from the heart." That comment has been fully justified.

Clothing for the father and mother and their seven children, losers of everything material they possessed except the garments they wore while attending church, has come in abundance. Food, even special Christmas gifts for the children, came from here and there. There have been gifts of furniture, of shoes, of this and that—of a surprisingly varied assortment of things to help the family re-establish a home. Bedding, a stove, fuel also have been received.

Outstanding among the gifts is a bedroom suite from Miss Lillian E. Bailey of Broad street. Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross has given the family $100 from its fund, and all of those who enrolled in the recent Roll Call drive have a share in this part of the relief work. Another $50 gift came from the Danielson Rotary club, and still another $50 was presented by Dollard Grenon for employes of Powdrell and Alexander, where Mr. and Mrs. Sarantoupolos are employed. Principal Ernest R. Warren of Killingly high school was another generous giver, and so too have numbers of other persons whose identity remains unknown at this time.

Gifts came from people of every race and creed—in a splendid manifestation of Christian spirit. At the request of Mr. and Mrs. Sarantoupolos, this paper says, "Thank you and God bless you" to all who gave.

Out of doors, this was a messed up town today. Icy, rutted, snow-covered streets, slippery sidewalks and what not. Yet it was no more messed up than the countryside hereabouts. Only the state highways were comparatively clear of the accumulation of ice and snow that is the heritage of a series of rain and snow storms and alternately thawing and freezing weather of nearly a week past. Winter certainly must have come to bat with its lead off men—murderers' row, they might call it in the big leagues.

Business here was practically ruined by yesterday's storm. Today only a few gave any attention to business matters of a routine nature, but there were many who had plenty of extra work in digging their properties out and getting things in the best possible order to carry on Monday morning.

Out in the country districts of this town there was not much moving today. Some brave souls got out their cars and started battling through snow-choked roads. State highway crews, who are having anything but a soft snap, the world should know, kept up a ceaseless battle to keep the trunk lines clear of as much of the snow and ice as it was possible to remove.

The country roads were broken out today by persons who just had to go somewhere with their cars on missions that would not permit of delay, and, in some cases, by those who rather enjoy breaking a trail through the snow of such a lane of traffic.

It did not appear from any available reports that there were any huge drifts, the largest heard of hereabouts being from two to three feet in height.

Here in Danielson some streets represented mighty hard traveling conditions. Necessary traffic during the storm of yesterday rutted them irregularly, there was a freeze during the early hours of this morning and that set the ruts in a manner to punish tires aplenty.

Through all the storm the buses of the Connecticut company did not lose a trip in this area, and in the height of it, though there were few persons traveling, the majority of them arrived here and departed on time.

Miss Almira Bernier of Reynolds street and her brother, Van Bernier, of Peekskill, N. Y., left here by motor this morning en route to Miami, where they will spend the remainder of the Christmas season.

Small, modern apartment in Danielson wanted by couple; no children; address R. A. C., Bulletin, Danielson.—

There is to be a Watch Night service at the Methodist Episcopal church New Year's eve. From 10 until 11 o'clock there is to be a social hour.

The weather is getting so rough that many a man has more or less seriously contemplated getting a leave of absence from his regular job, that he may spend his waking hours keeping his sidewalk cleared.

New Year's night at the high school gymnasium there are to be two basketball games. The school team will play an Alumni team and the girls' team of the school will play against an alumnae team.

Mrs. Edward Hatch, of the staff of the Windham County National bank, remains as a patient at a hospital in Hartford, and may have to undergo a surgical operation.

When members of the Westfield Men's club meet next Friday evening, officers are to be elected for the ensuing year.

The Killingly high school alumni held a dance in the K. H. S. gymnasium last Friday evening, from 8:30 to 12:30. Music was furnished by Polly and Her Pals, one of the most popular orchestras in eastern Connecticut. About 75 were present. This dance was a sort of holiday reunion for the alumni during the Christmas vacation.

The annual Christmas tree and entertainment was held in the Congregational church last Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. There were readings, plays, dialogues, a solo by Mrs. L. S. Ingalls, violin solos by Arthur Cooper, piano solos by the Rev. J. P. Cleveland, a reading by George Ingalls, and songs by a choir. After the program the tree was held for the younger ones.

Brooklyn grange, No. 43, P. of H., held its regular meeting last Tuesday night, in the grange hall. The literary program was in charge of the lecturer, Mrs. Lawton, and Mrs. Page read original papers on Christmas, and there were piano duets by Mrs. Frink and Miss Helen Witter and readings by Mrs. Frink. Refreshments of sandwiches and coffee were served by the literary committee. The next meeting will be held Jan. 5, instead of Jan. 13, because the regular meeting conflicts with the meeting of the state grange. The steward and his assistants will have charge of the program which will consist of readings, plays, dialogues, harmonica and violin solos, vocal duets and a prophecy.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gallup of Ekonk spent Christmas with their daughter, Mrs. L. S. Ingalls in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Jabez Brown of Brooklyn, spent Christmas with their daughter, Mrs. Weaver of Jewett City. Twenty-four relatives of Mr. and Mrs Brown sat down to a Christmas dinner.

Location of Sink

For the woman who does her own housekeeping the location of the sink, drain boards, electric refrigerator and stove with reference to natural and artificial light and to each other is most essential.

There should be some provision for carrying off the fumes from the gas range and gas oven. To lessen fatigue, it has been found that the front of the sink should be from thirty-four to thirty-six inches from the floor.

Soap was first used not for cleanliness, but to make the hair more attractive.

BURGLARS GET $2800 OF CLOTHING FROM GOLDBERG STORE IN MOOSUP

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 28—Three burglars cleaned the N. Goldberg clothing store at Moosup out of $2,800 worth of goods at 2:45 this morning, and while they worked a tenant living over the store opened a window to inquire of one of them sitting out in a roadster as to "what the h—— are you doing?" The tenant, "Teddy" Robitaille, was a bit shy about mixing too much in the matter on account of a previous experience with bad men.

The loot included 60 men's suits, 125 men's trousers, 12 pairs of children's shoes, 15 boxes of men's underwear, 12 men's shirts, some of them of silk, and three men's leather jackets.

It would seem today as though the crooks might have lugged off the entire stock, and fixtures, too, had not Robitaille's inquiry upset their party. As it was they made off with a truck fairly well filled with merchandise, but who they are or where they went was not known to state police engaged today in investigating the matter under the direction of Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart. The loss is the heaviest one experienced in a burglary in this part of eastern Connecticut since the Church company store here in Danielson was raided for about $6,000 worth of high class merchandise during the early hours of one morning several years ago.

Entrance to the Goldberg store this morning was gained by using a glass cutter to remove a small, square section of glass near the lock on the rear door of the Goldberg store. The building occupied by the Goldberg concern is on Moosup's main street, near the postoffice. The rear of it is separated from the tracks of the New Haven railroad by a street. It's dark back there at night, and seldom does anyone happen along at between two and three o'clock in the morning. In addition to the truck the burglars had a small roadster. Two of them worked inside the store while the other, apparently a lookout, sat outside in the roadster. These burglars apparently had plenty of nerve, and they must have worked for an hour or so to pack up and get away with the amount of goods taken. They probably would have continued to clean out the store had not Robitaille's disturbing query upset their little party.

Robitaille, who has been employed here by LaBelle and Page, is naturally just a bit shy of such situations, as he witnessed during the early hours of this morning, for, several years ago, it is said, he was shot as an innocent party by some wild hawk who started to use a gun when trouble started during a drinking party. He was not involved in the affair in any way except as to collecting in some part of his anatomy a bullet fired with the intention of hitting some other person. Mrs. Robitaille also is timid and is understood to have warned her husband to be careful about getting hurt this morning through any interference with the Goldberg store burglars. However, Robitaille did scare them away with his rather abrupt inquiry as to what they were doing, and by doing so very likely saved the Goldberg firm a very considerable loss over and above the serious one sustained.

Information relative to the robbery was broadcast from the Danielson barracks today. What clues state police have that may be of value in fixing the identity of the thieves was not being given out this evening, but it appears there is a possibility of tracing the robbers, much in the same manner as the silver bandits were traced and several of them imprisoned.

PUTNAM

HIGHWAY DEPT. HAS ROADS CLEARED OF SNOW

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Dec. 28.—Returning to quarters at noon today, the fleet of plow-nosed trucks of the state highway department had scored their third consecutive victory of the season over their opponent, King Winter, who managed to make things look pretty bad Saturday, with a storm that left a blanket of eight inches of snow in its wake. The efficient, but nevertheless toilworn and weary, corps of storm battlers operating under the direction of Supervisor James W. Maher, of Pomfret, laid down their weapons at midnight Saturday after rounding out almost 14 hours of continuous battle. At that time every mile of highway maintained by the Putnam division of the department had been made passable and this morning the crews somewhat refreshed after a "cat-nap," were on the job early applying finishing touches to the task that has thus far proved to be the greatest snow removal of the winter.

Although resting easier today, the highway maintenance force was prepared for another strenuous tour of duty when gray skies, accompanied by decending temperatures and occasional snow flurries throughout the afternoon, threatened a recurrence of yesterday's baby blizzard. Fortunately, temperatures remained above the freezing mark during the early morning hours enabling automobile traffic to beat down firmly, the hazardous coating of slush that came Saturday morning during the early stages of the storm. All dangerous passages along the trunk line routes are being sanded and unless the unforeseen arises, Supt. Maher said, the situation seems to be well in hand.

Due to the comparative lightness of the snow, the telephone and electric light companies escaped with little difficulty. A few lines were blown down in Woodstock Valley and in Elliott, affecting a small number of stations. Service crews were doubled and aid was immediately rushed to the affected centers with the result that communication was restored to every crippled station by nightfall.

Busses and trains which felt the weight of the storm last night returned to normal schedules today. The Midland division express trains of the New Haven, experienced no serious delays and Norwich-Putnam busses of the Connecticut company maintained schedules today.

Shoveling out from beneath the third snow mantle of the week, was the foremost problem confronting home owners Sunday. Many tackled the task with renewed vigor, while others saw fit to make use of the opportunity to afford aid to the unemployed by assigning the work to those who have been without a job of any kind for several weeks.

The appearance on a state highway in this section this morning, of an automobile bearing the attractive red and white colored number plates for the year 1932 was incentive for a Bulletin reporter referring to the motor vehicle department's "blue book" where the following quotation from a chapter on use of number plates was found: "Each motor vehicle shall, while in use or operation upon any public highway, have displayed in a conspicuous place at the front and rear of such vehicle, number plates assigned by the commissioner for the year when displayed, or renewal of any registration, the number plates so assigned for the ensuing year may be displayed on the last week day of December, of the year preceding that for which number plates shall have been assigned ——."

Reading of this clause in some way should serve to dampen the enthusiasm of those who are over anxious to be first to appear in automobiles proudly displaying the new markers. The extract in brief, when stripped of its legal phraseology, is to the effect that those venturing out before December 31st, in cars bearing the 1931 registration are committing a direct violation of the motor vehicle laws and therefore are liable to arrest. This is written not as a warning or threat but merely in hope that it will reach those who are unmindful of the seriousness of their gesture when they prematurely tossed the almost no longer useful markers of 1930, aside in favor of those for the coming year.

This afternoon while scanning over the daily resume of news activities coming to the attention of the state police of Danielson barracks, Liept. Ross V. Urquhart commented upon the unlawfulness of operating 1931 registered cars before the last of the year. The action, he said, constitutes a clear case of arrest against violators who will be subject to arrest under the motor vehicle act pertaining to the improper use of markers and the operation of unregistered motor vehicles.

Apparatus at the central fire station responded to two alarms for chimney fires today. The first call received at 7 o'clock this morning was for a fire at the home of Mrs. Valedie Delage on Marshall street. The blaze was quickly extinguished without damage to property. A second alarm received at 4.45 this afternoon was for a fire in a tenement house at [illegible] Chasney street. Quick work on the part of the firemen operating under the direction of Chief A. J. Dumas, subdued the flames in short order with only a small amount of damage resulting to property.

Miss N. Alice Dalton and Miss Grace [illegible] Murphy, who spent the Christmas holidays with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bulger of Farrows street, returned to their home in Northampton, Mass., today.

Captain of Police A. J. Dubreuil has issued a timely warning to youngsters, urging them to refrain from coasting on hills leading on to the heavily traveled highway. With the advent of snow, the police are forced to keep a sharp lookout for the children who insist upon using the main arteries of travel for playgrounds. Not only is the practice hazardous to coasters, but in many instances in the past, unsuspecting motorists have encountered serious injury in attempting to avoid striking careless and irresponsible persons darting out of side streets into the roads.

Representative Leon A. Talbot and J. Otis Fox are grooming themselves for another term in the state legislature which convenes in January. Both Putnam's legislators will make the daily trip to Hartford by automobile, this manner of travel being more conveniently suited to their businesses. While the patronage of the one time popular legislative special operated by the New Haven railroad, has been steadily falling off in recent years with the development of the automobile and the improvement of highways, it is expected that the special will start out of this city daily for the capital city, while the legislature is in session.

Miss Ann Hogan of New York city, is spending a brief visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Hogan, of Tatem street.

Most of the pupils had made gifts in school with which to surprise their parents.

The apples and bags of popcorn distributed among the pupils by Fred Oates were greatly appreciated.

A PROHIBITION REFERENDUM

Last month there were states which returned votes indicative of the sentiment of the voters therein regarding prohibition. It was possible to see where the wets had either gained in strength or were able to prove that their claims were justified.

Connecticut has been rated as a wet state. This is because of known sentiment and also because it is one of the two states which has not ratified the 18th amendment. That might be considered sufficient ground for believing that Connecticut is firmly in the wet column, but there are those who believe that there should be something more definite, a real referendum, and it is the idea of certain opponents of prohibition to ask the coming general assembly to authorize such a referendum.

It can, and probably will, be insisted that in a state which has manifested such a wetness as Connecticut there is no need for a referendum. What the attitude of the drys will be has not been indicated, but there is a committee representing several organizations supporting the 18th amendment in this state which doesn't rate Connecticut as wet. Whether it will display its confidence by supporting a referendum is not indicated, but it is not discouraged by the recent state election. Concerning that test it says: "Republican candidates who straddled the issue (prohibition) went down to crushing defeat. They could neither command the hearty support of the drys nor win the votes from their wet opponents."

Thus the election of the wet candidate for governor in Connecticut is attributed to the spanking of the wet-dry candidate because he dared to take a middle-of-the-road course, while selecting the pronounced opponent of prohibition, but the committee chooses to base its dry views for Connecticut upon national election results, concerning which it says: "In the last presidential election the prohibition issue was clean cut between Hoover and Smith, and Connecticut dry voters went to the polls and helped elect the dry candidate. Whenever the opportunity is given, they will do so again. It is significant that 130,000 Connecticut citizens who voted in 1928 election did not go to the polls this year."

In 1928 as in 1930 it is always possible to claim that the result did not turn on the prohibition question. That may have had its influence but there were other issues. With a referendum there would be a chance for a clean-cut expression on one and only one question and after such a vote a real basis for dry or wet supremacy in Connecticut would be established.

VERMONT'S NEW SENATOR

The people of Vermont had good reason for feeling that they were well represented in the United States senate by the late Senator Greene, whose unexpected death was deplored far beyond the borders of that state.

But the necessity of insuring the same high grade of representation is fully appreciated by the governor of Vermont, if we may judge by the successor he has appointed to fill the vacancy until an election can be held. He has named a man who is no stranger to Washington, one who has had years of experience in government work and as diplomatic and conference representative of this government, and when he takes his seat next week Vermont will have every reason to believe that its representative in the upper house of congress has been put in safe hands.

Frank C. Partridge has been named for this vacancy. He is a man of long experience and seasoned judgment. In earlier years he was solicitor in the department of state. He also saw service as special envoy to Venezuela and was consul-general at Tangier. He was for years a member of the executive committee of the American Society of International Law and seven years ago was a delegate to the Pan-American conference at Santiago, Chile. More than that, the appointee stands high in the esteem of the people of his own state, being of the type that inspires confidence and assures sound action.

This is the second vacancy to be filled in the senate since the present session convened, though in each instance loyal party senators were replaced by equally substantial and loyal men from whom reliable service can be expected, all of which means much to the country as well as to the respective parties.

Whether the newly appointed senator from Vermont will seek the nomination for the unexpired term is a question. There are others in the state whose ambition in that direction has been declared and the expectation is that, while there may be a contest for that honor as far as the nomination is concerned, there will be little doubt but what after election day Vermont will continue to be served in the United States senate by two republicans as has long been customary.

LEASE IT OR SELL IT

In regard to the disposal of Muscle Shoals, action on which has been hanging fire for a long time, the senate is favorable to government operation while the house is opposed to it. With the matter in conference there is a disposition on the part of the house committee to reach a compromise, but not to the extent of authorizing expenditures in behalf of going over entirely to the senate idea.

While the question is still undecided there is opportunity for congress to get an idea of the sentiment throughout the country from the referendum which has been conducted by the United States chamber of commerce. This body is not made up politically. It includes members of all parties, some of which may not be represented in congress, but it is fair to presume that whatever decision is given by the individual members has been reached in the same way that any question involving their respective business activities would be decided.

The 3,000 votes in the referendum were decidedly one sided, with 2,713 for private enterprise to operate Muscle Shoals to 126 for government operation. Almost as decisive was the vote in favor of selling or leasing the power project as it is and on the best terms obtainable. For this, 2,640 voted in favor with only 157 against.

This would indicate, aside from the strong opinion concerning this particular project, that there has been enough experience with government-owned utilities. The country has had an opportunity to note with telling effect what may be expected as the result of past experiences. The impression that has been made when the government has undertaken to compete with private enterprise or to take over the operation of large projects which belong in the hands of private capital has been most unfavorable. There is no desire to encourage any more of it by having the government run Muscle Shoals. Congress has already displayed what may be expected from it if it is placed at the mercy of politics and the sooner it can be leased or sold the better it will be for those who are seeking power from it and for the government, which has reason to expect some return of a compensating character therefrom. Muscle Shoals has been hanging in the balance too long already is the verdict of the business men of the country.

COASTING DANGERS

Coasting accidents throughout the state, varying in their degree of severity, have thus early furnished evidence of the danger that is involved in sliding on much used thoroughfares, or those streets which intersect others.

Street and highway dangers from automobile traffic under the most favorable conditions, when there is no snow on the ground, have become fully understood. Those dangers increase when the roadbed is covered with ice and snow and when use is being made of it by both motor vehicles and coasters. Death and broken bones have already been disclosed in the news reports from about the state.

That such cases are needless is quite as evident as it is that they are deplorable. They can be avoided, but the best guarantee against such accidents is to keep either the motor vehicles or the coasters out of the highways. It is quite as difficult for drivers of autos to control their machines when a coaster appears unexpectedly as it is for the youngster to keep from going under the wheels. Where they appear together they constitute a serious menace to life and limb.

It is an equally serious situation where coasters select hills which cross much used streets or trolley tracks. Too often under such circumstances there is no warning for the auto driver, the motorman or the coaster. It is just a case of trusting to luck and where sliding is indulged in under such circumstances it is a wonder that there are not more accidents.

Regardless of the pleasure, and no one wants to deny that to youth, there is obvious need for giving heed to safety, and such a responsibility rests not solely upon the shoulders of the children themselves. Parents and authorities should recognize their duty and place greater stress upon safety than upon conditions that will sooner or later result in distressing accidents.

TOO BAD HE DIDN'T

It is to be regretted that he didn't but hardly to be expected that Senator Norris would accept the invitation of Prof. John Dewey to become the head of a third party.

It is to be regretted because that would mean the elimination of Norris from republican ranks and accomplish what Mr. Lucas and many others believe ought to be accomplished by one means if not another.

It was not to be expected because the Nebraskan knows full well, as he set forth in his reply, that third parties are not to the liking of the American people. Further than that, he understands that if and when he takes himself out of the republican ranks he throws overboard the standing he lays claim to in the senate and the favorable committee appointments which he cherishes so greatly.

On the other hand, it is to be realized that Senator Norris could no more keep within the traces of a third party than he can stand on the platform of the republican party. He is that uneasy, that independent, that inconsistent, that no matter which party put him up for office he would insist upon becoming a renegade at the first opportunity. It is his type of independence. He believes that the majority should control at the polls but he has no intention of standing by majority sentiment of party. He believes that the tail should wag the dog and any third party would have quite the same difficulty in trying to follow any lead he might set for such as does the republican.

Senator Norris thus declines the invitation. Of course he does. He knows it would please the republicans and he also knows it would put an end to the advantage which he now enjoys. He doesn't even dare to become a democrat until after he has announced his candidacy and been elected as a republican.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: The fellow who wrote two can live as cheaply as one forgot to add a la radio.

There is and should be opposition to the dole. What is needed is good teamwork in restoring confidence and providing work.

The habit of having congress settle everything is getting to be chronic. Just because a Boston corporation has discharged an employe there is talk of asking congress to look into it.

People are advised to avoid hoarding their money but those who have been putting some away for the days of unemployment are doing less worrying than those who have been squandering it.

A WEEK-END REST

The Saturday shopping crowds were bigger than usual and Dora Dare, who had met her friend Molly Ferris by appointment at the Bon Ton restaurant, felt utterly fagged. Dora had just returned from a visit to a mutual friend in a distant city and was telling Molly all about it.

"You did well not to go to Marie's with me, Molly, for a rest," Dora said as the two young women sat waiting for their order to be filled. "It was an awful experience."

"How so?" Molly's eyes were fixed hungrily on the tray the waiter was bringing to them. "I thought you'd come back nicely rested. I've been envying you. You see, Jack's people all piled in on me for the week end and I've been tired all the rest of the week. What was the trouble at Marie's? She has a beautiful new house, lots of money, efficient servants—"

"You go ahead and eat, Molly. I can't swallow a mouthful until I tell you what happened. I suppose it'll sound like an inventory before I get through, but I've just got to tell some one. First of all, it was cold that night I got there. There weren't sufficient blankets for the bed. I had to sleep in my bathrobe; then I tried to find something to stick under the window so I wouldn't have to have it up so high. I couldn't find a thing, so I stuck my best hairbrush under it for a prop. Some time during the night the wind began to blow, the hairbrush flew out, and the window came down with a crash. I found the hairbrush out on the lawn next morning. It had rained hard all night; there wasn't much left of the brush.

"In my room was a wonderful, old-fashioned chest of drawers. I sighed with content when I thought of its roomy depths, but when I tried to pull out a drawer it stuck. I got mad and gave it a yank. It came out all right, but I landed flat on my back on the floor and nearly cracked my rib. A hot bath helped my lameness some, but I'm still black and blue from the fall. That night I couldn't sleep, so I thought I'd turn on my lights and read. But I couldn't do that.

"The lights were all grouped so as to throw a beautiful light on the dressing table and bureau, but over in the corner where the bed stood it was dark. In desperation I thought I'd light a candle, but I couldn't find any matches. I decided to get up and sit in a chair. I had noticed a pile of new books in gorgeous colored bindings on a table. But when I investigated the books I found they were the latest ghost stories, mystery stories and red-hot burglary tales. I crawled back into bed.

"I must have fallen asleep, for I was awakened by a bright light shining full in my face. It was the moon! Now a full moon that is romantic at 11 o'clock, at 2 arouses all the bitterness in one's soul. I didn't sleep any more that night.

"Outside on the landing I had noticed an old grandfather's clock. I had praised its quaint beauty to Marie. She said she would wind it so I could enjoy it. She said it had the most soothing tick and the softest chime. I don't know how she could make such a mistake. Maybe some one else might have endured it, but it nearly finished me. It would tick—tock—tick—tock—and then give a cluck like a person choking.

"There was the constant discussion of diets at the table. Marie was trying to reduce. I heard so much about the virtues of lettuce, pineapple and lamb chops that I lost my appetite.

"The last morning I went down and found Marie crying as if her heart would break. It seemed she had invited that pretty Mrs. Roberts to come to visit her. Some one she had wanted me to meet, and I had been dying to meet her. But Mrs. Roberts had flatly refused to come. Marie could not understand it. She had invited her once before for a week's stay. Mrs. Roberts had accepted the invitation gladly, but she had gone away after staying only one night with Marie. She had never repeated her visit. Poor Marie was crushed.

"I wish I'd had the courage, Molly, to tell her a thing or two. I do think it would be a good thing if not only Marie but many another would-be hostess had to sleep for a few nights in her own guest room."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—In every national administration the Bystander has observed from the press side lines, some particular presidential utterance has had a vogue all its own.

More often than not the criticism evoked in congress has been what gave these presidential remarks their enduring place in the history of the administration involved.

To go no farther back than Woodrow Wilson—who does not recall how his "peace without victory" statement was picked up and bandied about?

Probably you could find some thousands of words, mostly critical, in the Congressional Record of those days pitched to that theme. Off hand the Bystander cannot recall another Wilsonism given equally wide circulation.

Then came Warren Harding and his "back to normalcy." Almost every democrat—and a number of the "pseudo" republicans as Simeon Fess styles them—took a whack at that.

'I Do Not Choose'

Along came Calvin Coolidge as president. He was the least talkative for quotation and the most talkative not for quotation of all the presidents the Bystander has observed. He seemed unusually alert to guard against the danger that lurks for high political personages in quotation marks.

Yet if ever any presidential utterance got a bigger political ride than the words from President Coolidge's lips beginning "I do not choose," the Bystander is at fault in memory. That was a classic cryptogram of its kind.

Now Herbert Hoover is president, and presidential quotations are a frequent matter under his reorganization of white house publicity ways. He is along toward mid-term, with many months—perhaps years—to go before it will be possible to single out the Hoover utterance which was the best seller of his administration.

Hoover Makes Start

Yet a start has been made. If President Hoover's remark about "playing politics at the expense of human misery" does not at least prove to be runner-up for first honors, it will not be the fault of senate democrats, aided by anti-Hooverites on the republican side.

Within a matter of hours after it was uttered at a white house press conference, a word count of the Record would disclose thousands upon thousands of words declaimed in reply. The total doubled or tripled within the next 36 hours and the end, most decidedly, was not yet.

The Bystander himself has a crow to pick with that particular Hooverism. It involves the use of that expression "playing politics." Folks who get into Washington's political who's who don't "play" politics.

They work at the job, day and night, week in, week out, from presidents down to and below, far, far below the little cabinet grade.

That's their business.

YOUR HEALTH

Examination Of Urine Reveals Early Symptoms

By Simon Levin, M. D., Houghton, Mich.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Many patients could be saved from intense suffering and death in several diseases of the urinary tract, that is, of the external canal, bladder, and tubes going from the bladder to the kidney could be recognized early. Frequent or abnormal passing of urine which is red or smoky in color, or is slimy, whether or not accompanied by fever, should constitute danger signs and cause the victim to arrange for an immediate appointment with his doctor.

Bright's disease in the chronic state, also presence of blood or pus in the urine are revealed by microscopic examination. Such an examination will also reveal which part of the tract is diseased by the elements in the urine.

By a proper cystoscope examination (which means actually looking into the bladder with an instrument called the cystoscope), and with the assistance of the X-ray, we can outline exactly the location of the disease. This can and should be done before serious symptoms arise.

Tuberculosis of the kidney, which is distinctly a curable condition, can be diagnosed by the above method. To make it curable, the examination, diagnosis, and removal of the kidney must be done early in the disease.

Again, cancer of the tract in its early stages shows only blood in the urine, with but little or no pain accompanying urination. Too frequent passage of urine may or may not be present, depending upon the location of the growth. Certainly this dread disease needs a very early diagnosis if curative removal is to be permitted.

Heed these warnings and without delay seek the competent advice of your physician. This is the best and only means of getting the serious diseases of the urinary tract within the curable period.

Pain in the back has been exploited as a sign important to the recognition of kidney or bladder diseases. It is well to have the urine examined for this, but pain in the back is present in less than 40 per cent of kidney cases. Therefore do not wait for this sign to investigate diseases of the urinary tract. Make it a routine habit to have the urine examined at least once a year—six month periods would be better and safer.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Stumpy Sees a Dreadful Thing

The wilful and the careless pay,
Sometimes in quite a dreadful way.
—Old Mother Nature.

Living in the hole in the bank of the Smiling pool might be safer, but certainly it is not nearly so comfortable as living in the big house out in the Smiling pool. When Jerry Muskrat and Mrs. Jerry and Stumpy and his sister were all in there that bedroom was crowded. Even so small a person as Danny Meadow Mouse couldn't have squeezed in.

"It wasn't made for four," explained Jerry. "It was intended only for your mother and myself. However, we can make it do as long as Little Joe Otter is around. When we are sure that he has left these parts we will move back to the big house. This reminds me to warn you young folks. When you are out for exercise or to get something to eat never for one single little minute forget to watch out for Little Joe Otter. If you suspect he is about you make straight for this house here in the bank. Here and here only will you be absolutely safe."

"Yes, sir," said Stumpy, but his sister made no reply. She was headstrong and wilful, and she didn't like this crowded home at all.

"It is all nonsense," she declared to Stumpy. "That is what it is—all nonsense. That Otter may never come this way and if he does he won't catch me. I'm not afraid of him. There is that big comfortable house standing empty all because father and mother are nervous. I guess they are getting old and foolish. What's the good of living if you can't live in comfort and do what you want to?"

"It is better to be safe than sorry," replied Stumpy out of the wisdom of experience. You know once he had been headstrong and wilful and had thought he knew it all. As a result he had been caught in a trap and now had but three legs. One had been left in that dreadful trap.

His sister made no reply. She merely turned up her nose and swam away. Days passed with no sign of Little Joe Otter under the ice that covered the Smiling pool. Jerry Muskrat and Mrs. Jerry and Stumpy continued to be cautious and watchful, but Stumpy's wilful young sister scornfully refused to heed Jerry's warnings, and went and came as she pleased. She spent more and more time sleeping in the big house that they had left when it became known that Little Joe Otter was in the neighborhood and which Jerry and Mrs. Jerry didn't consider safe. Secretly she made fun of her father and mother and Stumpy for being so timid and over and over again she declared to Stumpy that it was all foolishness.

Then came a morning when Stumpy and his sister went out for breakfast before their parents were awake. As usual Stumpy first went up under the edge of the bank where there was plenty of air beneath the ice, and there he remained while he tried to make sure that all was safe. Not so his wilful, headstrong sister. She boldly swam straight out into the middle of the Smiling pool on her way to the other side where grew the roots she liked best. In the dim light Stumpy caught a glimpse of a dark form shooting through the water from the direction of the Laughing brook. Stumpy hadn't supposed that anyone could swim so fast. He had a glimpse of his sister suddenly beginning to swim frantically for the entrance to their big house. The big, dark stranger shot down after her. There was a churning and boiling of the water down there and then the stranger disappeared and with him disappeared Stumpy's wilful young sister.

It all happened so quickly that Stumpy could hardly be sure that he had seen it. He dived for the entrance to the hole in the bank and thankfully crept into the crowded little bedroom at the end. He knew that he had seen Little Joe Otter. He wondered if he ever would see his sister again. He never did.

Norwich 100 Years Ago

In the report of Gen. Gratios of the engineer department in relation to the various internal improvements now in operation and in prospect in different parts of the country, mention is made of Stonington Harbor, Conn., as follows, according to The Courier of 100 years ago—"The construction of a break-water for the improvement of this harbor has been well conducted, and, from the protection which the work, even in its present unfinished state, is represented to have afforded during the last equinoctial gales, the best results are anticipated from its completion." In the list of surveys, under specified acts and resolutions of congress, that were ordered during the last session, according to the general's report, is a survey of the river Thames, Connecticut, with a view to improve the navigation of the same, and estimating the cost of such improvement.

Under the heading "Independence of the Press" the ancient newspaper has the following: "An Ohio editor declined publishing an obituary notice of two columns, on the death of an infant three months old! deeming it rather too long, and for which refusal the writer stopped his paper!"

A century ago The Courier published a death notice in this form: "In Preston, on the 25th inst. Mrs. Phebe Prentice, aged 91, relict of Col. Samuel Prentice, late of North Stonington, deceased."

At a meeting of the Norwich Lyceum and Mechanics' Institute the topic of discussion was to be "Ought our general government, or the state legislatures, to interfere with the Cherokee or other tribes of Indians, in their sovereignty over their territories!"

The ancient newspaper noted the fact that Indian corn (maize) is selling in the state of Ohio, at 12 1-2 cents per bushel.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Some Suggestions

Mr. Editor: I saw a letter in The Bulletin on "depression". The world is getting in a most serious condition, and in our own country there is much real suffering, and more as the winter advances. Something should be done; something to help business that those who are willing to work should be supplied. Think if more wool goods were worn by the women and children, the women with their garments a suitable length as they were before the war, it would be helpful to business, also for the health of said parties, and I think they would make a far better appearance. This country ought to be in far better condition than it is. There is so much organizing in church and state there is not much left for the real things in both places. They should get down to business, give every one a chance. A real live church will try to help all, not too much monopoly by the few.

Now I do not think the churches are doing their bit as much as they ought to, in the churches we need more of the spirit of the Master. They are more interested, some of them I am sorry to say, in the social part than in the winning of precious souls. I know churches where they almost seem to grudge the Master an hour at the prayer service but will spend hours at a social affair. Is that winning the world to Christ?

Now perhaps it would be well if every church would measure up to the standard set by Philips Brooks concerning his church, when some one was speaking to him about his good work, he said, no it was not all his work, for his 400 members went through the week living out his sermons. Let the ministers give their best then let each member live his best for the Christ who died for them.

This old world needs Christ more than all else, and real live Christians. If there was more of the spirit of the Master in that senate there would not be such friction.

If there was a Bishop Manning who would stand boldly for the right and the people would stand by him there would be a change in the Washington senate.

DECEMBER MEETING OF BAPTIST WOMEN'S LEAGUE

At the December meeting of the Women's League of the Central Baptist church the devotional service was led by Mrs. Luther Packer after which little Miss Helen Hargraves rendered two violin solos accompanied by Miss Mary Hargraves at the piano. A Christmas carol was sung by a vested choir of five girls, the Misses Barbara Burt, Eleanor Clisbee, Dorothy Diachyshyn, Dawn Oat and Muriel Clisbee.

A short practical talk regarding mailing Christmas packages was given by Mrs. Ida E. Richardson, followed by a contest in wrapping, tieing and addressing packages, which was won by Helen Moore. An original playlet given by Miss Anna Storm and Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve entitled Christmas Giving created much favorable comment and closed with a Christmas hymn by the Girls' choir and an earnest prayer by Mrs. David A. Pitt.

Refreshments were served by the domestic department under Mrs. Henrietta Teffe.

A most interesting feature of the meeting was the large display of the completed Christmas work of some of the circles which are sending gifts to assist Miss Minnie Schulman in Chicago and Miss June Barber who is working among the miners children in West Virginia.

Among the beautiful gifts received by Mr. McCord was a Thermos kit for an automobile and a pipe. A musical programme was provided under the leadership of Herbert Smith. Julian Socha rendered several harmonica selections and solo numbers were given by Joseph Burns and Harry L. McDougald. A buffet lunch was served.

ONLY THREE DAYS LEFT TO SECURE REGISTRATIONS

Only three days are left for automobile owners to secure new registrations if they wish to use their machines Thursday. This week the motor vehicle office of New London will open at 8 o'clock and close at 4.30 on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. The office will be closed New Year's day.

About 400 sets of 1931 registration plates were given out at the office Saturday.

Most of the applications were made during the morning hours when there was a line from the time the office opened up until noon. After 12 o'clock the number of applicants dwindled, either through ignorance that the office was to be kept open in the afternoon or because of the inclement weather.

It was stated at the office that many more applications have been made thus far this year than at this time last year.

It was also made known that no person will be able to take out more than five registrations at one time unless the applications are for one individual or company. It has been found that individual applicants have been placed at a distinct disadvantage through the practice of individuals getting large numbers of registrations for others for a fee. By limiting the number that any person can get to five and then requiring the person to go to the rear of the line before getting any more individuals who are seeking to get their own registrations have a much better chance.

CATHOLIC LADIES REMEMBER VETERANS AT HOSPITALS

Members of the Catholic Ladies' of Columbus provided Christmas cheer for the ex-service men at Norwich State hospital and Uncas-on-Thames recently. The ex-service men, who are remembered by the organization at this season each year, are very appreciative of the gifts. The committee in charge was headed by Miss Mary Weller, assisted by the Misses Jane Sullivan, Marie Desmond, Catherine Finnegan, Catherine Wagner, Catherine Hallahan, Margaret Delaney and Margaret Sullivan.

FUNERALS

J. Olin Howe

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Funeral services for Joseph Olin Howe, former newspaper man of Waterbury, who died suddenly in this city Christmas eve, were held this afternoon in the Park Avenue Methodist Episcopal church at Park avenue and 86th street. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Wyant, was assisted by Rev. Wilbur F. Holmes, an uncle, who is a retired minister of the Methodist denomination.

There was a large group of close friends present, especially of men with whom Mr. Howe had been closely associated in his journalistic work in this city for the past 15 years. The bearers were members of the Norwich Society of New York, of which Mr. Howe was president. The body was placed in Ferncliffe mausoleum.

Thomas Clark Ward

Funeral services for Thomas Clark Ward, assistant manager of the St. Regis, who died on Friday morning at his apartment at 225 East Fifty-fourth street, New York city, after a week's illness of pneumonia, were held Sunday morning at 10 a. m., from undertaking rooms. Rev. George Caleb Moore, of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, officiated. Mr. Ward's body was taken for interment to Madison, Wis., where Mrs. Ward, the late Miss Bertha Walzinger, of New York, is buried.

Mr. Ward was 61 years old and had worked in many hotels along the seaboard from Connecticut to Florida. He was born at New Haven, the son of the late Captain James H. Ward, who was for 25 years agent of the New Haven Steamboat company.

Mr. Ward started his hotel career at the famous old New Haven House and later was connected with the Crocker House at New London.

HOUSE AT TRADING COVE TOTAL LOSS IN SUNDAY EVENING FIRE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Tymcheck, at Trading Cove, near the foot of Mohegan Hill, was burned to the ground early Sunday evening. Nothing remains of the story and a half dwelling but the chimneys, standing in the midst of the ruins.

The cause of the fire was not determined, as Mr. and Mrs. Tymcheck and family were not at home when it started, having left earlier in the day for an out-of-town visit. It is thought that the fire started from an overheated stove. Shortly after 6 o'clock Sunday evening people in the vicinity discovered the fire, which was then rapidly gaining headway.

Steve Perosack sent in a telephone call to the Norwich fire department, and although the fire was in the town of Montville, Engine No. 6 at the Thamesville station was despatched to the scene and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan also responded. In the meantime, Clifford Proulx and others made an attempt to save some of the furniture but were driven from the house by the intense heat, flames and smoke.

As the only water available was in a well, within a few feet of the house, there was nothing the firemen could do to save the burning structure. They directed their efforts toward preventing the flames from spreading to a nearby barn, garage and another dwelling a short distance away. A bucket brigade was formed and water drawn from the deep well was thrown on the roofs of the barn and garage. Chemical was held in reserve for the protection of the nearby dwelling house.

The firemen remained at the scene until after 8 o'clock. In the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Tymcheck, the loss could not be ascertained Sunday evening. It is estimated at about $6,500.

WATERBOUND MACADAM FOR NEWENT HIGHWAY

Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald Sunday announced plans for the construction of 30 miles of new Connecticut highway and two bridges, work upon which will be started immediately after the first of the year as a means of furnishing relief to the unemployment situation. As Commissioner Macdonald announced a few days ago, this work was originally scheduled to begin in March, but was rushed ahead in order that a large number of jobs might be created throughout the state.

There are 13 projects included in the first letting which involves approximately one million dollars worth of construction work. Contractors' bids upon these projects will be received on Jan. 5 and operations will be started within ten days after the announcement of the awards. Other lettings will follow as quickly as plans and specifications for construction can be completed and all highway operations for 1931 and 1932 will be speeded to relieve unemployment.

Although there are several larger projects included among the 13 announced, undoubtedly the most important from the traffic viewpoint is the beginning of grading and draining operations on the Milford cut-off which eventually will carry the four-lane Boston Post road north of Milford center in the manner that the same highway, further east, is shunted away from the central area of Guilford.

Four of the contracts are for work on the Danbury-Torrington highway, Route No. 128. One of these is the largest project in the group. It calls for six miles of reinforced concrete paving in New Milford and Washington. The others cover grading and gravel surfacing in Washington and Litchfield and a bridge over the Bantam river just north of Litchfield.

Among the larger paving jobs in the first letting is the building of nearly six miles of reinforced concrete on Route 101 in the towns of Chaplin and Eastford. This highway runs between Willimantic and Putnam via Eastford.

In all work, contractors will be required insofar as possible to employ labor obtained from the sections in which the operations are being conducted.

The announced projects are as follows:

Towns of Canterbury and Lisbon: About 26,250 feet of waterbound macadam on the Newent road.

Chaplin and Eastford: About 30,884 feet of reinforced concrete on Route No. 101, Willimantic-utnam via Eastford.

East Winrsor: About 7,490 feet of bituminous macadam on Route No. 207.

Litchfield: A reinforced concrete bridge and approaches over the Bantam river on the Torrington-Litchfield road.

Manchester: About 6,835 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Manchester-Rockville road, Route No. 108.

Milford: About 14,505 feet of grading and drainage on the Milford cut-off.

New Milford and Washington: About 31,600 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on Litchfield road, Route No. 128.

Old Saybrook: About 7,055 feet of grading on the Oyster river cut-off on Route No. 1.

Sharon: About 1,200 feet of traprock waterbound macadam at the Schley corner on the Sharon-Amenia Union roads.

Stamford: About 17,795 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the High Ridge road.

Thompson: A concrete encased plate girder bridge and approaches over the Quinnebaug river on the North Woorstock-Quinnebaug road.

Washington: About 9,362 feet of grading and native gravel surface on the Litchfield road, Route No. 128.

Washington and Litchfield: About 5,500 feet of grading and native gravel surface on the Litchfield road, Route No. 128.

Does Not Approve Highway Plan

The proposed appropriation recommended by the state board of finance and control, taking a million dollars from the highway department budget for the improvement of rural roads on the basis of the state paying two-thirds and the community one-third, is worse than useless, according to L. G. Tolles, president of the Connecticut Rural Road Improvement association.

While preliminary statements by officials of the Connecticut Rural Road association have indicated that five million dollars a year for 10 to 15 years, in addition to the regular highway appropriation, would be necessary, no public statement has been as yet made as to just what the association will ask.

Mr. Tolles stated Sunday that just before or shortly after Jan. 1, 1931, the Connecticut Rural Road Improvement association will have a definite statement to make to the public.

PREACHED SUNDAY AFTERNOON AT QUAKERTOWN CHURCH

Mrs. George H. Strouse preached Sunday afternoon at the Quakertown church, Ledyard, on the topic, True and Fake Prophets and How to Distinguish Them. Mrs. Strouse gave seven rules by which a true prophet may be tested.

A false prophet may meet some of these rules but he must meet them all to be a true prophet, she said.

These are times when Satan is deceiving the people and so God sends the true gift of prophecy to unmask the wiles of Satan.

She spoke of the prevalence of spiritualism. Mrs. Strouse said spiritualism is a great deception.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Allen, of Montville, spent the holidays with Mrs. Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Freeland, in Sutton, Mass.

DEATH OF CAPT. CHARLES T. POTTER SUNDAY MORNING

Capt. Charles Tilden Potter, well known sea captain and superintendent of the Norwich Holiness mission, died early Sunday morning at his residence, No. 43 Spruce street, from the infirmities of old age, after an illness of about a week. For more than a quarter of a century he had resided in Norwich, 27 years of this time in the house where he died. He was 85 years old.

Capt. Potter was born in Noank Sept. 11, 1845, the son of James and Grace Potter. At the age of 12 he went to sea, sailing on a ship of which his brother, the late James Potter, was captain. During one of his trips the ship was attacked by pirates and members of the ship were set adrift in an open boat. They survived the ordeal, however. Later, Capt. Potter commanded a boat of his own. For many years before he and his wife came to Norwich he was a member of the fishing fleet running out from Noank.

Capt. Potter for close to 35 years had charge of the Holiness mission on Main street and conducted services there regularly, also at the Learned mission in New London where he resided for six years. He took much pleasure in making models of scenes of Biblical happenings and presented many of these models to missionaries who took them to various parts of the world.

At Noank, on Jan. 1, 1868, Capt. Potter was united in marriage with Martha A Weeks, the daughter of Rufus and Mehitable Weeks. Four children were born to this union, two of whom are living, Charles E. Potter of No. 45 Hedge avenue, and Mrs. Elizabeth Potter Whitney, at home.

He is also survived by his widow. If Capt. Potter had lived until Thursday, he and Mrs. Potter would have celebrated the 63rd anniversary of their marriage.

In the death of Capt. Potter Norwich loses one of its well known citizens. He had a record for generosity and was a true friend to the needy. His many friends learned of his death with sincere regret and deep expressions of sympathy are extended the members of the bereaved family.

ONLY 1500 SEE CHARITY GAME IN WHICH SOUTHERN TEAM DOWNS NORTH

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Charity that suffereth long took an extra measure of punishment today along with 1,500 stragglers and two half frozen squads of football players as a team of southern collegians downed an eleven from the colleges of the north, 7 to 0, on an ice and snow-covered gridiron.

It was the last of five contests arranged in the metropolitan sector in the name of charity but the tiny crowd that turned out and wandered haphazardly along the side lines for the most part failed to pay the expenses of bringing the two elevens together. The failure of the gate receipts also solved the problem of naming the charity for which the match was staged, a question that had not been decided up to game time.

George Davidson, quarterback from the University of Georgia, was the only man in the park able to keep his feet consistently on a playing surface better suited for a hockey game. In one flair in the third quarter, the only sustained effort either team was able to make, Davidson passed and ran 80 yards in three successive plays to bring about the only touchdown of the game.

He took the ball on South's 20 yard line after a Northern punt had rolled over the goal for a touchback and promptly passed to Holland, big end from Tulane, on North's 43 yard line for a gain of 37 yards. On the next play Davidson slipped through right tackle and cut back 18 yards to the 15 yard line. He then passed to Jim Manger, North Carolina halfback, and his southern mate dove along the sidelines for the score. Davidson place kicked the extra point.

For the rest of the struggle, the Southern Blacks, with Phillips of Kentucky at fullback and Rothstein, of Georgia, at half, slithered and slid about on the ice, sanded as though it were a slippery sidewalk. The Northern Ball carriers— Miller, of Penn States; Antos, of Boston college; Swede Hansen, of Temple, and "Bull" Karis, of Carnegie Tech—did likewise, kicking and fumbling frequently and never coming dangerously close to a score. Miller and Hansen made the most of what little there was to the North's attack along with a little substitute, Margolies, of St. John's ((Brooklyn).

Most of the spice was taken from the contest by the failure of Buddy Hackman, Tennessee star, and Red Bethea, of Florida, to remain in Brooklyn long enough to lug leather for the southerners, coached by Stumpy Thomason, former Georgia Tech halfback. They were reported in Dallas, Texas, for an all-star game there.

Despite the abominable playing conditions, the two lines, boasting well-known players of the north and south, made gains through the forward walls all but impossible. Tully, of Pittsburgh, at tackle; Kaplan, of Penn State, and Flannigan of Carnegie Tech, ends; Morelli, of Boston college, and Obst, of Syracuse, guards, turned in fine exhibitions for the north. Brandt, of Tennessee, and Holland, of Tulane, ends; Speer, of Georgia Tech, a stackle, and Forquer, Kentucky guard, stood out in the Southern line. The North was coached by Jack McBride, former Syracuse back now playing pro football, who had charge of the contest.

FOOTBALL RULES DUE FOR OVERHAULING THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Football in particular and amateur sport in general is due for its annual overhauling this week when three important sport bodies meet for their annual conventions.

The now famous suggestion of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia for taking the over-emphasis out of football are due to come up at least twice in the course of the many discussions. The American Football Coaches' association and the Sportsmanship Brotherhood are due to consider that subject officially. Gustavius Town Kirby, a leading figure in intercollegiate sports for many years, is slated for a talk on Dr. Butler's suggestions at the Sportsmanship Brotherhood luncheon tomorrow and is expected to urge action upon them.

In addition to this subject, the coaches are due to rake the football rules over the coals in their customary manner, although no chances are expected to be found on the slate of the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association, which opens its meetings Tuesday.

Many coaches are peeved at the point after touchdown and hope to have that thorn in the sides of coaches removed from the rules. Another suggestion is that the area of the end zones be made 20 yards wide to give pass receivers more room behind the goal lines in which to operate.

EAST-WEST GAME NET $50,000 FOR CHARITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Football's final upset of the 1930 season had been written into the records today; a crop of more than $50,000 had been harvested for charity and the sixth annual east-west game had gone down into history as the hardest fought contest since the classic was established in 1925.

One accurate placekick from the toe of Bus Mills, Oklahoma halfback, brought the West a 3-0 victory over the East after the two all-star squads had battled up and down Kezah stadium field for nearly four periods without a score.

The eastern squad, coached by Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley of Northwestern, went into the game a decided favorite, holding an eight pound weight advantage per man.

Twice in the first half the East missed touchdowns by a narrow margin. Milton Sentenbein, Wisconsin end, was on the end of the receiving side of a pass that netted 46 yards gain but 10 yards from the West's goal he was caught by Bill Clark, Stanford halfback. Frank Baker, Northwestern end, tossed away the second chance to score when he fumbled a pass after snagging it over the goal line. In the third period, Len Cacaluso, fullback from Colgate and the outstanding back for the East, tried to place a kick from the 23 yard line but the ball went wide.

While Mills received full credit for the victory, all agreed the sparkplug of the West's offense was Johnny Kitzmiller, Oregon halfback, who came into the game in the second period. Kitzmiller's appearance revived the spirits of a battered western squad and he reeled off long gains, putting the East on the defensive.

He was the leading ground gainer of the day and directed his team's strategy. Dana X. Bible of Nebraska and Percy Locey of the San Francisco Olympic club, co-coaches of the western team, were lavish in their praise of Kitzmiller. Bible said he was one of the most finished players he had seen perform.

The contest was sponsored by the Shriners' Crippled Children's hospital. In six games to date, western teams have emerged victorious four times. Eastern elevens won in 1926 and 1929.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS GO ON SIGHTSEEING TOUR

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 28. — (AP)— Football players of Alabama and Washington State, opponents in the sixteenth annual intersectional New Year's day clash, thrust the cares of the gridiron behind today and took sightseeing tours through southern California.

Both teams expected to take in points of interest along the Pacific ocean front, including Los Angeles harbor and the naval fleet at anchor.

Practice will be taken up in earnest again tomorrow with the Cougars from the northwest facing probably the hardest workout. Coach Orin "Babe" Hollingbery expects to put his gridsters through a hard session both tomorrow and Tuesday, allowing them to taper down on Wednesday.

Coach Wallace Wade has entirely different ideas for the Crimson tide. He gave his squad its last strenuous drill yesterday. From now on it will be a matter of polishing off in an effort to round the team into a proper physical and mental condition for the struggle.

Unless injury befalls someone before the coming clash, both teams expect to send their strongest array into the Rose tournament game.

Ticket sales have picked up sharply since Christmas but a capacity crowd of 85,000 is hardly likely. Present indications are that 65,000 will witness the struggle, which marks Alabama's third appearance in the annual intersectional classic and Washington State's second.

Neither team has been defeated in a tournament of Roses game, although Alabama was tied by Stanford in its second appearance.

VETERAN FOOTBALL STARS DO NOT FORGET THEIR TRICKS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Excellent team work of former Notre Dame football players who trounced a west-south aggregation here yesterday gave evidence that gridiron grown-ups do not forget their tricks.

Although beaten, 20 to 7, in a charity game by the Notre Dame All-Stars, former University of Southern California football stars also showed they, too, still could play stellar football.

Notable among the players were "Jumping Joe" Savoldi, erstwhile threat from South Bend; Jack Elder, 1929 Notre Dame star; Russ Saunders, former University of Southern California star, and Cotton Wilcox, ex-Purdue player.

Savoldi made all three of his team's touchdowns, two of them in the first quarter. He also lived up to his season record of averaging 11 yards per play, made before he was ousted from Notre Dame recently.

Jack Elder was lauded for ground gaining activities, even though he did not carry the ball across any goal lines. In three plays in the first period Elder carried the ball 71 yards and put it in place for his brilliant teammate to score.

Saunders' able generalship led his west-south mates to their lone counter. It was Saunders' passing attack that drove the ball deep into Notre Dame's territory for the touchdown.

Most of the players of both teams headed for Agua Caliente and recreation over the week end.

INDOOR TRACK SEASON OPENS NEXT SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)— As a sign that winter is really here, the metropolitan indoor track season opens this week with a good list of familiar names on the program of the Columbus council, K. of C., meet which rings up the curtain Saturday.

Six special events are on the big bill and each has drawn its annual quota of stars. The Columbus 500, leading event of the lot, already has drawn entries from Bernie McCafferty of Holy Cross, last year's winner; Charles H. Engle of Yale, Eddie Roll of Newark A. C., Eddie Blake of Boston A. A., Victor Biesiakiewicz and several other stars, with more expected before the lists close.

Leo Lermont, Boston A. A., ace tops the big field for the two-mile run with Joe McCluskey of Fordham, Gus Moore of Brooklyn Harriers, last year's winner; Joe Hagen, former Columbia star, Julius Gilbert, Boston A. A., and Phil Shacklette, Manhattan college, furnishing the opposition.

Four other events have drawn fields almost as good as the two leaders. The big events are the sprint series at 60, 80 and 100 yards, the "Mayor Walker" half mile and mile relay events for Catholic clubs and colleges and for high and preparatory schools.

BASEBALL FOOTBALL BASKETBALL BOXING

THAT ELUSIVE EXTRA POINT

Football coaches, football officials and all other football experts to say nothing of the hundreds of thousands of football fans are aiming their yearly criticism at the elusive extra point after touchdown and are endeavoring to get the rules committee to do away with it all together or at least make it more fair. Some coaches claim that the extra point is all right and should be left alone while others are equally as emphatic that it should go along with the old tandem play and flying wedge. This extra point has decided many a good football game this season and many teams have had exceptionally fine records marred by that single point. Notre Dame remained unbeaten and untied when the Army failed to kick the extra point and the Army on the other hand was a beaten team. If there was no extra point in that game it would have been a tie.

Many coaches claim that they have lost games through the decision of field judges, referees and umpires. The penalty for off side by the offensive team is loss of the point while the same offense on the other side would mean that the point would score. In every other play an off side is a five-yard penalty and many are asking that the penalty on this play be the same, which on the face of it would seem logical. Another argument advanced against the extra point is that many coaches develop kickers whose specialty is kicking the extra point after touchdown. These specialists are rushed into the game for just one play and then taken out which puts a team that has no kicker at a distinct disadvantage.

To this, there is a solution. Why not make it compulsory that the man that makes the touchdown must kick the goal for the extra point. This would prevent the rushing in of a drop or place kick expert to grab off that extra point. But on the whole the extra point is as fair for one as it is for the other and each team has the same privileges as the other.

CHARITY GETS A SETBACK

Down in New York, where charity begins and likewise ends, there was a football game yesterday afternoon for the express purpose of assisting some charity. And now somebody will have to give a charity game to help those who played for charity in the first one. There was a great ballyhoo about a charity game between teams representing the north and the south. Players were corralled from the southland and the northland and they were to do battle for sweet charity's sake. Well the game was played and 1,500 turned out to see it with the result that the gate receipts are insufficient to even defray the expenses to say nothing of helping charity. Now if those who were so set on helping charity and who will have to dig down into the jeans to make up the deficit had given outright to charity in the first place charity would have been so much ahead and they would have saved themselves a lot of headaches.

RANGERS BEAT QUAKERS IN HARD-FOUGHT GAME

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.— (AP)— The New York Rangers added one more to the long string of defeats the Philadelphia Quakers have suffered during the National hockey league season by a 4 to 2 count tonight, but not until after they had fought quite a battle. The victory put the Rangers a full game ahead of the fourth-place Detroit Falcons, who tied Montreal.

The youthful Quakers did not stop trying from start to finish and but for some very poor shooting and good work by Johnny Roach in the Ranger net they might have won.

The Rangers got off to a two-goal lead in the first period on a goal by Butch Keeling and one of the gift variety that came when Milks tried to stop Frank Boucher's shot and deflected it into the net.

It was this lead that gave the Rangers the victory for the Quakers held them on even terms through the rest of the game. Cally McCalmon, cool-headed young Philadelphia wingman, sank two neat shots for the Quakers in the second period to equal counters by Bun and Bill Cook.

INDIANS HOLD COMMANDING ADVANTAGE IN CAN.-AM. LOOP

BOSTON, Dec. 28.— (AP) — The Springfield Indians blasted out three victories during the past week to run their string of consecutive wins up to 13, a new Canadian-American hockey league record. The Providence Reds, the only club in the five-team circuit that appears capable of giving the New York Ranger farm any kind of opposition for league honors, lost ground when they were nosed out last night by the Boston Tigers, greatly strengthened by the acquisition of Benny Grant, former Toronto Maple Leafs player.

This victory boosted the Bengals from last to third place.

The official standing, including games of December 27, follows:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Springfield	13	0	0	26
Providence	7	4	2	16
Boston	5	10	0	10
Philadelphia	4	9	1	9
New Haven	4	10	1	9

FOOTBALL OFFICIALS APPROVE CHANGE IN EXTRA-POINT RULE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.— (AP)— The Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials today, in effect, approved the point after touchdown but suggested that the penalties for fouls occurring while the try for point is made now are "too drastic."

The association pointed out that under the present rules such fouls are penalized by the awarding or disallowing the point which often proves the deciding factor of the game. Instead of awarding or disallowing the point, the association would have such fouls penalized just as they are when they occur in ordinary scrimmage.

Holding its annual meeting in the Hotel McAlpin, the association also took up the much-discussed fumble rule and went on record as favoring a uniform interpretation of that regulation so that on all kicks as well as fumbles "the ball, if recovered before it strikes the ground, may be advanced by the recovering side."

This action recalled the famous touchdown Barres, Yale end, made against Georgia this year, when he grabbed a kicked ball as it bounded out of the arms of a Georgia player and ran to a touchdown. The legality of the score afterwards was questioned.

Regarding the extra point, the association had this to say:

"It is the feeling of the football officials that on the try for point after touchdown, the penalties for fouls which occur are now too drastic. They believe that rules should be enforced in this case just as they would be if the fouls occurred in any ordinary scrimmage.

"Instead of awarding or disallowing the point, which often times is the deciding factor in the game, the officials think a penalty as specified in the rules for that particular offense should be inflicted. For example: A team making the try has three options; namely, to kick the ball, carry it across by rushing, or complete a forward pass in the opponents' end zone.

"If on the try a player of Team B (defensive team) is offside and the try fails, the ball would be placed on the one yard line. This would be a real penalty for that infraction of the rule because the chances of a successful try by rushing would be materially improved with the ball on the one-yard line.

"On the other hand, if the foul is committed by the offense, and the ball placed on the seven yard line or farther back depending upon the penalty, two of the attacking team's three options would be practically eliminated. The distance to the goal line would be too great to chance a running play, and the defense, taking advantage of this fact, could guard more easily against a forward pass.

"In neither case would a game be necessarily decided for such a slight infraction of the rules as offside."

As for the fumble rule the association said:

"Regarding the fumble rule, the officials believe a uniform interpretation should be made, namely, that on all kicks as well as on fumbles from scrimmage, the ball if recovered before it strikes the ground may be advanced by the one recovering."

Hugh C. McGrath of Boston was elected president of the association; W. R. Crowley of New York, vice president; John P. Egan of Pittsburgh, secretary; and E. C. Taggart, Harrisburg, Pa., treasurer.

Members of the board of directors chosen included; Boston district, E. J. O'Brien, D. J. Kelly, T. J. McCabe; New York, Harry Von Kersberg, Ed Thorp, A. L. Farrier.

The suggested rules changes will be referred to the rules committee for action.

The association's meeting served as a preliminary to a week of conferences by the nation's coaches, officials, college athletic authorities and others connected with intercollegiate athletic activities.

The American Football Coaches association meets tomorrow as do the directors of physical education in colleges. An important luncheon of the Sportsmanship brotherhood also will be held with Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette, as the principal speaker.

On Tuesday The National Collegiate Athletic association begins its sessions.

Walter Okeson, commissioner of officials for the Eastern association for the selection of football officials, told that organization that the time was "about ripe" for the formation of a national body to control the assigning of officials to games.

The Eastern association, he said would have a place for 100 official next season.

WILSON LEADS LEAGUE SLUGGERS WITH .723 AVERAGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—As nearly every baseball fan knew long ago, Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs was the leading slugger of the National league last season. The release today of the official percentages and other miscellaneous records of the National league year confirmed that fact.

Wilson, going to bat 585 official times during the season, hit for 423 bases and compiled a slugging average of .723, His nearest rivals were Chuck Klein of Philadelphia and Babe Herman of Brooklyn, who had slugging marks of .687 and .678, respectively. Wilson also batted in 190 runs to eclipse the former league record of 159 he set the year before. He drew 105 bases on balls and struck out 84 times to top the league in both respects.

Another league record fell when 17 players had 100 or more runs batted in. The old mark was 16 men. Wilson accomplished the feat for the fifth [illegible] year, but Jim Bottomley of St. Louis, after doing it for six years straight, fell three short of the 100 mark.

In the club marks, Chicago made the best slugging percentage, .481, and had the most bases on balls, 588, and the most strikeouts, 635. St. Louis batted in 942 runs to establish another league record. The former mark of 933 was made by the Cubs the year before.

The New York Giants proved themselves the best road club in the league by winning 41 games and losing 36 away from home, but three teams made better records when performing on their home fields. The St. Louis Cardinals led in this respect by winning 53 contests and losing only 24 at Sportsmen's park. Brooklyn participated in the greatest number of shutout games, 22, and won 13 of them to top that list as well. Cincinnati was held scoreless ten times.

Sixteen players are listed as playing with two National league clubs during the 1930 season.

FEW BOUTS OF INTEREST SLATED FOR THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—One big day to open the new year includes practically all of the interesting events in the boxing world this week as the cauliflower industry drops back into the depths of the depression that has marked this winter.

There are no fights of any particular importance this week, although a few fairly prominent performers will show their wares on the New Year's day cards. At Boston Thursday afternoon, Roberto Roberti, Italian heavyweight, goes against Jose Santo, 269-pound Portuguese battler, in the scrap which is the biggest in bulk and probably in importance on the week's program. Like Primo Carnera, the last oversize boxer to show his wares in Boston—and who took his first defeat there, Santo probably will get a thorough trial. "Double Roberti" is by no means a midget and has a considerable amount of experience and ability.

Another steady performer, Bruce Flowers of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Harry Dublinsky are the performers in a lightweight scrap at Milwaukee the same afternoon.

The Madison Square Garden program Friday brings together Mateo Osa, Spanish heavyweight, and Pierre Charles of Belgium in the ten round main bout. It is proposed to match the winner against Max Baer, young Californian who made an impressive eastern debut recently.

Other bouts on the week's national program include:

Monday—at New York, Jamaica arena, Al Rowe, Philadelphia, vs. Mel Arago, Peru, lightweights. Ten.

Tuesday —At Indianapolis, Tracy Cox, Indianapolis, vs. Babe Ruth, Louisville, featherweights. Ten.

Wednesday—At Cincinnati, Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, vs. Robert Bernard, Flint, Mich., featherweights. Ten.

Thursday—At Columbus, O., Lou Bloom, Columbus, vs. Cowboy Eddie Anderson, Wyoming, lightweights, ten. At Portland, Ore., Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., vs. Charley Belanger, Winnipeg, light heavyweights, ten.

Friday—At New York, Madison Square Garden, Ralph Ficucello, New York, vs. Johnny Grosso, Mount Vernon, N. Y., heavyweights, en.

At St. Louis—Eddie Shea, Chicago, vs. Andy Martin, Boston, featherweights, eight, Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., vs. Davey Abad, Philadelphia, featherweights, eight. Joey Medill, Chicago, vs. Jackie Brady, Syracuse, N. Y., welterweights, eight, Tommy Grogan, Omaha, vs. Eddie Ran, New York, welterweights, eight. POETRY

A Prayer

Our Father, give us eyes to see
The Light of Life that springs from Thee;
Guard Thou our steps in paths of Right,
And guide us through the darkest night.

Grant us the strength to mend our ways,
To trust in prayer and sing Thy praise;
And if we've lived unlike true men,
Give us the strength to start again.

Bless Thou our friends and those we love,
Bless those who live with Thee above;
Make us Thy love and care to know,
And on us all Thy grace bestow.

If we have wandered from Thy fold,
Mend Thou our lives before we're old;
Give us the wisdom not to wait,
And find at last the hour too late.

Lord, we have followed ways of sin—
Give us Thy still, small voice within;
We who have lived unlike true men,
God grant us strength to start again.

—George O. Gear in Hartford Times.

Credo

This I know
And not much more:
All men pass through
A certain door.

They may come young
And supple as sin
Or brittle as virtue,
And tottering in.

They may be small,
They may be great,
They may come soon,
They may come late.

But come they do!
And all they see
Are Shadows moving Anxiously.

Aye, come they must
And all they hear
Is Darkness breathing
Very near.

Keeping for them,
For them alone,
The filtered silence,
The whitened bone.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S COUNCIL BUSY DURING DECEMBER

The December meeting of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women was held last week in the Diocesan bureau room, Norwich. Unusual demands have been made on the Diocesan bureau this year and the committees of the council are working constantly to meet them. In the Girls' Needlecraft class, connected with the Connecticut council, there are 100 children under the instruction of Mrs George Heroux and her committee. This committee gave a Christmas party and tree for the girls Saturday, December 20. The institutional committee followed its yearly custom of providing Christmas boxes of dainties and gifts for all patients at Uncas-on-Thames who have no relatives or friends. Mrs. P. T. Connell of Norwich Town, was chairman of the committee. The ways and means committee ha sbeen working for over a month on an original plan to raise money. Thus far the results have been very gratifying as reported by the chairman, Miss Margaret Counihan. Miss Anna McGrory, of the Diocesan bureau, expressed appreciation for the donation of several baskets of Thanksgiving dinners from the Children of Mary sodality of St. Patrick's church. The Bible Study class, conducted by Rev. John J. Kelly, is being held every other Friday night in the Diocesan bureau rooms and is very well attended.

For the last five years Frank Elliott, of Sanbornville, N. H., has been blind, but this summer and last winter he has sawed five cords of slabs and six and one-half cords of hardwood and did not injure himself at any time while busy with his saw and ax. When he was stricken with blindness, he was extremely hard of hearing, but since becoming blind his hearing has improved.

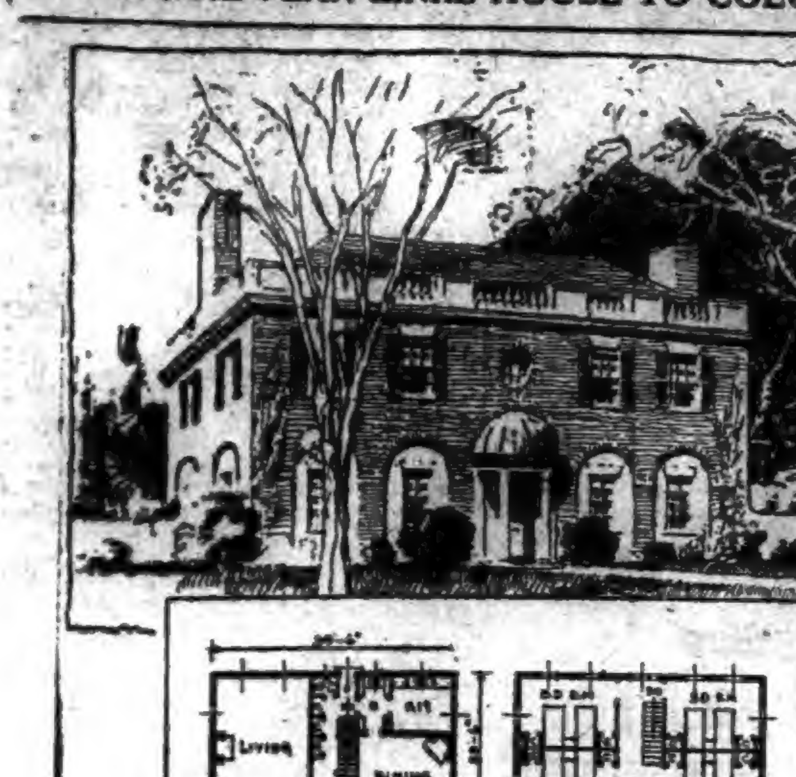
FORMAL PLAN LINKS HOUSE TO COLONIES



This stately Georgian-Colonial home combines formality and ease of living in a manner appealing to those of moderate means and average social activity.

Compactness, with ready access to everything from central halls, downstairs and on the second floor, stands out in the plan. All rooms are amply lighted by windows and all are cross-ventilated. With a foot or two width added, another bathroom may easily be provided at the head of the stairs.

The two features of the Harvard brick exterior which are of special interest are, first, the white-painted wood balustrade about the roof, secondly, the entrance porch motive with its domed copper roof, treated or aged to a weathered green oxide color.

In keeping with the porch is the circular keyed window so common in the colonial period. The house roof is of slate in blue gray, but relieved from severity by variation from light to dark shades.

Window trim, porch columns, door and other woodwork are painted white. The recessed arches about the first floor windows are of stucco in cream or light buff tones. White marble should be used for the key blocks over all windows and for window sills.

Choice of the shades is a matter to be decided by the lady of the house, but to achieve harmony with the exterior light yellow or orange would be distinctive. Shutters are light green.

Designed for a brick house, the plan might easily be followed for one of wood construction. In any case, a home of rare distinction would be the result.

This beautiful residence would be most effectively placed on a lot 75 feet by 100 feet, although a lot as small as 60 by 100 could be used.

While estimates have varied considerably in various localities, it is probably safe to figure the cost between $10,000 and $12,000, depending on local labor and material markets and the choice and quality of materials.

Modern Stairways

If your home begins to seem a bit old-fashioned on the inside, consider your stairway with the impartial eye of an outsider. In many an old-fashioned dwelling the stairway offers an unusual opportunity for modernizing. Often the addition of a new and graceful balustrade is just the touch needed. Many plain, unattractive stairways have been thus modernized, adding instead of detracting from the beauty of the home.

DECALCOMANIA IS NOW USED IN HOME

There are at most very few persons who cannot remember the time during their younger days when the transferring of decalcomanias from a bit of paper onto the backs of their hands or their arms was one of life's big thrills. There was something mysterious about this process which attracted and held the atention of every last one of them.

The decalcomania, once merely a child's toy, has evolved into an important item in the decoration of a home. The original principle is now being used in transferring permanent designs onto furniture, walls, doors and cupboards. After the transfer has been made to the desired object the design is covered with ordinary mucilage or glue. It should be dried thoroughly, preferably over night. The paper is then soaked away with clear water which will remove any superfluous mucilage left on the woodwork. It is well to shellac over the design to preserve it.

Over the design, until it is transferred, there is, in most cases, a metallic coating of the color of gold, bronze or aluminum which partly or wholly conceals the colors. When transferred they appear in full and with a brilliancy peculiar to them for this metallic element is the source of the beautiful lustre of most Chinese and Japanese designs and certain of the tropical birds.

Hundreds of designs are available to home owners who wish to beautify their homes. One of the most popular types of decalcomanias is the inlaid design with natural or stained wood as a background. These are particularly atractive when used on the outside of closet doors.

FLORAL WALL PAPER IS FOREVER POPULAR

A conventional choice of wallpaper but one that many people like and that never goes out of date, is the stripe floral pattern, on a white ground with alternating stripes of white satin finish that give a shiny ribbon-like quality to the pattern. This type of wall decoration originated with the French use of wide satin ribbons hung on the wall surfaces.

The paper looks like the Dresden ribbons—pink and blue and yellow flowers with green leaves in the center, and the satin bands at either side. In a bedroom hung with this paper, the furniture may be painted white, with white woodwork, and white dotted swiss curtains at the window. Over them so the room will not be glaring, rose mull draperies bound with an inch band of French blue would be nice. The bedspread may be of rose and blue, and the rugs a soft taupe.

A small girl would love such a bedroom as this one. The white enamel lamp by the bed should have a rose shade. Many lingerie pillows, several pots of flowering plants, and other dainty touches dear to a small girl's heart will complete the picture. Pink and white always appeal to little girls for some reason. The more they are allowed to help in refurnishing their rooms, the better they will like the finished result. Instruction and experiment in making pretty things for their rooms will create in them an inherent good taste and appreciation of daintiness. It becomes natural for them to use their hands efficiently.

FITTING BATHROOM INTO ODD SPACES

If you are planning to have an extra bathroom put into your home, don't be discouraged if the only room available has odd corners or jogs in it. Bathrooms no longer need to be perfectly square or rectangular in shape.

Years ago plumbing fixtures were large and even bulky. They were designed to fulfill a purely utilitarian function. Modern plumbing equipment, however, is made in a great variety of shapes and sizes. Skillful plumbing contractors who are familiar with the products of all manufacturers of plumbing equipment know which fixtures may be most advantageously employed in certain tag ends of space.

For instance, an odd nook that seems hopeless may be converted into a convenient recess for a lavatory. A closet three feet square may be utilized as a shower compartment. A space under the stairs may be converted into a downstairs lavatory.

It is not always necessary to put all three fixtures in one room. In fact, more people are able to use the same fixtures if they are not all in the same room. Suppose the only available space appears to be two closets which are not adjoining and that neither is large enough to accommodate all the fixtures. The logical procedure would be to place the tub and shower in one closet and the lavatory and closet combination in the other.

POTTERY FOR WALL FLOWER HOLDERS

If you prefer plain plastered or textured walls to those which are paper-covered, an occasional pottery flower holder, suspended from a wrought iron holder, proves extremely attractive. The modern potter is doing much to make these wall flower and vine holders unusually artistic, thereby making it possible to secure something suitable for virtually any situation. Walls of a single color or of varied colors can be fitted with pottery which blends naturally, both in form and color. Then, too, the many designs offered in wrought-iron holders make it possible to secure an individual effect with this also.

One attractive feature of all this is the fact that a suspended flower or vine holder seldom gives the impression of over-ornamentation. It can be overdone, like everything else, but when used sparingly and on walls which otherwise would be barren of ornamentation, a holder or two can do much to lend grace and beatuy to a room, hallway, stairway or balcony.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Path in The Sky

The woods were dark, and the night was black,
And only an owl could see the track;
Yet the cheery driver made his way
Through the great pine woods as if it were day.

I asked him, "How do you manage to see?
The road and the forest are one to me."
"To me as well," he replied, "and I Can only drive by the path in the sky."
I looked above, where the treetops tall
Rose from the road an ebon wall,
And lo! a beautiful starry lane
Wound as the road wound and made it plain.
And since, when the path of my life is drear
And all is blackness and doubt and fear,
When the horrors of midnight are here below
And I see not a step of the way to go,
Then, ah! then I can look on high
And walk on earth by the path in the sky.

—By Amos R. Wells.

Pals

In childhood memories I meet
The eager patter of your feet—
Dear little dog that loved me so,
My friend and playmate long ago.
You followed gladly where I led,
Slept close beside me while I read;
Always together did we fare,
A happy, vagrant, venturous pair.

How patiently beside the gate
For my return from school you'd wait.
Brown eyes and loving still I see
Full of devotion, turn to me.
Through sunny fields, by woodland streams,
Often I roam with you in dreams;
Each picture of the past holds you;
Though but a dog, no pal more true.

Dogs have no souls?—Well, that I doubt.
Could you have loved so if without
A soul? My happiness you shared,
When troubles came, you knew and cared.
You never failed me once, old friend,
Your love was faithful to the end.
How much they miss of childhood's joy,
The dogless girl, the dogless boy!

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

At this time with the ground covered with snow, making it difficult for birds to secure food, it would not be amiss for the members of the Wide Awake circle to place suet for the feathered folk in places where they can easily be found. In this connection the following should be of interest:

Among the interesting sights of the west coast region are the partridge-like birds with striking plumage and conspicuous black crests that stand up prominently above their heads. These are quail of which there are several closely related species in this part of the country.

Most conspicuous of these is the California quail, a plump brown and bluish-gray bird with black and white markings, scaled cape and belly, and a crescent-shaped crest larger at the top than at the bottom. It and its sub-species, the valley quail, frequent the lower regions and are most often seen because of their less secretive habits. They are comparatively fearless of man where they are protected, and gather in large numbers about many of the semi-wild parks of their native haunts.

When in California, one would never tire of watching them feeding on the mast of the live oaks just above Fern Glen in Griffith park on the outskirts of Los Angeles. As one approached their feeding ground, they would scurry off to cover with necks outstretched and crests dropped forward, with now and then a questioning call of "Who-are-you-ah?" But as soon as the intruder was quietly seated, they would reappear a few at a time, until the whole band would be picking up the small acorns almost at one's very feet.

The mountain, or plumed quail, is a bird of the higher regions, and is more cautious about being seen. It is a trifle larger than the California quail, is much the same in general color, but without the scaled effect and lacking the heavy white line above the eye. Its crest is longer and more slender, and instead of curving toward the front, points straight up or is dropped back in horizontal line. This is a somewhat more northern bird than its relative and used to greater cold, but when heavy snows fall on the mountains it migrates to the lower regions where food is more easily obtained.

The feeding habits of these species are such as to make them beneficial to the land, as their diet consists chiefly of grasshoppers, beetles, ants, and other insects, weed seeds, and wild berries.

In the west, as in the east, quail are considered the finest of game birds, and the original numbers of California and mountain quail have been greatly reduced by pot hunters. They are now, however, protected by law throughout most of their range, and their continued existence in comparative abundance is well assured.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Changes In Communication

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to the Wide Awake circle for a long time, but have enjoyed reading the letters very much. I hope you will like my letter on communication and transportation.

In the early days the Indians communicated by smoke signals or by beating drums. They traveled by foot. As the years went by everything progressed. The people now sent letters. These were not common, however, for the one who received the letter had to pay its postage and that was a great deal more than it is today. About once a month a postman rode through the country with the mail. Travel by water was important and rafts and small boats were of great use to travelers. When the coach came into use it was quite popular.

Today we have marvelous inventions which are important factors in communication and transportation. We have the telephone, telegraph, cable, mail service, wireless, and radio, besides boats, trains, automobiles and airplanes.

It is a remarkable age in which we are living, don't you think so?

Hans And Grethel

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written a story to the Wide Awake circle. I hope I will succeed in winning a prize book. My story is as follows:

On a bright December morning, long ago, two thinly clad children were kneeling upon the bank of a frozen canal in Holland. The sun had not yet appeared, but the gray sky was parted near the horizon and its edges shone crimson with the coming day.

Now and then some peasant woman poising a well-filled basket on her head, came skimming over the glassy surface of the canal, or a lusty boy, skating to his day's work in the town, cast a good natured grimace toward the shivering pair as he flew along. Meanwhile with a vigorous puff and pull, the brother and sister seemed to be fastening something upon their feet, not skates, certainly, but clumsy pieces of wood, narrowed and smoothed at the edge, and pierced with holes through which were threaded strings of rawhide.

In a moment the boy arose, and with a careless "come onGrethel", glided easily across the canal, and in another moment they were laughing together, as hand in hand, they flew along, never thinking whether the ice would bear or not, for in Holland ice is generally an all winter affair.

Just then a clear voice was heard calling Hans, Grethel.

"It's over mother" said Hans looking solemn in an instant. By this time the canal was gilded with sunlight. The pure morning air was very delightful, and skaters were generally increasing in numbers. It was hard to obey the summons, but Hans and Grethel were good children. Without a thought of yielding to the temptation to linger, they pulled off their skates, leaving half the knot tied. Hans with his great square shoulders and bushy yellow hair, towered high above his little sister as they trudged homeward. He was fifteen years old and Grethel was twelve. He was a solid, hearty looking boy, with honest eyes and a brow that seemed to bear "goodness within" just as the little Dutch summer house wears a motto over its portal. Gretel was little and quick. Her eyes had a dancing light in them and while you looked at her cheek the color paled and deepened just as it does upon a bed of pink and white blossoms when the wind is blowing.

Airplane Did Stunts

Dear Uncle Jed: A few years ago I was living on a farm at Bishop's crossing. One day an airplane landed in our mowing lot. The pilot took up passengers at $5 a ride, each ride being of about five minutes duration. Some times the pilot would go up and do stunts to show the public that air travel was as safe as traveling on land. He would loop the loop, coming down with a nose dive.

One of the most interesting stunts he did was a tail spin. I thought he would never right his plane in time to make a perfect landing, but to our surprise he did and sailed through the air again. Come on, fly with the birds, be a sport!, was his cry. Once, when he was taking off, he barely grazed the heads of the people as he flew over the field. It was very interesting to watch the plane. I think the airplane is a wonderful invention, and I believe we should all praise Mr. Wright, the inventor.

Camps At Lake

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about camping last summer. My brother and I went out to the lake and stayed a week with my aunt. She has a big tent out there. We went in swimming three times a day. Then we helped to get the meals ready and after we got through eating we helped with the dishes.

My dad came out every night to bring us our milk and lots of other good things to eat. We gave him some berries that we picked to take home to mother and she made pies with them for us.

I was sorry when my vacation was over because we were having a good time. I hope we can go again next summer. I hope you enjoy reading my letter.

Visits Williams Park

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our trip to Roger Williams park this summer. We started around noontime. It was a very nice ride. We got there around two o'clock. We drove around the park first, then we ate our lunch. I got through first, so I went down to visit the music temple. We couldn't get in, its only open from 9 o'clock a. m. till 6 o'clock at night. We got home very tired but happy.

Viaduct And Bridge

Dear Uncle Jed: As this is the first time I have ever written to you, I'll write about the new viaduct and bridge. The work was begun a year ago last spring. The men worked night and day putting in the cement piers across the river. They worked night and day because they were afraid of high water. The steel girders in the bottom of the bridge weigh 23 tons. The steel workers came from Boston. They riveted the girders together. The bridge is about a half mile long. The cement mixer was hauled from Providence on a freight car. The mixer laid cement from the Quinebaug bridge to Tadpole bridge. The trucks loaded with stone, sand and cement would back up to the apron of the mixer. It was then dumped into a scoop, then onto the road. An automatic smoother run on tracks would level it off. The work on the road drew a large crowd of sightseers. The road has been completed and the traffic is running both ways. They next made cement posts for the electric lights. The bridge was opened Thanksgiving day. The borough electricians put up the electric light globes. I hope the Wide Awakes will like my story.

CLARENCE DAVIS, age 14.

A Surprise Trip

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to you for some time, so I thought I would make an attempt to tell you of my experience trip to Roger Williams park. One Sunday noon, a friend of mine called me on the telephone and asked if I cared to go on a picnic with her and her parents. I accepted the invitation and they called for me a little later. We rode toward Providence and ended up in Roger Williams park. We stopped at a nice shady spot by the lake and decided to picnic there. After we had lunched we went and looked at the animals, then we walked around the park and admired the beautiful flowers.

When it was nearly time to go home, an elderly lady came along and asked my friend's father if he could direct her to a certain place in the park. He was not certain as to where the place was, so he kindly offered to drive her around the park to find it.

We did this and finally found the place. Then we also stopped to admire the beautiful flower bed for which she had been looking. After that we took her home as she lived a long way from the park.

She had a beautiful flower bed at her home which she invited us to look at. When we were about to go, she picked a lovely bouquet of flowers and gave them to my friends, then thanking them kindly for their kindness. On our return home, I also thanked them kindly for the enjoyable ride and picnic.

Christmas Eve

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the third time I have written to you. I won once and hope this will be the second time. I think your books are very interesting. The name of this story is Christmas eve. In the olden days in dear old France there lived many poor families. Christmas eve you would always see turkeys and all kinds of good things in the rich people's houses. It made the poor people feel very bad. Every Christmas eve a group of people were sent out, with baskets of fruit and everything that was needed for the needy people. They would put their wooden shoes out on the window sills and Saint Nick would put something in them. I think that this was very nice of St. Nick, don't you?

EVA LEPAGE, age 13.

My Swedish Christmas

Dear Uncle Jed: Here is how I spent my Christmas, two years ago, in Sweden. I hope you Wide Awakes will enjoy my story. Early in the morning before the sun was up, grandpa hitched up the sleigh for a long ride to church. On our way home we distributed presents to the neighbors. When the clock struck one we rushed to the table. After saying a prayer we ate a delicious meal. In the afternoon we sang Christmas carols which were something like ours. Around nightfall we were tired, but not enough to make us want to go to bed, for at this hour of day, contests were being held. After two or three hours of this, the crowd slowly drifts away. Soon the lights are low and everyone is sleeping peacefully.

My Christmas this year was right here in the dear old United States.

DORIS GOMOND, age 12.
Norwich.

A Happy Moment

Dear Uncle Jed: I will tell you about one of the happiest moments of my life. It was just before Christmas last year, while I was visiting my grandmother in Jewett City. My aunt and uncle were just going out Christmas shopping and I was wishing that I might go, too, when suddenly my uncle said, "Don't you want to come?" I said, "Yes, I would like to very much," so I got ready in a very short time. When we got to the stores, I saw very many things that I liked, but most of all there was a large airplane that I was wishing might be mine. I was so busy looking at the toys that I hardly noticed what my aunt and uncle were buying. When we got home my uncle handed me a large package and said, "I hope you'll like it." Imagine my surprise when I opened the parcel and found the large airplane I had wanted so much. I was a very happy boy that day.

FRANCIS BESSETTE, age 10.

My Book

Dear Uncle Jed: I am very thankful for the book you sent me. When I got it, I was in a hurry to see what it was. I unwrapped it and the name of it was the S. P. Mystery. I was very glad I wrote the story without knowing I was going to get a book.

MISS GERTRUDE BOULEY.
Plainfield.

Gave Christmas Play

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you a few things about the Center school entertainment last night. The class sang many Christmas carols followed by piano and banjo solos. Then came the big play. I took the part of an angel and my brother a king. Several children also took part in this play and it was a success. Our Christmas tree was well decorated and loaded with presents, candy and other good things.

Every child received a gift from their teacher. I don't want to forget to mention that dear old Santa Claus was there to make us feel merry and happy.

Thanks to the teachers for making this joyful evening. A merry Christmas to all.

DOROTHY GRENIER, age 10.

Practice Makes Perfect

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide Awakes. I am going to tell you about making butterscotch. One afternoon, having nothing to do, I thought of making butterscotch. First I got my pan and then the ingredients. I mixed them together, stirring constantly over the fire. After it had boiled for about 20 minutes, I poured it into a buttered pan and put it away to cool. After putting it away I went outside for about half [illegible] I returned. I took a glance at it and the first thing I noticed was that I had forgotten to cut it into squares. I tipped the dish right over and it came out in one whole piece. A little later my mother, who had been out, came home and noticed what I had done. She had already told me more than once not to forget those little things. I told her that the next time I make anything I would bear in mind that "Practice makes perfect."

WEEKLY REVIEW OF BUSINESS AFFAIRS

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Business approached the sign-post of a new year during the past week with some of the old time landmarks dimly visible, indicating that the road to recovery lay somewhere ahead, but with the way directly in front obscured by a fog of inactivity.

A period of quiet at the end of the year is, of course, expected, but the late let-down started from such low levels this year that it has resulted in a degree of passivity that gives little clue as to what immediate recuperation may be expected.

The Guaranty Trust comany's monthly survey, to be published tomorrow, says "at the end of the year, current developments contain little or nothing on which to base a prediction for an early recovery of trade. Present indications in the business situation show signs of promise, but are without any definite assurance of nearby change in trend."

The survey points out that the continuing ease of money rates and the strength of the credit situation, together with a certainty that a considerable shortage of goods is accruing, are facts that support the conclusion reached by many that a quickening of general business activity may be expected by late spring.

"It seems reasonable to assume," it continues, "that with the harvesting of the 1931 crops and the furtherance of trade adjustments, the last half of next year will show more progress, and that 1932 should witness substantial recovery from the depression. Economic precedent and business history seem to support such views."

As a light upon current conditions, business circles are now especially interested in a full measure of the volume of holiday trade, statistics for which will not be immediately available. Bradstreets' states, however, that reports indicate a physical volume of goods comparing favorably with a year ago, but that the dollar volume in various centers was from 10 to 30 per cent below last year.

Year-end shut-downs for inventory purposes have cut steel operations to around one-third of capacity, but substantial recovery from this extraordinarily low level is regarded as virtually assured after the turn of the year. In the Youngstown area, some plants are resuming operations this week. Motor manufacturers are still stepping up production of new models here and there, but aggregate output is held down by the closing of the Ford plants until January 5.

Steel producers have been experiencing considerable forward inquiry from consumers for materials to meet first quarter requirements, but a good measure of its extent will not be available until United States Steel's unfilled tonnage report is published, a fortnight hence. A gain of nearly 8 per cent over November is the seasonal average, but in view of the unusually low level of operations, many observers would not be surprised to see a somewhat larger gain.

The week's business statistics generally reflect little but the year-end quiet, and conditions already known. Bank clearings for the latest week showed a substantial increase, reflecting holiday currency demands.

Reduction of the New York federal reserve bank's rediscount rate from 2 1-2 to 2 per cent, a new low, was followed by a drop from 3 1-2 to 3 at the Cleveland bank. While it has been demonstrated earlier in the year that easy money alone cannot stimulate business recovery, the further cut in the New York rate was generally regarded in Wall street as a constructive move, both in its national and international aspects.

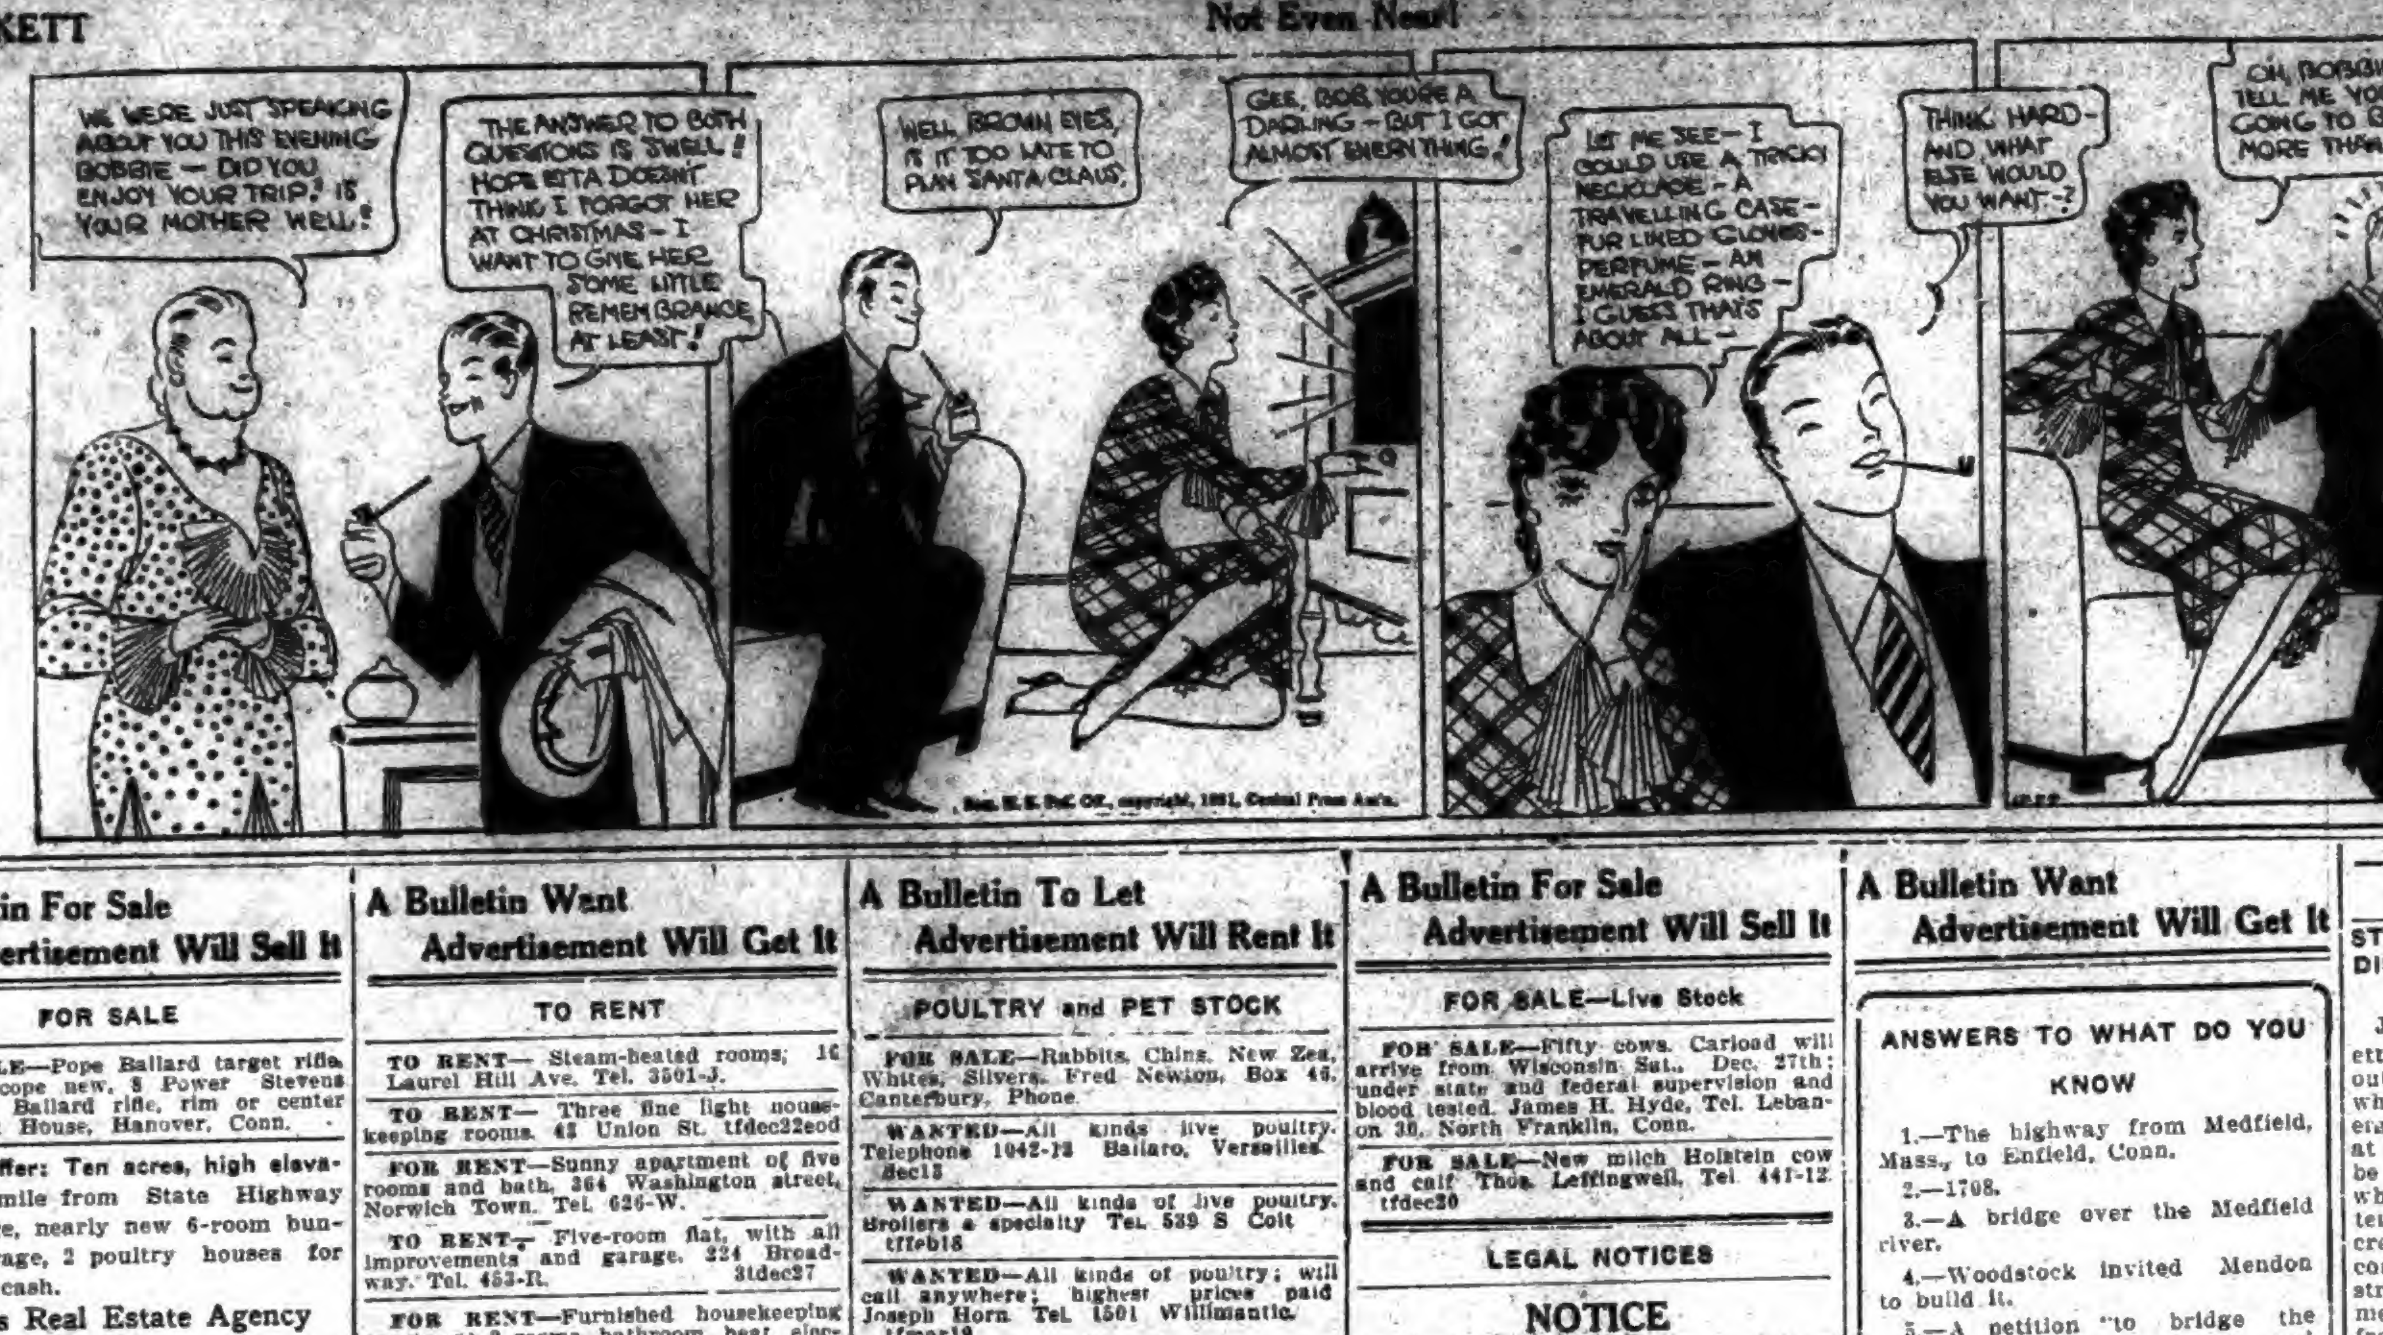
ETTA KETT Not Even Near! —By PAUL ROBINSON



WE WERE JUST SPEAKING ABOUT YOU THIS EVENING BOBBIE — DID YOU ENJOY YOUR TRIP? IS YOUR MOTHER WELL?
THE ANSWER TO BOTH QUESTIONS IS SWELL! HOPE ETTA DOESN'T THINK I FORGOT HER AT CHRISTMAS — I WANT TO GIVE HER SOME LITTLE REMEMBRANCE AT LEAST!
WELL, BROWN EYES, IS IT TOO LATE TO PLAN SANTA CLAUS?
GEE, BOB, YOU'RE A DARLING — BUT I GOT ALMOST EVERYTHING!
LET ME SEE — I COULD USE A TRICKY NECKLACE — A TRAVELLING CASE — FUR LINED GLOVES — PERFUME — AN EMERALD RING — I GUESS THAT'S ABOUT ALL — THINK HARD — AND WHAT ELSE WOULD YOU WANT—?
OH, BOBBIE — DON'T TELL ME YOU'RE GOING TO BUY ME MORE THAN THAT!

JEWETT CITY, Dec. 28.—The Jewett City Creamery company passed out of existence Saturday afternoon when at a meeting of the stockholders it was voted to dissolve. Business at the plant on East Main street will be discontinued. Stanley Winroth, who has been carrying on a milk pasteurizing business, will vacate the creamery property. The creamery company's holdings on East Main street include a story and a half tenement, remodelled twenty years ago from the one-time ice house, the creamery plant itself and a fine building lot bounded on the street front by the B. C. Bliss property. The estate of Samuel G. Norman holds a $7,000 mortgage on the property, which will be not much more than met by the property's value. The equipment of the plant at present is placed at $1,500.

The holdings of stock, mostly local, is included in 160 shares whose face value is $4,000, at $25 per share. As near as can be reckoned this stock will be worth barely half its par value. The records show that the creamery company was organized as a co-operative association under the laws of the state in 1888. The first issue of stock amounted to $3,200, which from time to time has been increased. During its first years, at the times when the late Arthur C. Ladd and following him, Joseph E. Leonard, were superintendent, and in later years when B. C. Bliss was butter-maker and superintendent, no institution was ever more thriving or financially more successful. The first butter maker was M. G. Young. At his death, B. M. Smith was engaged, and later B. C. Bliss. The last named was a master of his trade; for many years he manufactured a grade of butter that was unsurpassed. For a period of more than twenty years the output was never sufficient in quantity to supply the demand.

The Norwich trade, from 1890 to 1900, was handling every pound it could get over and above that sold in local stores. For several years patronage from such places of business as the Wauregan hotel, A. T. Otis and J. M. Young had to be scaled every day to half their orders, and all this time there was a steady and insistent demand for bulk cream by the gallon.

At one time during Mr. Leonard's term as superintendent, a New York firm got hold of a few tubs of fresh butter from the Jewett City Creamery. It seemed to suit the metropolitan taste for the unsalted product, to the extent that they sent a representative of the butter exchange here, who fairly begged to have the entire daily output shipped to New York by boat every night; but the local trade would listen to no such arrangement. For many years the patrons all through this great milk producing belt, used the one-time Cooley creamer, in which device the cans of milk were submerged in ice water. The cream rising on top was sold, not by the quart or pound, but by graduated spaces on the side of the glass gauges which were set into the metal cans. In later years the cream separator supplanted this early method.

Of the several butter makers who ever operated the creamery, Mr. Bliss was the leader; he came here with a record of butter-making in Vermont, New York state and Massachusetts, that was unsurpassed. He grew up in the business and knew its every process, from both commercial and chemical standpoints. It was he who boomed the buttermilk trade and taught the farmers its benefit and value as a food for swine. Some of the answers as to why the decline of the company are found in the statement by Daniel L. Phillips. "A large number of farmers have shipped their milk to Boston and Providence during the years of the creamery's existence. If more of the milk produced locally could have been directed to the creamery, overhead expenses could have been cut down and larger profits realized by its patrons."

Stanley Winroth, who has been operating the pasteurizing plant, would doubtless have been successful in his venture had the demand for pasteurized milk been more general. Such is not the case in Jewett City, where a dozen milk peddlers leave the fresh product every morning. The proposition to pass a borough law to the effect that all milk used in Jewett City be pasteurized was flatly turned down at a public meeting at which the warden presided. The Rioux hall was packed; milk experts were here from Hartford, but the vote to reject the pasteurizing proposition was carried more than two to one.

Methodist Christmas Festival

The Christmas day program at the Methodist church was as follows: Santa Claus, Gilbert Miner; chairman, Rev. J. W. Carter; recitations, Patricia Winroth, Mabel Winroth, Dorothy Jeffers, Alfred Winroth, Alice Rourke, Flossie Lewis, Margaret Chase, Clarence Chase, Chauncey Chase, Joseph Wharton, Edith Keach; cornet solo, by Norton Gardiner; violin solos, by Lucille McCluggage; banjo, Russell Brand; mouth organs, Mary Lewis and Reginald Lewis. Gifts from the tree and candy were given out by Santa Claus. Carols were sung by the audience during the program.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES WIN AFTER SHARP CONTESTS

One hundred and thirty-five of the democratic voters of the borough were present Saturday evening at one of the liveliest caucuses ever held for the purpose of making nominations for the January election. With the exception of auditor and bailiff, every nomination was decided following a sharp contest. Joseph H. McCarty was moderator and Alphérie LeClair was clerk. The nominations were: Burgess, John McDermott; clerk and treasurer, John F. Barnett; collector of taxes, John W. Blake; assessor, Eudor LeClaire; bailiff, John McKenna; auditor, Joseph H. Stafford.

SNOWFALL 19 INCHES IN LESS THAN A WEEK

A check-up on Saturday's near-blizzard shows a 5-inch snow fall, making a total of 19 inches that has fallen here within less than one week. This amount equals the snow measurements of the last two winters put together, and is more than has fallen in any one winter since the memorable snowy winter of 1922, when seventeen storms came one after another, only a comparatively short distance apart, to pile up a total of over three feet. The first 14 inch fall, that came to provide the decidedly "white" Christmas, was decreased by about one-half by the 12 hours of rain that preceded the shift of wind Saturday to bring on the baby blizzard. Game wardens reported Sunday the woods and game bird covers all through this section to be packed with partly frozen snow. They fear for the well-being of the more than 59 flocks of quail, that have grown and thrived in this section since they have been protected by the game laws.

A largely attended meeting of Pachaug Community club was held Friday evening, all declaring that the excellence of the program paid them for braving the storm. The committee of arrangements was, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Medick, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell and Raymond Campbell.

The opening songs in which all joined were Joy to the World and Silent Night. The song leader was Harold Geer with Miss Christine Burdick at the piano. The three Beldado Bros, from Norwich, entertained on the banjo, guitar and violin. The local numbers included: Recitations, Christmas Arithemtic, Phyllis Campbell, and Which is Bert, Alice and Royal Holmes; reading, Too Late for the Train, Mrs. Elwood Newton; Community chorus, It Came Upon the Midnight Clear. Varied selections by the Beldado Bros. closed the program. Dancing followed to music by the Norwich entertainers, with Professor Medick, prompter. A lunch served was of cookies, pop corn balls, cake and coffee. The next meeting is Jan. 29, the committee being Mr. and Mrs. George Edmond, Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood and Miss Elsie Lord.

Tree For 200 Children

Ashland club celebrated Christmas day for over two hundred children with a tree on which were useful gifts, toys and candy. A special concert was given by the band, under direction of Fred Bourque, and an entertainment by Helen Skoczylas, Mary and Julia Novakowski, Winnie Shorey, Jennie Mislaszek and Cecile and Rita Belisle. Louis Masse officiated as a very active Santa Claus. The evening previous the club enjoyed a Christmas tree with band program. The rooms were elaborately decorated for the holiday season.

A notice was given in the various churches Sunday, asking that contributions of clothing be brought to the Red Cross room Mondays and Fridays from 2 until 4:30 o'clock. A number of children from 2 to 15 years of age, are in need of warm winter clothing, shoes and rubbers.

Santa Claus and the stork traveled in company Christmas day, when a visit was made to J. B. Palmer's Round Hill farm, and one of his thoroughbred Guernsey cows became the mother of twin calves. The new arrivals at the Palmer stables are a bull and heifer.

NEW MODES FOR HOSTESS, SPORTS AND STREET

FLAT FURS CHIC; FLUFFY KINDS LOSE POPULARITY

PARIS, Dec. 28—(AP)—"You may have your fur as you like it—so long as you like it flat."

Such is the Paris winter edict on pelts which it is wearing in more devious and interesting ways right now than it has for many a season.

Fluffy fox and wolf pelts, extremely popular as coat trimmings last winter, are taking second place this year in the daytime fur mode. The vogue is rich, but a bit more subdued. Black and white are color favorites.

Broadtail, galyak and Persian lamb made into collars, cuffs, coatops and entire coats are the order of the day in long models, while in jackets one sees the same furs as well as ermine cut in narrow strips and pieced between with other pelts.

Ermine, always a Parisian favorite, in white for both daytime and evening, has branched out this season in both new colors and designs.

Now it is worn by day in beige, creme and grey in full length models as well as trimming for coats, the latter use promising to be popular this spring.

For evening wraps white ermine reigns, although it is seen in a dozen different designs.

There seems to be no incorrect length in evening wraps this winter. Almost everything is worn, from little waist-length capes and coats of ermine to richly furred long velvet wraps falling to the wearer's heels.

The most popular length, however, is three-quarters, almost invariably longer in the back than in front.

Some of these are slightly fitted, but as many more are straight and almost without exception collars and cuffs are large.

BALL OF WAX PERFUME NEW FEMININE BAUBLE

PARIS, Dec. 28—(AP)—Perfume balls are a new bauble to delight feminine hearts.

They are about the size of a marble, covered with bright blue, red or green enamel and etched with fine gold lines. The hollow center is filled with wax perfume of the wearer's favorite scent.

They may be carried in a handbag for ultiarian purposes or suspended on a fine chain worn about the neck.

PALM BEACH TO HAVE FIRST GRAND OPERA THIS WINTER

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 28—(AP)—Although Palm Beach is far off the theatrical track, the winter resort this year will have its first grand opera.

The city also is to have a season of drama.

Announcement of Muriel McCormick's Palm Beach Playhouse venture, which will introduce drama, has been followed by news that she Romany Chorus, which plays an important part in the resort's winter life, will stage "Il Pagliacci" al fresco at the fashionable Everglades club between Feb. 1 and 10.

Ernesto Dodds, Argentine baritone, will be a guest artist, singing the role on Tonio.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Genius in Youth

Billy, aged 13, rates so high on psychological tests that he falls into group of exceptionally gifted children.

His class work has always been excellent, but occasionally his conduct has left something to be desired. His teachers in the past have been sympathetic and understanding.

This year, however, he immediately began getting into difficulties and it was not long before his mother was called in to confer with the new teacher.

As Billy's mother walked into the room, the teacher drew herself up and said, "So you're Billy's mother, and I suppose you have been told he is a genius. Well, let me tell you he has a lot of things to learn, no matter how smart he is or I won't keep him in my class." It developed then that Billy was objectionable because his hands were dirty, his hair uncombed and his clothes untidy.

The teacher's opening sentence gave her away. As the interview went on, it became increasingly clear that her real objection to Billy had nothing to do with his appearance. Billy, it seemed, had an inconvenient way of asking perfectly sincere questions which she was unable to answer. He also annoyed her by demanding reasons, by working out problems in his own way, and by questioning certain statements in his history book.

Perhaps one of the most important qualifications a teacher should have is the ability to accept without loss of poise the fact that she may have under her tutelage a child who is almost as intelligent as she is. A teacher who is jealous of such intelligence and who feels inferior before it may well do him incalculable harm.

WINTER CAMPING FOR GIRLS IS URGED AS HEALTH TONIC

BRIARCLIFF, N. Y., Dec. 28—(AP)—Snow, ice and the cold winds of winter aren't to halt the outdoor camp life of Girl Scouts.

Members of the Girl Scout organization from coast to coast are being urged more than ever this year to enjoy the outdoors through every season. National headquarters this winter is setting an example which the rest of the nation is urged to follow. It is keeping Camp Andree, national Girl Scout camp here, open all during the cold months for week-end outings

Chopping wood, tobogganing, skiing, hiking and skating are the forms of exercise Girl Scouts are urged to take part in to keep healthy.

SPECIAL SCHOOLING URGED FOR BACKWARD CHILDREN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 — (AP) — Modified programs for backward children should begin in the second grades, Miss Clara Bassett, psychiatric consultant for the National education association, says:

"A large percentage of delinquent and truant children with whom the school has to deal definitely come from this group of intellectually dull, border-line and defective children who are unable to succeed in the regular classes," she says.

"Little effort has been made to arrange a greatly modified curriculum for these children to include trades and manual arts and other subjects more suited to their needs."

Gold Beads, Pearls.

PALM BEACH, Dec. 28—(AP)—Fragile beauty is embodied in the evening bags shown at Palm Beach. One bag in envelope style was in white faille silk, covered with tiny gold beads and seed pearls. The beads were so small they appeared to be threads.

Another in pouch shape featured intricate hand embroidery. The clasp was of carnelians and lapis stones. Other bags in petit point boast of carnelians in the mountings.

Vests Gain Importance.

PARIS, Dec. 28—(AP)—Vests are becoming matters of increasing importance.

Sometimes vests of flat fur, such as galyak or breitschwanz, are worn with tailleurs, while sports suits often display jersey vests of contrasting color.

A grey jersey model has a vest of dark green jersey, fashioned in pointed design.

Velvet and Ermine.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—(AP)—Velvet dresses trimmed in ermine now are in favor for afternoon wear in the capital.

Miss Elizabeth Evans Hughes, daughter of Surepeme Court Justice Hughes, selected the combination for her wedding dress.

Ornaments Chic.

PARIS, Dec. 28—(AP)—The new three-quarter length gloves are ornamental affairs. Many of them are trimmed with tiny tucks an inch apart, ending in a V on the upper arm. Others are ornamented in eyelets worked in heavy silk of the same color as the glove.

Gardenias Provide Contrast.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—(AP)—Black velvet or satin relieved by a bunch of white gardenias continues a popular costume in the capital. When young girls wear the black it is usually trimmed with white fur but older women prefer the gardenias.

Three New Greens.

PARIS, Dec. 28—(AP)— Three new greens have just been launched on the Parisian fashion field. They include a dark olive, a bright grassy green and a pale slate color. So far their use has been chiefly confined to the daytime frocks worn under afternoon coats.

Married in California

Anna Elizabeth Anderson, daughter of Mrs. John Anderson of Canterbury turnpike, was united in marriage with Charles Allen Gritman of Richmond, California, at the latter place on Nov. 17. She attended N. F. A., and also Morse's college, Hartford.

At Sydney, Australia, Joseph Garrity, age seventy-one, an Englishman made his home in a camp between two tombstones of a cemetery, until crossing the railway to reach it, he was killed by a passing train.

LLOYD GEORGE'S DAUGHTER SETS OWN STYLES

LONDON, Dec. 28—(AP)—Megan Lloyd George, like her distinguished father, is an individualist.

Most of the women members of parliament have adopted a sort of formal uniform which they wear on the floor — but not Megan. She dresses to suit herself and is full of surprises.

MEGAN LLOYD GEORGE

Lady Astor, the first woman member of parliament, started the uniform idea and for several years has worn dresses of dark blue or black with white collar and cuffs, and a close-fitting black toque, serviceable, but yet chic.

The Countess of Iveigh, Lady Noel Buxton and Mary A. Hamilton have followed her example.

But Miss Lloyd George, charmingly petite and youthful, appears sometimes in gooseberry green, cerise and maroon.

Fruit growers in the northwest are ridding their orchards of insect pests by means of radio, using a series of antennae and ground wires and a generator of high frequency electricity.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Old underwear makes fine polishing cloths for windows and silverware.

Cold water will destroy onion odor on cooking vessels far more readily than warm water.

Serve chowders and purees as a main dish for luncheon. They are too heavy to be used merely as a soup.

When either roasting or boiling meat, it is better to use a spoon for turning, for the reason that a fork sticks into the meat and allows the juices to escape.

If a towel bar is screwed against the kitchen wall, or on the back porch, with a shallow tray or vessel beneath, it makes an excellent umbrella stand.

An excellent filter for muddy water is absorbent cotton, as all of the foreign matter will adhere to the cotton. As soon as the cotton has become dirty it should be renewed.

After placing the beets in hot water for a short time, drain off the hot water and immediately fill the vessel with cold water. The skins will then come off very easily.

Keep buttons of a certain size separated in the button box by placing them on a safety pin. A small safety pin is an excellent substitute for a bodkin. A large pin makes a good shoe buttoner.

If one does not carry a fountain pen, it is adviseable to carry a few pen points in the pocket or handbag. This is more satisfactory than using the worn-out pens usually found on public writing desks.

An excellent precaution for every home is a small flashlight kept in the medicine cabinet to prevent the wrong bottle from being taken when the room is dark or dimly lighted.

When one water glass becomes stuck in another, pour cold water in the upper one to contract it, and then immerse the lower one in warm water to expand it. They can then be easily separated.

Use fishline instead of wire for hanging pictures. Also provide a stick, a few feet long, with a deep notch in one end, to lift the cords from the hooks and to replace them, avoiding the necessity of a chair or step-ladder.

OILING UTENSILS

Use a few drops of olive oil in oiling kitchen utensils such as the food chopper and egg beater. This is an excellent substitute for mineral oil which we naturally do not care to mix with our food.

GRAVIES

If your gravies refuse to brown properly, add a teaspoon of burnt sugar diluted in a tablespoon of cold water. You'll be surprised by the delightful golden brown color, and the flavor will be improved, too.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Pour a small quantity of carbolic acid into a very hot vessel and it will purify the air in a room.

An excellent toilet water can be prepared by mixing two ounces of elder flower water with an equal quantity of distilled water.

A very effective remedy for boils is the skin of a boiled egg. Peel the skin off carefully and apply it to the boil. It will draw off the matter and remove soreness within a few hours.

If pushing back the cuticle causes hangnails, massage it with a good cuticle cream or vaseline to soften it. Then push the cuticle back gently, using an orange stick with cotton wrapped around it.

NEW SHADE

Whether you are planning the guest room or Junior's own room, blankets are a major consideration these cold days. Perhaps you will be interested to discover that mahogany is a new color for blankets for the masculine room or the master's bedroom done in eighteenth century English style. This deep rich red looks very warm. Yellow and blue are important colors for the blanket to adorn a bed fashioned after the early American manner.

ENSEMBLE BATH CURTAINS

The up-to-date bathroom has its shower curtains and window draperies made to match. They can be simply fashioned of waterproofed fabric of the chintz or cretonne type or of silk. These rubberized materials have been recently perfected so that they are of really practical character. Many of them have amusing pictorial patterns or gay floral patterns, and some of the silk styles are of lustrous plain texture in dainty pastel colors.

THE WHITE ROOM

White has come to play a distinctly important part in interior decoration, and the white room with accents of color or the black and white room will now be found in many of the most modern houses. White brocades for hanging—white oilcloth, and white chintz with charming figures of black gazelles are a few of the fabrics introduced for these rooms.

BEVERAGE SETS

They are of miniature proportions and include an enameled shaker which holds two, three, or four enameled cups according to its size. The top of the shaker has an amusing little colored figure of a dog set under concave glass. In black enamel trimmed with red they are wonderfully good looking.

LEOPARD SKIN

A famous movie actress started the vogue of a felt hat turned up a bit in front and trimmed with a flat bow of leopard skin. It is very simple and very, very smart.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Off-the-shoulder necklines are growing nightly more popular.

Horizontal trimmings and treatments are being highlighted.

The all-white hat is very chic with the black costume.

Tunics of metal cloth are being worn for formal day wear.

The plaids and checks continue to be much talked of for southern and spring wear.

Canton and heavy crepes continue to vie with lightweight woolens and with velvets.

Many ostrich-trimmed hats are in evidence. A plume inverted at the right side is the most popular arrangement.

Canton crepe is developing into one of the foremost fabrics of the season and is particularly well liked for the all-black frock.

Vionnet has scored again with her evening frock, the girdle and neckline of which are draped, and makes use of two tones.

Fur-trimmed dresses for either day or evening wear have creditable sponsors. Generally speaking, the choice is flat furs for day wear and fox or ermine for evening.

WITH BIEGE LAPIN

Bands of creamy beige lapin do much to augment the beauty and luxuriousness of a negligee of flame color chiffon velvet. It is made on the lines of a coat and the bands of lapin about an inch and a half wide extend around the neck, down the fronts and about the sleeves. A lining of beige satin repeats the color of the fur.

MATCHING TWEEDS

We have had tweed suits and tweed hats—and now come tweed bags with shoes to match. They are featured by a shop famed for the distinction of its fashions. The shoes have suede vamps and tweed quarters, while the bags, envelope shaps, are partly suede and partly tweed. One carries them with suits of the same tweed.

TWO TONE PEARLS

A new fashion is the wearing of pearls in two tones. For instance one strand will be a deep cream and the other bronze. Another may be eggshell and blush pink. And a third combines silver with black pearls.

SOFT

The softened collar provides a complimentary frame for the face such as the severe neckline of past seasons never could offer. Peplums and tunics go a long way toward giving the figure an illusion of perfect proportions that would not be possible in any other way.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Ordinary table salt is excellent for setting the colors in any material that has started to run.

When it is desired to freshen black lace, soak the lace in black tea, repeating the process several times if necessary.

If a white garment is scorched while ironing, rub the spot immediately with a cloth dipped in diluted peroxide, then run the iron over it and it will be as white as originally.

Blood stains on silk can be removed easily if a few inches of white sewing silk are moistened on the tongue, rolled into a ball and rubbed on the stain gently.

If a sudden leak appears in the washtub, press firmly some ordinary soap into the crack from the outside. This will prove satisfactory until a permanent repair can be made.

WRAPPING HANDKERCHIEFS

A box of handkerchiefs, wrapped in plain white paper and tied with the proverbial red ribbon, is just a box of handkerchiefs, but the same thing wrapped in a lovely peacock blue tissue and tied with a silver ribbon makes its appropriate for one who loves those colors. The very same gift would delight the little girl if it were wrapped in the lustrous red transparent wrapping material with, perhaps, a bow of the same, and to which you might fasten a stick of candy or a Christmas lollypop.

DRAW CURTAINS

Draw curtains are practical in rooms where it is necessary to regulate the light and air frequently. They are especially attractive on a cold night when, drawn together, they bring into the room a sense of coziness only equaled by the cheery flames of a log fire.

SEWING MACHINE

Whether you sew a fine seam yourself or have a seamstress-by-the-day ever ynow and then you will be interested to learn of new sewing machines that adopt period designs for their cabinets. Concealed beneath the calm exterior of an early American chest of drawers or table, a sturdy little needle and its motor wait to get at the season's sewing. Thus your sewing machine is almost as useful when not in action as when it is whirring efficiently, and it is quite a bit handsomer.

NEW LIGHTERS

New cigarette lighters are really a combination of lighter and watch. The most beautiful ones are of gold and are not more than two inches square. A really swanky gift for the man of the household.

FOR BOYS

If you want to make a schoolboy happy give him one of the new soft wool English scarfs that come in plain shades of beige, gray, blues and dull greens. They match his sweaters and wool socks.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Native Indian women of Central America still weave most of their own clothing.

The average yearly income of 15,000 business and professional women in the United States is said to be only $1,300 a year.

Countess Marietta Vichy, divorced wife—of a famous Hungarian aristocrat, has become a man-hater and will not permit any man to enter her place in Vienna.

After only 19 hours' flying time, nine of which were solo work, Miss Maczie Crafe, aged 23, of Denver, Colo., recently took her test for a private pilot's license and passed with flying colors.

Women in China use home-made beauty preparations, such as honey and flour for their faces cigar or cigaret ashes for tooth powder, and resinous gum of trees for shampoo.

DARK HANKIES.

One of the newest fashions is that of carrying large batiste handkerchiefs in the same shades of dark red, green, blue and brown of one's costumes.

AFTER THE THEATRE.

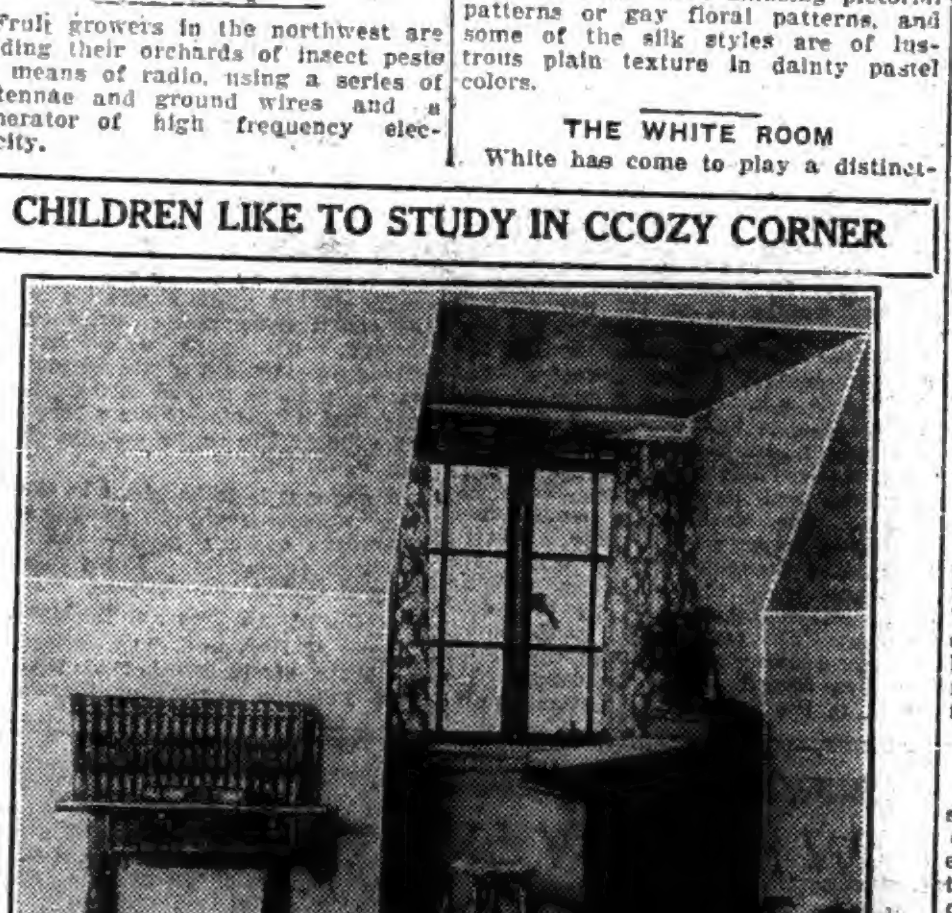
The after theatre supper gains immeasurably in popularity if the hostess serves her liquid refreshments in one of the new sets of glass covered with a fine design in silver deposit. These sets consist of decanters, large flasks and glasses of varying sizes and come in rich tones of red, blue and green.

RECIPES.

Angel Spice Cake: Beat one and one-fourth cups of egg whites with a whip beater until frothy. Add one teaspoon of cream of tartar and continue beating until they hold a point. Add one and one-half cups of sugar gradually, after sifting it three times. Fold in one cup of cake flour which has been sifted, measured, then sifted four times, with one-fourth teaspoon of salt one teaspoon of cinnamon, half a teaspoon of nutmeg and one fourth teaspoon each of cloves and allspice. Add the flour mixture a little at a time and blend carefully. Add one teaspoon of vanilla and pour into a shallow loaf pan measuring about 8 by 14 inches. The pan should be lined with plain white paper. Bake for 30 minutes in a slow oven. Remove from the oven, cool and turn out. This cake is best when baked the day before serving. To serve, cut into squares and top with whipped cream, sweetened with chopped orange marmalade, or serve plain with hot chocolate.

Turkey Casserole: Cut some leftover turkey into good-sized pieces. In the bottom of a casserole arrange a layer of cold leftover turkey stuffing and then place the turkey slices on top. Meanwhile prepare a sauce by melting two tablespoons of butter, adding two tablespoons of flour, and stirring until smooth. Next add one and one-half cups of milk, and when the sauce is thickened, pour it over three beaten egg yolks and add one teaspoon of salt. Pour this sauce over the turkey and cover with one pound of mushrooms which have first been chopped and cooked in two tablespoons of butter until tender, then combined with one-fourth cup of bread crumbs, two tablespoons butter and one teaspoon of salt. Bake in a hot oven for 30 minutes.

CHILDREN LIKE TO STUDY IN CCOZY CORNER



Bright curtains and colors make home work a pleasure.

By Hope Hammond

One corner of the nursery or children's room may be a great help to them in their school "home work" if it is fitted out as a "study," where they can keep their books and writing materials.

Such a nook should have plenty of natural light, and the walls and furniture should be built for hard wear, durable and easily cleaned, even if there are ink stains.

The walls, for example, can be covered with oil coated muslin, with woodwork in enamel to match. The color selected for walls and woodwork should be bright and alive. Turquoise blue is a current favorite. The floor should be waxed wood or noleum.

Window frames, mullions and radiator might well be in Prussian blue if the wall tint is turquoise.

Soap and water may be used for cleansing, not only the walls, floors and woodwork, but also the desk, book table, the blue-enameled stool and the gay metal waste basket.

Nursery curtains offer an opportunity to perpetuate Alice in Wonderland or any other beloved character of the children's fiction. All the imaginative people of the children's world are now available in printed wall coverings and curtain fabrics.

In many instances materials are patterned with well-drawn and beautifully tinted Mother Goose characters or other familiars, on a background of clear color which is sunfast and has either a glazed or an unglazed finish.

Furniture for the children's study corner should be solid, substantial, and of good design. A hardy plant on the desk or table lends a pleasant note to any decorative scheme.

Roast Pork and Browned
Sweet Potatoes
Apple Rings
Turnips, Au Gratin
Bread Butter
Asparagus Salad Piquant Dressing
Date Cake topped with Whipped Cream
Coffee

Roast Pork and Sweet Potatoes: Loin of pork, 5 pounds; 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-4 teaspoon celery salt, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup water, 8 sweet potatoes, peeled; 1-2 teaspoon salt.

Wipe pork with damp cloth. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon of salt, paprika, celery salt and flour. Set in baking pan. Add the water and bake 15 minutes in a hot oven. Cover and lower the fire and bake 1 1-2 hours in a moderately slow oven. Baste frequently. Add the potatoes and sprinkle them with 1-2 teaspoon of salt. Bake 50 minutes. Baste frequently. Place roast on large serving platter. Surround with sweet potatoes and apple rings.

AAple Rings: 4 large red apples, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup water, 8 red cinnamon candies.

Wash and core apples. Do not peel them. Cut in slives, 2-3 inch thick cutting crossways. Boil the sugar, water and cinnamon candies 3 minutes. Add apple rings and bake 30 minutes. Turn apples during baking so they will cook evenly. Cooking the apples at the same time as the roast saves fuel.

Turnips Au Gratin: 3 cups diced, cooked turnips, 4 tablespoons butter, 6 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-2 cup cheese cut fine, 2-3 cup crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter, melted.

Melt 4 tablespoons of butter and add the flour, salt and paprika. Add the milk and cook until creamy sauce forms. Add the cheese and stir until it has melted. Add the turnips and pour into a shallow, buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with the crmubs which have been mixed with the 2 tablespoons of melted butter. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

Palace Theatre

Charles Farrell again captures the hearts of the patrons of the Palace in his newest feature, "The Princess and the Plumber," now playing at the Palace theatre, this time with the captivating little Irish lass, Maureen O'Sullivan.

Nestling on the flanks of the Balkan mountains, some 80 miles from Budapest, is the tiny principality of Daritsia. The country, covering but a few square miles, boasts of one sleepy village and an imposing castle, the abode of Prince Conrad and his daughter, the Princess Louise.

The Prince, a widower, has found plenty of consolation among the Parisian beauties, and spends most of his time at the French capital, while the princess, romantic but lonely, stays at the castle under the guardianship of an elderly governess.

Into this peaceful scene comes a young American engineer, who is ordered to supervise a modern heating plant installation in the castle. He meets the princess, but takes her for a peasant girl who is playing make-believe, so he solemnly claims to be the Duke of Mamaroneck.

Thus begins a series of delightful episodes that form the plot of "The Princess and the Plumber."

Farrell's role of the plumber is said to be one of his best. The princess is enacted by Maureen O'Sullivan, who has created a furore in movie circles by her delightful performances in "Song o' My Heart," "So This Is London" and "Just Imagine." Another featured player is H. B. Warner, who essays the prince, while the supporting cast includes Joseph Cawthorn, Bert Roach and Louise Closser Hale. Alexander Korda directed the production which was adapted for the screen from Alice Duer Miller's Saturday Evening Post story of the same name.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS PRESENTS FLAG TO UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

At the Sunday morning service at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, with a large congregation attending, Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, patriotic instructor of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, presented the church in behalf of the corps, a large American flag and staff. By request the Christmas music, with carols by the vested choir of six members and selections on the organ and piano, was repeated.

Mrs. Fowler, attended by two color bearers, Mrs. Annie Turner and Mrs. Vinnie Wilson, presented the flag after the reading of the announcements by the pastor, Rev. A. N. Foster, and during the course of the presentation service the church organist, Mrs. Beatrice Fowler, played softly, America. On behalf of the congregation and the church society, the gift was accepted by Sumner W. Armstrong, chairman of the board of trustees.

In presenting the gift Mrs. Fowler said: "Mr. Sumner Armstrong and friends—It has been my pleasure as patriotic instructor of Sedgwick corps, No. 16, to present a number of flags to churches and Sunday schools, but this morning it is more than a pleasure to present a flag to my own church—this beautiful emblem of peace. I could bring you no greater gift, nothing more beautiful, nothing more sacred. No other flag carries such hope, such grandeur of spirit, such soul inspiring faith! How glorious has been its origin, how glorious has been its history, how divine its meaning! It stands for all we hold dear—freedom, democracy, government of the people, by the people, for the people. These are the great principles for which our flag stands.

"In conclusion I would like to say that the Woman's Relief corps was organized in 1883, in Denver, Col., and since that time we have presented 8,000 flags to churches and Sunday schools and so, this morning, on behalf of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, I have the honor of presenting to the Church of the Good Shepherd this beautiful flag of our country."

In connection with the service the pastor, Rev. Mr. Foster, gave an inspiring sermon on the subject, "Our Flag as a Symbol of Our Covenant With the Highest."

The pastor preached from the text Isaiah XI; 12: And he shall set up an ensign for the nations and assemble the outcasts of Israel and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth.

Our thought, this morning, relates to both Israel of old and America of today, he said. Israel's dream of the promised land was not realized as expected and the vision of the promised Messiah never found complete fulfillment; through exploration and discovery, the known world was greatly enlarged and man's knowledge and control of the forests of the earth and the sea and the air have been vastly magnified. Indeed the present Christmas observance, when through the radio, the carols sung all but encircle the globe seems the nearest approach, yet made when peace and good-will shall prevail amongst all people and nations.

With Israel, the covenant with the Lord found expression in the special regard for the Ark, both in the sanctuary and in time of battle, and those of prophetic insight—like the great prophet Jeremiah, insistly added that the first significance attaches to the covenant written by Jehovah on the hearts of the children of men.

America, latest of the great nations, fulfills many of the hopes of earlier ages and peoples; here the oppressed have been welcomed and new opportunity has beckoned to lives weakened and shattered before and from the four quarters of the earth, Pilgrims have come to find new ideals and to cherish new loyalties. The flag of the American Federal Union is the emblem of such loyalty. Unlike other national emblems, it bears no sign of the churchly cross; it harmonizes three distinctive colors placed in accurate design; in 1775, Israel Putnam displayed a banner showing the Connecticut state flag on one side and the British red on the reverse and in the same year the Philadelphia city troop showed a flag with alternate stripes of red and white.

The Continental congress voted on June 14, 1777, that the flag consist of 13 alternate stripes of red and white with 13 stars in a blue field. Seventeen years later two stars and stripes were added for Vermont and Kentucky and in 1818 the number of states had increased to 21; then congress voted that the 13 stripes should symbolize the original colonies and a new star be added for every additional state in the federal union; this acccounts for the present 48 stars in the blue field. Every star recognizes sovereignty and all are co-equal parts of a mighty union. The history of this starry banner is comprised in little over 150 years and that is a short time compared to Israel, Rome or Britain. It waved at the surrender at Yorktown; it was on the field of Gettysburg and was seen at time of Abraham Lincoln's memorable address there; it was carried on the fields of France in the World war and inspired President Wilson's plan for a federation of the nations of the world to banish war and to develop international good will, and safety.

Indeed the flag is but the symbol of those principles of popular government which must be reflected in the influence of the courts, the schools, the social settlements and the churches as truly as Jeremiah insisted that the covenant of old must be written on the tablets of the heart, if the high standard of our citizenship be sustained. "Shine forth O, Stars and reddening dawn, the full day yet shall be! On earth, his kingdom cometh, and with joy our eyes shall see, Our God is marching on!"

SPIRITUAL INVENTORY IS ADVISED BY PRIESTS

The people of St. Patrick's church, nearing the close of one of the most successful years in their parish history, were urgently admonished during Sunday by their three priests to prepare for the coming of a new year with due seriousness. The day was the feast of the Holy Innocents and in the innumerable masses offered throughout the world the epistle read was Galatians 4:1-7, St. Paul's reminder, "And because you are sons, God hath sent the spirit of His Son into your hearts, crying: Abba, Father." The day's gospel was Luke 2:33-40, the prophecies of Simeon and Anna, its concluding phrases those words made so much of in the Catholic church in inculcating lessons of childish obedience to parental and other authority, "They returned into Galilee, to their city, Nazareth. And the Child grew and waxed strong, full of wisdom: and the grace of God was in Him."

The children of the parish were in the great congregation at the third mass of the day Sunday at St. Patrick's, when this gospel was read by Rev. John J. Reilly. The preacher advanced the argument that, at the close of the old year, as each mortal stands face to face with the new, it is a mark of intelligence to pause and ask, "What is it all about?" St. Thomas has told us that life reaches perfection by a gradual process. The first sign of the dawn of intelligence in a child is when he begins to ask questions. At the beginning of another new year it is for us to pause, to consider the past, to gaze toward a future, real, sure and certain, to rise above one's ordinary self, meditating upon the solution of the problem of mortal destiny and on the rapid passing of time.

All things in life taken on an importance only as they affect our salvation. Business, profession, joys, sorrows, they are but means to our final end. It is not wise to stress the means and forget the end. Too often those pursuits in which we spend our lives turn out but failures, leaving us physical bankrupts. There is the same danger in the world of the soul, and opportunities neglected may leave us spiritual bankrupts in the life of grace. With the advent of another new year a little more of our precious life has gone, there has been a little more wearing out of the machinery of the body.

At this point, Father Reilly gave his hearers one of those startling and vital thoughts which never fail to characterize his sermons, when he summarized life as the hyphen between two eternities; on it depends our eternal happiness.

He declared that a Catholic should be the happiest person in the world—always supposed to be prepared, with no dread of death, estimating above all things the peace of a good conscience, the value of his immortal soul, the value of time. In the doubt, and misery, and sorrow, and crosses which come to all lives, the Catholic is schooled not to choose some passing pleasure in place of his eternal welfare. His thought is ever, "We have not here a lasting city—we seek one to come."

Assisting Rev. James E. Dargan, who read this mass, Father Reilly aided in giving holy communion to an unusually large number of penitents who were closing the year in friendship with God, through the sacrament of penance.

At this mass the junior choir repeated much of the Christmas music, including Glory to God in the Highest, Christmas Bells, and Holy Night. At communion time, the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine, developed the theme of O, Little Town of Bethlehem in an original and effective way.

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given following the mass by Rev. Father Dargan, Walter F. LaFontaine, William S. Shannon and Henry LaFontaine singing O. Salutaris, Tantum Ergo and Divine Praises.

It was announced that masses Thursday, Jan. 1, would be at 5:30, 7 and 8 o'clock. Confessions for that day, also in advance of the first Friday, will be heard Wednesday, at 3 and 7 p. m.

OVER 4,300 ALIENS WERE NATURALIZED IN STATE

In Connecticut state and federal courts the last fiscal year, 1,402 aliens filed declarations of intentions to become citizens. 2,788 aliens filed with the courts petitions for citizenship and citizenship papers were granted to 4,340 aliens by the courts during the year, Raymond F. Crist, commissioner of naturalization, reveals in his annual report.

Of the aliens declaring intentions of becoming citizens, 1,103 were men and 299 were women. Of those filing petitions for citizenship with the Connecticut courts, 2,145 were men and 643 were women, and of the 4,340 granted certificates of citizenship 3,210 were men and 1,130 were women according to Mr. Crist's report.

The federal courts outdistanced the state courts in Connecticut somewhat in granting citizenship during the fiscal year. Of the total 4,340 certificates of citizenship awarded in the state during the fiscal period, 2,214 came from the federal courts and 2,126 from state courts.

The vast majority of the naturalization papers filed in the Connecticut courts during the year — declarations and petitions—came during the last three quarters. Commissioner Crist explains that lack of familiarity with the new naturalization laws and the delay in the receipt by the naturalization bureau of the new blanks, almost precluded the filing of naturalization papers during the first quarter.

SUNDAY EVENING SERVICE AT TRINITY METH. CHURCH

The Sunday evening service at Trinity Methodist church followed this order: 7.30, Organ prelude, Christmas Fantasy, Hebling; hymns Nos. 577, 553, 543; Scripture reading, Col. 4, 1-9; offertory, "Arise Shine for Thy Light Has Come," MacDermid; sermon, "Time," Rev. Joseph Cooper; prayer, benediction; organ Postlude, Whiting. The girls' choir was directed by Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham and Mrs. Frank P. Lathrop was organist.

NORWICH MAN SUED FOR $5,000 DAMAGES

Damages of $5,000 are asked by William H. Robinson of this city in a suit he has brought in the superior court against Raymond Perkins of Lebanon and William F. Bailey of Norwich.

The suit is the result of an auto accident on Aug. 29, 1930, on the Franklin-Lebanon road in the town of Lebanon, at the intersection of the Norwich-Willimantic road.

Robinson alleges that as he entered the intersection, a car owned by Bailey operated by Perkins, struck his auto with great force, completely wrecking it, shattering the body, both mud-guards, running board, rear wheel and throwing him and his wife, Hettie F. Robinson, who was accompanying him, to the ground.

The complaint recites that as a result of the wrongful, negligent and unskillful acts on the part of Perkins, Robinson suffered a broken nose, a cut about four inches long on the forehead, a dislocated shoulder, strained back and many bruises upon his head, arms, body and limbs as a result of which he has been totally disabled from carrying n his occupation as a salesman.

Among some of the attractive window illuminations during Yuletide are those at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Arnaud J. LaPierre, of Elm avenue, the Johnson Home and Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb on Town street, which are lighted each evening. Christmas eve the home of Miss Elizabeth Huntington of Washington street, was beautifully illuminated by candles in nearly all the windows, as is the custom each year. The front windows at the Johnson home are a blaze of light in the evening. At the LaPierre home elaborate decorations display rows of electric candles in each window. Seven large windows at the front and on one side, are dazzling with light bulbs at Dr. Lamb's residence, his own artistic arrangement. The large display windows at the plant of Julian L. Williams on Town street, have also been attractively illuminated with electric candles.

Having spent the Christmas recess with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Murphy of West Town street, Walter Murphy a freshman at Bryant-Stratton college, returned Sunday evening to Providence.

NEW LONDON PATROL BOAT GETS CRAFT WITH 2,800 BOOZE CASES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 28.—Another cargo of liquor has been stopped in its flow to consumers, nearly 35,000 quarts of it, honest-to-goodness whiskey that came from St. Pierre and was destined to New England. The capture was made last night by a coast guard patrol boat out of New London, the 289, sister craft of the boat that captured the Aubrey B. a few days ago, which latter craft is also a sister ship of the rum-runner seized Saturday night. The captured boat, which was on its way to port when the master of the 289 demanded that she stop and undergo an examination, is the Eleanor Joan, a British steamer about 150 feet in length and with a speed that could not be matched by the patrol boat. When the Eleanor Joan speeded away the order was given to fire and a one-pounder was fired across the rum-runner's bow. This made the master of the Eleanor Joan surrender and submit to the inspection of the boat. When the crew of the patrol boat boarded the steamer, it was found that the Eleanor Joan had 2,800 cases of liquor, or 33,600 quarts, which has a bootleg value of $175,000. There is a crew of 11 men on the captured steamer, one of them an American mariner, who is supposed to have been the navigator, as he is familiar with waters hereabouts. He was aboard for his knowledge as a skipper. After the capture was made, in New York waters at Plum Gut, the rum-runner was brought into port. Tonight she started for New York, where tomorrow she will be taken to the barge office pier, her cargo unloaded and the crew presented before a United States commissioner. The Eleanor Joan is said to have a speed of 12 knots. The confiscation of the liquor means a loss of over a quarter of a million dollars, for the same amount comprised the cargo of the Aubrey B., captured off Montauk Point a week ago. The Aubrey B. has since been taken to New York with her cargo and crew of ten men and tomorrow the crew of the Eleanor Joan will be docked beside her sister craft.

Eldridge, of 10 Bulkeley place, who was crushed beneath an auto truck owned and driven by F. Wells Geer, of 37 Franklin street. Coroner McKay interrogated numerous witnesses at the state police barracks, Groton, besides receiving the report of Officer Arthur Kaith, who investigated the fatality immediately following the death of the boy. It is expected that Coroner McKay will render his finding next week. Eldridge was a messenger boy in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph company. He was on his way to New London, after having delivered a message in Groton.

MRS. J. C. GRIFFITH, NORWICH, ALLEGES NON-SUPPORT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 28.—John C. Griffith, formerly of 66 Franklin street, now residing at 23 Belden court, will be in the police court tomorrow charged with non-support. His wife is Mrs. Signe Griffith and resides in Norwich. Griffith is an engineer, employed by the New Haven railroad at Midway. Griffith has been ill and he was not arrested, but Saturday was ordered to present himself in court by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh. He and his wife have been living apart for some time.

Police Sergeant Patrick Murphy is confined to his home as a result of a severe cold.

An inmate at Hillside home was arrested on State street yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Edward Riordan charged with intoxication. Although the man was locked up, he will not be tried in the police court Monday for he was given into the care of an employe of the city's poor farm and taken back there. He had never been arrested before.

Reports Son Missing.

John Macione, 73 Maple avenue, employed as a laborer by the city, reported to the police today that his son, John, was missing from home and requested that a search for the youth be made. He described the boy as 16, about five feet, seven inches in height, weighs about 125 pounds and has a crooked nose. Macione also said that the youth was attired in black trousers, brown sweater and soft gray hat. Since Macione made the report, it has developed that the boy and a companion went away together, by their own planning, after Macione had been ejected from his home. The clothing he wore when he went away was entirely different from that described by the father, for the boy wore blue trousers and an overcoat, furnished him by his companion. The youth went to his home Friday evening and a short time later he was forced out of the house. He went to the home of a companion and remained there over night. Yesterday the boys decided to seek fame and fortune and departed from the city, stating that they were to attempt to go to California.

TO LAY OFF BRAKEMEN ON NEW HAVEN ROAD

Because of a falling off of freight business, the New Haven railroad will lay off 20 spare brakemen in this city next Friday. Announcement that the reduction was to be made was made known yesterday. All of the brakemen have been working out of New London and are a part of the employes on the road's spare board. It is also understood that reductions will be made on other divisions next week.

MAMMOTH SNOW PLOW CLEARS IRONS AT PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 28.—One of the New Haven railroad's new snow plows, one of the biggest to ever be used for clearing the tracs of snow, received its initial test yesterday, last night and today when it was taken to Putnam and operated along the road north of that place because of the immense fall, where snow was piled on the tracks several feet. The plow returned to New London at 11.30 o'clock this morning, the crew having been outlawed by continuous service. Another crew was summoned and the plow departed for Putnam at 1.15 o'clock.

To Be Tried Today.

Albert Lee Hubbard, Philadelphia Negro, who has been employed in New London but a comparatively brief time, being a dishwasher at a Golden street restaurant, and who was arrested Christmas day charged with breaking and entering, will be presented in the police court tomorrow. Since his arrest, Hubbard has been a prisoner at the county jail in default of a surety on his bond of $2500. Hubbard has made a confession in which he admits the charge, but he denies that he stole money belonging to Luther Green, also colored, and residing at 11 Shapley street.

GIRL'S LEG FRACTURED— HIT BY WATERFORD CAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 28. — Elsie White, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, 185 Main street, was seriously injured late this afternoon when hit by an automobile and is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, suffering from a fracture of the right leg. The girl, accompanied by two companions, was near Harrison street at the approach of the Thames river highway bridge. When the children attempted to cross the highway, two of them succeeded in doing so, but the White girl was hit by an automobile, owned by Theodore Dickson, of Pleasure Beach, Waterford and driven by Anthony Mauerman, also of Pleasure Beach. Mauerman placed the girl in his car and speeded her to the hospital.

Patrolman Braxton Hill in passing through Bank street this evening found a cat in agony in the street, the animal having been hit by a passing automobile. The officer shot the animal to end its suffering and had it left at the rear of the Exchange building where tomorrow the carcass will be disposed of.

Where Coasting Is Permitted.

The city has designated several streets where children may enjoy coasting in safety. These streets are designated to show that coasting is permissible by the display of conspicuous signs so that automobile operators will drive with caution.

The city's laborers have sanded all streets where a grade exists and approaching an intersecting highway.

The southern end of the city and that section in the vicinity of Niles Hill road, presents one of the most beautiful Christmas displays ever witnessed here. Christmas trees are illuminated with vari colored electric lights and with the background of snow the sight is most pleasing.

Although the snowfall of Saturday was greater than at any time this winter the city did not set laborers or teamsters to work removing it. Not a solitary team or shoveler was engaged today in causing the removal of snow from State, Bank or Main street.

Critically Ill.

John M. Mallon, assistant tax collector, continues critically ill at his home, 35 Brooks street.

The sidewalks of the city were generally cleared of snow and ice because the moist atmosphere softened the coating. But many walks have received no attention whatever and these were a menace to pedestrians. On the principal business streets where stores were closed the walks were in dangerous condition.

A pageant is to be given in the Seabury Episcopal church at Groton this (Monday) evening by the children of the Sunday school. Percy Geer has been coaching the children.

Christmas Tree For Children.

Sons of Hermann, with lodge rooms on Main street, conducted their annual Yuletide celebration for the kiddies of this city this afternoon. About 200 children were entertained. A huge tree was erected in the lodge room and gifts were distributed to the boys and girls. A lunch of good things was provided also.

MANY CHILDREN SLIDING ON ROCKWELL STREET

One of the many city streets that afforded children sliding Sunday was Rockwell street, where at one time more than 20 were found enjoying the winter sport. In the Greeneville section there were many children with their sleds on the side streets that lead into Central avenue. In some cases children had narrow escapes from accidents with machines and trolleys. A number of children were cautioned against sliding across the trolley tracks, there, but the practice was contiued, one youngster remarking that "he could see the automobiles."

A number of older boys and girls were seen Sunday with skiis on their way to their favorite place in Mohegan park.

GIRL SCOUTS ENTERTAINED COUNTY HOME CHILDREN

Friday afternoon, under the direction of their troop captain, Mrs. Frank Rinella and the troop lieutenant, Miss Katherine Madden, the Girl Scouts of troop five, St. Patrick's church, entertained the children of the New London county home at a Christmas party. Two plays, Toinette and the Elves, and A Pot of Red Geraniums, were presented in a very pleasing manner by the girls to the great enjoyment of the children. Caroline Hamil and Vivian Bolduc did tap dancing in costume. Candy and a gift for each one present were distributed to the children by the Girl Scouts.

Miss June Sullivan, pianist, and Anna Leone, violinist, furnished the music for the afternoon's program. The scouts wish to express their appreciation to Miss Elizabeth Beckley, Mrs. Joseph Hourigan, D. T. Shea, Henry Vignot and Charles McNamara for the use of their cars for the afternoon and to Otto F. Ernst for courtesies extended.

Appeal From Jury Verdict.

An appeal to the supreme court of errors has been taken from the jury verdict recently rendered in the LaBounty cases, which verdict was in favor of the Frisbie Pie Co., of Hartford and Sebastian Silva of New London. William LaBounty of Montville brought both actions in which total damages of $35,000 were claimed, being for the death of William, Jr., and injury to Jeanne. Both were struck by an auto near their homes in Montville by a truck owned by the pie company, and operated by Silva.

PERMANENT INJUNCTION HALTS GIANT STEEL MERGER

Common Pleas Judge Jenkins at Youngstown, O., Restrains the Proposed Billion Dollar Merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. With the Bethlehem Steel Corp.—The Judge Finds That the Accountants' Audits of the Two Companies Are Misleading—Stockholders and Directors of the Sheet & Tube Had Not Been Informed of the Bethlehem's Bonus System, Which Caused $3,000,000 to Be Paid to Its Executives in 1929—Unless the Merger Proponents Appeal and Are Able to Win a Reversal the Merger is Dead

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 29.—(AP)—A permanent injunction tonight restrained consummation of one of the biggest deals in industrial history—the proposed billion-dollar merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., with the Bethlehem Steel corporation.

Common Pleas Judge David G. Jenkins granted the injunction here today as a dramatic climax to nearly a yearlong battle between some of America's most powerful industrialists and financiers.

The victory belongs to the "under dog" of the fight—Cyrus S. Eaton, 47-year-old Cleveland financier, who led the minority stockholders of Sheet & Tube in their daring attack against the powerful combine of such famous industrialists as Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem; James M. Campbell, chairman of Sheet & Tube, and Henry G. Dalton, a director in both companies.

Unless the merger proponents appeal and are able to win a reversal, the merger is dead.

Leading proponents of the deal had not indicated tonight whether an appeal will be made.

Eaton claimed he had enough votes to defeat it in the stockholders' election last April 9. His opponents denied this and claimed the stockholders voted ratification.

No one denies, however, that Eaton, since the election, has had sufficient proxies to defeat a Sheet & Tube merger, if such a deal is ever submitted again.

Private negotiations for the merger began early this year. The dramatic fight to defeat it started when Eaton first heard of the proposal March 7.

Bethlehem's offer was to acquire Sheet & Tube, a $235,000,000 corporation, on the basis of one and one-third shares of Bethlehem common stock for one of Sheet & Tube.

The first phase of the battle was a spectacular campaign for proxies. Not unlike politicians electioneering, the dignified men of finance and industry went to the stockholders and "buttonholed" them for votes.

Within a short time, merger proponents and opponents were spending millions for stock. Eaton himself put out more than $8,000,000.

In the meantime, a majority of Sheet & Tube directors approved the merger and the stockholders' action followed.

The suit went to trial June 24—a battle between some of the keenest legal minds of the nation. Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, was counsel for Sheet & Tube. Attorneys Luther Day and Harry Crawford headed the opposition.

During the trial, Leroy A. Manchester, counsel for Sheet & Tube, committed suicide, after suffering from overwrought nerves. The plaintiff, Myron C. Wick, also died of pneumonia, brought on by strain.

While Judge Jenkins did not attempt to settle all the points of the trial, his decision, 5,000 words long, was an unequivocating statement that the merger was invalid.

The judge said the acts and conduct of Sheet & Tube directors made them "guilty of breach of conduct tantamount to fraud." His principal criticism was they did not fully inform themselves of all factors in the deal, did not supply stockholders with essential information, and acted with "unseeming precipitation."

Extra criticism was placed by the judge upon Dalton, the dual director, who was prominent in the negotiations but did not vote with the directors. His presence at the directors' meeting and approval of the merger "were in equity a breach of trust against public policy," the judge wrote. "The evidence is clear to the court that he knowingly was not acting for all the shareholders of Sheet & Tube in that steps were taken to delay advising them of the existence of and the point to which the privately conducted negotiations had gone."

Judge Jenkins said the accountants' audits of the two companies were misleading and that no definite conclusion on the fairness of the stock exchange ratio was possible from their findings.

Bethlehem's bonus system, which caused $3,000,000 to be paid to its executives in 1929, was mentioned by the judge as one of the several items which was not made known to Sheet & Tube stockholders and directors.

WOODROW WILSON BIRTHDAY DINNER IN STAUNTON, VA.

STAUNTON, Va., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Jefferson and Wilson, "the Elijah and Elisha of democracy," were held up tonight as the militant champions of government by people at the Woodrow Wilson birthday dinner here in the city of the birth.

Josephus Daniels, Raleigh, N. C., editor, who was Wilson's secretary of the navy, in the principal speech of the evening, named Washington, Lincoln, Jackson and Roosevelt as presidents who achieved "greatness or near greatness," "but only two from Washington to Hoover," he said, "fashioned in immortal words the right of men to govern themselves and proved their faith by risking all upon the wisdom of popular rule.

"Jefferson made the great adventure when even the name of the illustrious Washington was invoked to question if the mass of voters could be trusted with the duty of setting up government by consent of the governed," said Mr. Daniels. "And Wilson, his successor in the faith, ventured all in the belief that civilization could justify its existence only by nations banding themselves to reject arbitrary force and to substitute an atmosphere and association that would save the world from bloodshed."

COURT RULES EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT CONSTITUTIONAL

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Federal Judge James A. Lowell rendered a one paragraph opinion today ruling that the 18th amendment was constitutional and legally ratified.

"In the case of the United States vs. Palmer in Rhode Island the supreme court ruled that the 18th amendment is constitutional and I am bound by that decision. The motion to quash is denied."

Judge Lowell added this comment on the decision by Federal Judge William T. Clark in New Jersey two weeks ago which asserted that the 18th amendment was not properly ratified:

"Judge Clark's learned dissertation comes too late. Since 1920 the law has been otherwise."

CANADIAN STEAMER PICKS UP MISSING SCHOONER

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 29.—(AP)—After riding out several storms, the missing schooner Doren was picked up 34 miles southwest of Halifax lightship today and taken in tow by the Canadian steamer Stanley, wireless messages said.

Capt. T. E. Kirk and his crew of six, cast adrift last Tuesday when a line by which they were being towed to St. Pierre parted, were reported alive and well.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Kidnapers late today snatched the 14-months old daughter of Mrs. Mirianna Stone, of the Bronx, from its carriage in front of a Bronx store.

The mother was shopping in a store when the kidnaping occurred. Police were without any clues.

BEAUTIFUL ARTIST'S MODEL COMMITS SUICIDE IN LONDON

LONDON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Mary Helen Chaddock, beautiful artist's model whose face was familiar to thousands of British magazine readers, was found dead today beside a stove gushing gas, and her parents blamed a blighted love affair.

During the day it was reported that she was despondent because an actor whom she had loved had gone to the United States. In an interview with the Daily Herald the parents said that Charles Cullum was the man. He was said to be touring the United States in the role of Captain Stanhope in the English war play, "Journey's End."

The father said the actor recently had married a New York girl who was the model for a Russian artist in Greenwich Village.

Chelsea art circles were greatly disturbed at the passing of the popular young model, who had advanced high in her vocation.

Miss Chaddock, who was 27 years old, was alone when found, and her father had to break the door of her flat to enter. She lay on a bed, and nearby a stove was pouring gas from jets which had been opened wide. She left no letters.

The men will be sentenced January 5 by Federal Judge Coxe.

After listening to evidence for weeks, the jury took but three hours to return the verdict which convicted the trio of selling stock in corporations reputed to control the sugar properties.

SEEKS SEPARATION; HUSBAND HAS HABIT OF PLAYING DEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Anita Blumenkrantz wants a separation from her husband for several reasons which she listed in her complaint today, one being that her husband, Louis, has a habit of playing dead.

He will hold his breath and behave as though he had expired, Mrs. Blumenkrantz said, and the practice is very annoying to her.

The court reserved decision.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

QUITO, Ecuador, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Because of reports that communist agitators are inciting Indians to uprising, the government has taken precautionary measures for a rapid offensive movement if it becomes necessary.

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Relief workers, toiling through districts engulfed by white-hot lava from Merapi volcano some two weeks ago, estimated that 1,300 had died from the recent eruption.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—A fateful week of the Indian round table negotiations began today with the Hindu moslem factions still deadlocked on the minorities question, but conference circles are nevertheless hopeful that this and the other problems will be solved before the delegates leave London about the middle of January.

RUM SHIP TOWED TO BARGE OFFICE, NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The British motorship "Eleanor Joan," carrying 2,800 cases of liquor, arrived at the barge office late today in tow of the coast guard cutter Legare.

Eleven men, aboard when she was seized in Gardiner's bay, Long Island sound, Saturday night, were taken to Brooklyn for arraignment in federal court.

The "Eleanor Joan" has long been known as a rum runner, and particularly as a "mother ship," which brought liquor from Canada and distributed it to smaller ships outside the twelve mile limit. She is a sister ship of the "Audrey B," seized in Fort Pond bay on the sound Christmas morning with 2,800 sacks of liquor aboard.

The ship is 125 feet long, has two Diesel engines and a top speed of about 14 knots. She carried radio equipment and in every detail, coast guard men said, was fitted out for the rum trade.

Her cargo included whiskies, gin and champagne, valued at about $170,000. Customs men began unloading it soon after the ship docked at the Battery.

Some of the 32 shots fired from a one pound gun of the coast guard patrol boat 259 struck their mark. Four holes were visible today on the starboard side of the vessel's hull.

SEARCHING FOR SLAYER OF SCHOOL-TEACHER SISTERS

BLACKWELL, Okla., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Moving secretly, officers believed the slayer of two Blackwell school teacher-sisters was not far from their grasp tonight.

County Attorney Bruce Potter announced officers had in their possession a cle wthat would lead "to the arrest and positive identification" of the man who shot Jessie and Zexia Griffith to death and tossed their bodies from their motor car on a cross-state highway near Tonkawa, Okla., early yesterday.

With Police Chief Charles Wagner of Tonkawa, Potter was conducting an intensive search late today.

Potter said the only motive for the slayings apparently was mistreatment of the younger sister, Jessie, 24. He would not elaborate on his meager statement.

Two physicians confirmed reports the younger sister had been criminally attacked.

The Griffiths were driving from Blackwell to their respective positions after spending the holidays with their parents here. Their bullet-pierced bodies were found near U. S. highway No. 77 south of Tonkawa a few hours after they left home yesterday morning. Zexia's blood stained coupe later was discovered 20 miles farther south on the same road.

HOSTILITIES CONTINUE IN SOUTHERN BURMA

RANGOON, Burma, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The thunder of guns in southern Burma tonight indicated that a vigorous battle was in progress between government troops and rebels.

Reports of heavy casualties have filtered back to civilization through the dense jungle area between here and the rebel stronghold, but details of what is actually going on are unknown because of the difficulty of communication.

The causes of the rebellion, the rebels' present position and the identity of their leader all remain mysteries. A prince of the wild, mountainous Shan states in eastern Burma with designs on the Burmese throne has been credited with leading the insurgents, but no confirmation has been obtained.

Fires raged in parts of the jungle which the British troops must traverse, reports reaching here said, and powder smoke clouded the underbrush, hindering the troops in their first major engagement with the rebels.

Maneuvered into a corner, the rebels were faced with the alternative of making a dash for liberty or defending their position to the end.

Outside this area the country as a whole is tranquil.

BOSTON POLICE ASKED TO SEARCH FOR NEW LONDON MAN

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Police here were asked today to search for Sterling C. Denison, 28, of New London Conn., who disappeared from his home Christmas eve. His parents have offered a reward of $100 for information which would result in locating him.

Captain Charles A. Pinney of the New London police said Denison, a Yale graduate and former student at Columbia university, left his home to purchase a few Christmas presents and failed to return.

ASKS LEGISLATION FOR USE OF LABOR INJUNCTIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—President Hoover was urged today by Senator Steiwer, republican, Oregon, to have the department of justice or labor prepare legislation to control the use of injunctions in labor disputes as a substitute for the bill now pending before the senate.

Steiwer told the president the bill before the senate was unwise legislation in many respects, but might pass congress unless some alternative was proposed.

At Least Ten Lives Lost In Hotel Fire

Victims Were Trapped on the Upper Floors of the Queens Hotel, Cochrane, Ont.

COCHRANE, Ont., Dec. 29—(AP)—Trapped on the upper floors of the Queen's hotel, an old hostelry, at least ten persons lost their lives today when flames cut off their escape down the single stairway.

The hotel, with accommodations for 100, was destroyed with a loss estimated at $75,000.

The basement of the building had been used as a lodging house for jobless men, but some 75 occupants sleeping there when the fire broke out were believed to have escapd. The exact number of guests in the upper floors of the hotel could not be determined, for the register was burned.

Charles Palangio, son of the proprietor, made his way to safety but went back to try to save his wife and four small children. The entire family was burned to death. At least four others were believed to have died, although only one body was recovered.

Several persons fractured ankles leaping from windows and one woman was taken to a hospital badly burned.

Charles Reeve, a railway brakeman, one of the first to arrive on the scene, said he saw several men at upper windows vainly trying to escape, but he was powerless to aid them.

"I heard them shouting and screaming," he said, "then a sheet of flame and smoke billowed up from the floor below and the shouting suddenly stopped."

The owner of the hotel, James Palangio, Jr., three of his sons and four girl employes escaped in night clothes. Pete Palangio, a second son, is on the Syracuse team of the International Hockey league.

In addition to the narrow stairway, the hotel had one outside fire escape. One of the guests declared all the rooms were not equipped with rope fire escapes.

Three bodies have been recovered, those of Palangio, his 18 year old son Victor, and Baptiste Besardni, a guest.

DEATH OF JOFFRE IS A MATTER OF HOURS

PARIS, Dec. 29—(AP)—"Papa" Joffre lay unconscious and dying tonight while a great throng of the French who love and honor him as the saviour of France whispered its sympathy and sorrow in the street outside his hospital door.

The old warrior fought with the stubborn tenacity that carried him to laurels in Africa, the swamps of Madagascar and finally to victory at the Marne, but his wasted body was unequal to the strain of the infection that attacked it.

This evening his physicians said their skill had been exhausted and deat hbut but a matter of hours.

Professor Leriche, noted surgeon, who was summoned from Strasbourg to amputate the marshal's leg when gangrene set in after an attack of arteritis, broke the news to the watchers of the Rue Oudinot. They stood in a drizzling rain, thousands of them, waiting for a word of hope or the sign that all was over.

Professor Leriche told them the marshal was in a coma from which it was feared he would not awaken. An hour later it was whispered that all was over, for Marshal Petain and Louis Barthou, minister of war, arrived together and entered the hospital.

The report was not true, but M Barthou when he left could give no word of reassurance.

"There is no hope left," he said sadly.

PARIS, Dec. 29—(AP)—Physicians attending Marshal Joffre announced tonight that his heart was still resisting, a message which carried a thrill to thousands of Frenchmen even though it was realized he had little longer to live.

HOUSE TO VOTE $45,000,000 DROUGHT BILL MONDAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Members of the house appropriations committee today disrupted vacation plans to smooth the way for house action next Monday on a $45,000,000 appropriation for drought relief loans.

A sub-committee heard Secretary Hyde contend that the $25,000,000 originally recommended by the administration would supply demands for seed, feed and fertilizer loans, but, nevertheless, favor the full amount authorized.

"What is the use of prolonging the fight?" Hyde said in explanation of his position. "If our estimates are wrong and we need more than $25,000,000, it will be ready and we will use it."

Chairman Wood said the full committee would approve the loan fund next Monday and it probably would pass the house that afternoon.

Says Sen[illegible]r Nye Is He[illegible]ne Hunting

A[illegible]ion Made by Chair[illegible]n Nutt of the Republican National Committee

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—Placid waters hid the Norris-Lucas row today, but the sweep of the waves it set up brought a charge from Joseph R. Nutt that Senator Nye of North Dakota was conducting a headline hunting investigation against the republican party.

Nutt, who is treasurer of the republican national committee, took cognizance of the statement by Nye yesterday in Florida.

"As was to have been expected," Nutt said, "Chairman Nye of the senate elections investigationg committee declines to apologize for his unwarranted assertion that I set up a 'slush fund' in Washington for the use of the republican national committee during the last campaign, but he grudgingly states that 'it is barely possible that further investigation may reveal that the $40,000 was not a slush fund.'"

Nutt said he had given an accounting of the expenditures from the fund and this accounting was available to Nye "when he made his unfounded assertion."

"The chairman of a senate committee conducting an impartial investigation of elections would be presumed to acquaint himself with all the facts before rushing into print with charges that could not be substantiated," he said. "A failure to do so lays Senator Nye open to the suspicion both of insincerity and of a desire to have the case prejudiced by the country before all of the evidence was in.

"But Senator Nye's tactics all make for newspaper headlines and this appears to be mostly a headline hunting investigation with the republican party, its officers and some of its candidats as the particular targets."

The dispute of Senator Norris of Nebraska with other republican committee officials over whether the party cloak was becoming to him, saw no new development.

Norris contended yesterday in reply to Representative Wood of Indiana that it was and that he had not promised support for the democrats in 1932 if they nominated Governor Roosevelt of New York. Wood, chairman of the republican congressional committee, had said Norris had promised to support a progressive democrat if one were named.

TO TRAVEL AROUND THE WORLD IN 24 HOURS

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Far out in the Pacific ocean, where all new days are born, little happy New Year of 1931 will be starting within a few hours his triumphal 24-hour journey round the world.

Westward he'll travel over oceans and seas, over the flowery kingdom, the great wall of China, Russian steppes, Indian and African jungles, over mountains and forests, over deserts and Arctic wastes, over the old capitals of Europe and the new capitals of the western world.

On his arrival in New York he'll be grown up, and by the time he reaches San Francisco he will be nearly 24 hours old.

In many lands there will be feasting in his honor and rites whose origins are lost in the mists that veil the beginnings of mankind. For older than the written history of the human race is the line from which this little prince of days is sprung.

'Nobody knows where the celebration of New Year's day got its start. The Romans learned it from the Greeks. The Greeks learned it from the Phoenicians and the Egyptians.

A BREAK FROM INDIANA STATE PENITENTIARY FRUSTRATED

Twelve Desperate Convicts Had Escaped From Their Cells, Overpowered Guard and Gained Control of the Cell Block—Surrendered Without a Struggle to a Large Force of Guards, City Policemen and Firemen—Warden Attributes the Attempt to the Overcrowded Condition of the Penitentiary

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Twelve desperate convicts escaped from their cells in the Indiana state penitentiary today, overpowered the guard and seized control of the cell block, but surrendered without a struggle to a large force of guards, city policemen and firemen.

The 12 men, all of whom had attempted to escape within the last year, were released from their cells with a key made from a spoon by Joseph Burns, bank robber and leader of the escape plot. They rushed the guard, Guy Burklow, but before they could gag him he shouted for help.

Warden W. H. Daly and his staff responded, but found the cell house doors barricaded. City police rushed into the penitentiary grounds and covered the cell block with machine guns while city firemen manned the prison walls. The prisoners surrendered. Not a shot had been fired. They apparently had no firearms.

The plan apparently was to escape through a window. Prison authorities found two bars sawed through and there was a rope ladder nearby.

Warden Daly attributed the attempt to the crowded condition of the penitentiary, pointing out that there were more than 500 men in the "D" cell house designed to accommodate 340. He said every one of the 12 men should have been in solitary confinement because of their previous attempts to escape but that there were not enough single cells available.

WOULD PLACE JOURNALISM ON A PROFESSIONAL BASIS

BOSTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—Newspaper work—profession, trade, business or game?

Regardless of the difference of opinion on how to describe it scores of editors and teachers of journalism gathered today to attend the first annual convention of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism, to exchange views on it.

Prof. John F. Drewry, of the University of Georgia said journalism was not a profession but had professional characteristics. He said there was no irremediable difficulty to prevent its becoming a full fledged profession, which would regulate the conduct of its members in a manner comparable to medicine, teaching and law.

The American Society of Newspaper Editors was the society, Prof. Drewry said, which should set up the machinery for placing journalism on a professional basis.

M. V. Atwood, associate editor of the Gannett newspapers, proposed the foundation of an American institute of journalism through which newspapers would certify the fitness of the men in their employ.

A demand that reporters be more than "press agents' messenger boys" was made by Harold B. Johnson, editor of the Watertown, N. Y., Daily Times.

The body of Mrs. Nicholas was found in her bedroom across the hall, the sheet pulled over her head to deaden the sound of the shot. She clutched a .38 calibre army revolver in her hand.

Royal A. Nicholas, found the bodies when he returned home from his office. He said his wife had been brooding for several days because they could not move to California to join othe rrelatives.

$14,000 THEATRE HOLDUP IN TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—A beardless youth who early today robbed the treasurer of the Paramount theatre in Times square of the night's receipts—estimated variously between $9,984 and $14,000—apparently has made good his escape.

For a time today police were convinced he still was hiding in the 35-story skyscraper that houses the theatre, but a thorough search by 20 detectives was in vain.

The midnight show was just approaching its conclusion when the youthful robber pressed a pistol against an elevator operator and made him lead the way to the treasurer's ocice, which with its lone peep hole was regarded as burglar proof.

Forcing the treasurer to wrap up all the available paper currency and to hand over a 35-pound bag of nickels, the youth made his escape by running the elevator himself to the sixth floor. Although all exits were immediately guarded, he is assumed to have left by a fire escape or by walking down to the fifth floor where there is a connection with the building proper.

The democrat had demanded a congressional inquiry, asserting that gunmen had forced election officials to change both tallies and ballots. The demand was refused.

DERAILMENT OF TRAIN CAUSES WESTERLY COMMUTERS MUCH DELAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 29.—Much concern and delay was given Westerly commuters and employes of the New Haven railroad on Monday morning by the derailment of a switching locomotive in New London about 6 a. m. The local express due at the Westerly station at 6:33 a. m., was over an hour late and when it arrived in charge of Conductor Stephen Shippee was composed of but one car, a day coach. Over 35 passengers were waiting at the Westerly station to go to points east and, on orders, Conductor Shippee directed all "D. H." passengers, railroad employes and those riding on passes to quit the car at Westerly that their seats might be had by ticket holders, and these with such passengers aboard made a full car. Just previous to the derailment three sections of the New England express had proceeded eastward and a number of regular commuters who had not taken this train preferred to wait for the regular morning accommodation train due at 7:20 a. m., and reported an hour and ten minutes late. To relieve the crowded condition of the one-car local express the west-bound accommodation due at Westerly at 8:06 a. m., in charge of Conductor Oscar Patch, left a coach at Kingston to be added to the local express bound for Providence. Taking all non-ticket holders off at Westerly complicated somewhat early train movements for in the number was a train crew bound for Providence to go to Putnam to man a train for New London. These men were returned to New London on the 8:05 a. m. train and were to make the trip to Putnam by auto. Also in the number were other railroad men who were on their way to Providence to go to "other jobs" and their delayed arrivals necessitated "coverage" by other railroad men. Even Conductor Harry Daugherty of the belated morning accommodation did not arrive in Providence in time to take his regular train on his return trip to New London.

MANSFIELD LIQUOR CASE CONTINUED TO SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 29.—Wasyl Dzwonczyk, 47, owner of the barn which burned down Sunday, revealing the place as being an elaborate liquor-making establishment, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Byron M. Houston of the Mansfield town court this afternoon on charges of manufacture and possession with intent to sell. He was not put to plea and upon the request of his counsel, Attorney Arthur T. Kelley, the case was continued until Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Bonds of $1,000 were named.

At the time of the investigation by the police, Dzwonczyk produced a lease for an ell section of the barn dated Dec. 8, 1930, and in favor of J. J. Brown of New York city. He disclaimed any connection with the liquor operations going on at his farm. The police believe that the presence of several oil heaters in the barn is accountable for the cause of the fire.

DERAILMENT OF TRAIN CAUSES WESTERLY COMMUTERS MUCH DELAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 29.—Much concern and delay was given Westerly commuters and employes of the New Haven railroad on Monday morning by the derailment of a switching locomotive in New London about 6 a. m. The local express due at the Westerly station at 6:36 a. m., was over an hour late and when it arrived in charge of Conductor Stephen Shippee was composed of but one car, a day coach. Over 85 passengers were waiting at the Westerly station to go to points east and, on orders, Conductor Shippee directed all "D. H." passengers, railroad employes and those riding on passes to quit the car at Westerly that their seats might be had by ticket holders, and these with such passengers aboard made a full car. Just previous to the derailment three sections of the New England express had proceeded eastward and a number of regular commuters who had not taken this train preferred to wait for the regular morning accommodation train due at 7:30 a. m., and reported an hour and ten minutes late. To relieve the crowded condition of the one-car local express, the west-bound accommodation due at Westerly at 8:05 a. m., in charge of Conductor Oscar Patch, left a coach at Kingston to be added to the local express bound for Providence. Taking all non-ticket holders off at Westerly complicated somewhat early train movements for in the number was a train crew bound for Providence to go to Putnam to man a train for New London. These men were returned to New London on the 8:05 a. m. train and were to make the trip to Putnam by auto. Also in the number were other railroad men who were on their way to Providence to go to "other jobs" and their delayed arrivals necessitated "coverage" by other railroad men. Even Conductor Harry Daugherty of the belated morning accommodation did not arrive in Providence in time to take his regular train on his return trip to New London.

REWARD OFFERED FOR CAPTURE OF BURGLARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 29—Today an offer of a reward of $100 was made for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the men who robbed the N. Goldberg store at Moosup during the early hours of Sunday morning. The offer is by the proprietor of the store.

State officers continued their investigation of the bold robbery today, but without uncovering any clues, it is understood, that might lead to the arrest and identification of the burglars. It is realized that tracing the stolen goods is going to be a very difficult task. Getting such loot as was obtained from the Goldberg store out of the territory, once a good start has been obtained, is an easy task, and there is always the possibility that the burglars will dispose of it hundreds of miles from where it was stolen. Nevertheless, the state officers are overlooking no detail of effort that may lead to the recovery of the goods and the arrest of the burglars. State officers would like reports on any coat hangers picked up along highways leading out of Moosup, and as to where found.

The slump in general business is not without its compensation for many people of Danielson and vicinity who have to count their pennies to make both ends of their financial affairs balance. For instance, fresh eggs right out of coops at some of the poultry farms near here were being offered at 35 cents per dozen today, the lowest price in many, many moons for this time of year. Pullet eggs were being quoted at the farms at as low as 20 cents per dozen. Lower grain prices figure largely in the current price of eggs, it is said. Then, again, cuts of fresh pork were being offered here at the week end for as low as 16 cents a pound. These are only two items out of a number that might be quoted. Careful housewifes are now able to save a well worthwhile sum each week on foodstuffs compared to prices they were paying a year ago at this time.

Polish People Contribute $58.50

Good tidings continue to come in relative to the nice things that the people of Danielson are doing for Mr. and Mrs. George Sarantoupolos and their seven young children, this family losing practically all of their worldly possessions when their new home was totally destroyed by fire with all of its contents in the Riverview section early last Tuesday morning. This evening Andrew Jaworski and Peter Hadjus, outstanding members of the Polish population of Danielson, reported the collection of $58.50 among the people of their nationality, always noted for their generosity and good will toward their fellowmen, and the presentation of this sum to Mr. and Mrs. Sarantoupolos. Thus the good work goes on, and thus is there established in the consciousness of those of Danielson who worry more or less about meeting with some unforeseen disaster that they live among people who know no limitations or restrictions barring Christian fellowship in time of need. It's a mighty fine old town and its people are real people, it is a privilege to record here.

Boys who believe in having the proper protection that many communities provide for them while coasting are circulating a petition, to be presented to the selection, requesting that some billy street by set aside for their use during specified periods of each day while coasting conditions exist. The boys have received the signatures of numbers of citizens. Day by day now scores of young people are exposing themselves to grave danger of serious injury or death by sliding where many cars are constantly passing.

Of general interest in this community, because his ancestors were of this town, is the fact that President Robert M. Hutchins, of Chicago university has devised a new plan of education for universities of the future. Before the southern conference on education held recently at the University of North Carolina President Hutchins submitted a plan for the university of the future in which work will be rearranged to enable the student to attack live problems of the day. Courses would be flexible under Mr. Hutchins' plan, and the specialist would be permitted to finish his general study in a shorter space of time. Small classes for honor students only would be held.

For the first time this season wild game birds are facing difficulty in getting sufficient food. Their feeding areas are covered to a depth of seven or eight inches with snow under which there is a coating of ice. The co-opera- of men who like to hunt these birds is asked in obtaining and distributing grain in places where they are apt to be found. This has been done in other years by interested sports men, but no such effort had been reported this season up to today.

There appears to be no shortage of gift calendars as the new year approaches. Firms here are being generous with them; also banking institutions and other concerns. The calendars are appreciated, too.

A beautiful sight these holiday evenings is the Christmas-New Year's decoration at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Atwood at Wauregan. Snow covered shrubbery in which strings of colored electric lights gleam front the home and cause many exclamations of delight from beholders. A pretty sight also is the lighted community tree that stands on the common in Wauregan. Still another delight is the illuminated tree on the grounds of the Unitarian church at Brooklyn.

Tons and tons of light gravel have been strewn on state highway surfaces all through this section by highway crews of the state department. Special attention has been given to hills and grades and curves. This efficient work may be regarded as a large factor in keeping the accident list down to the surprisingly low minimum reported since the snow first came nearly a week ago. The crews mannig the road trucks have worked very hard for a week past, and they have done a good job that is appreciated by motorists.

Many and varied are the plans of people for speeding the old year and welcoming the new in Danielson next Wednesday night. The plans range all the way from the pious custom of attending Watch Night services to attending, in some nearby city, a hectic dinner dance. Then, if one so wishes, there is opportunity to attend New Year's eve dances or a midnight frolic at home. Others will entertain in their homes. Still others, many others, will regard Wednesday night as they do any other night, and will retire at the usual hour, to be rested and alert on New Yor's day.

The water shortage from which some sections hereabouts continue to suffer is going to be considerably relieved when the present blanket of snow is melted. It is estimated that ice and snow will yield more than an inch of water.

The community Christmas tree erected on Davis park through the efforts of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, and which is lighted through the courtesy of the Connecticut Light and Power company will remain illuminated nightly until New Year's.

It is regarded as rather curious by some persons who have been giving it thought that very few idle men have gone about the borough since the recent series of snowstorms seeking work cleaning sidewalks. Plenty of such work could have been obtained by hustlers seeking for it, and considerable money earned.

Though it has not been an uncommon thing for ice crops for use in Danielson to be harvested and housed away at the close of December, this will not be the case this year. Ice is only a few inches thick on lakes and reservoirs from which Killingly's supply is taken each winter, and this ice is not gaining much because it is covered with snow. Ice dealers are now looking to January for the kind of weather that will make ice suitable for cutting.

Rural road conditions were reported as improving in some degree this afternoon as cars made their way through these highways on various business missions and tracked down the heavy snow considerably. No road was reported as impassable.

Holiday greetings have been received from Dr. John J. Banninga, a missionary that represents the Westfield Congregational church of Danielson at Pasumalai. Dr. Banninga makes stated visitations to Danielson.

The forecast is for another flood of greeting cards through the mails during the next two days, this time bringing Ne wYear's good wishes from one friend to another.

Remember! The Danielson Booster club's Ford car is to be given away after the show at the Orpheum theatre this (Tuesday) night.—Adv.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock Dr. George M. Burroughs of Broad street sailed from Boston for Savannah. He has taken his automobile with him and from Savannah will tour southward into Florida, remaining in the south until after the cold weather season here.

The annual New Year's musical of the Killingly Woman's club will be held Thursday afternoon in the auditorium of the Westgeld Congregational church and the Flagg Ensemble is to be heard.

Once this morning and once the past week Chief John McFarland has had to warn local motorists to remove 1931 registration plates from their automobiles. These plates cannot legally be used until Wednesday, Dec. 31.

Children attending Killingly's public schools flocked back to their studies this morning after the holiday recess. They will have Thursday as a holiday, however.

A particularly chill and penetrating fog hung over Danielson from early this morning through the forenoon. It was regarded as a strange sort of occurrence in view of the fact that the mercury was hovering just below the freezing point.

Because of accumulations of snow pushed from the greater part of the street to its sides by state highway plows, Main street presents difficulties as to parking cars easily just now.

A self-stoking device has been installed in the boiler room at Killingly high school.

Approximately the same arrangement as to mail service will be in force in Danielson on New Year's day as on Christmas. Mills and many of the stores here will be closed on New Year's.

PLYMOUTH ROCK HEN HAD ITS ORIGIN IN PUTNAM POULTRY YARD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 29.—Putnam might do well in applying for classification in the poultry hall of fame, if there be such, for according to the author of an article appearing in a recent issue of a farm and poultry publication, credit for having made the first cross that produced the early foundation stock of the present day Barred Plymouth Rock hen belongs to Joseph Spaulding of this city. Approximately 60 years have elapsed since this breed of poultry was first introduced to American poultry fanciers. Reference to early authors and reliable data has led agricultural writers to the conclusion that the Plymouth Rock owes its origin to D. A. Upham of Wilsonville, who exhibited the latest innovation in poultry along about 1876. The author of the interesting article which appears in the Poultry Tribune, for January, in quoting Mr. Upham's story of how he happened to show the new breed credits the development of the species to Mr. Spaulding who lived in this city and engaged in the commercial poultry business. Spaulding prized his fowls largely for their utility qualities and did not himself exhibit at public competitions. It was Upham who saw the possibilities in the birds at the Putnam poultryman's yards and arranged to purchase three of them, selecting only clean legged specimens out of a flock which had a good percentage of featherlegged birds among it.

The story goes on to tell how Upham, after acquiring the new stock, bred them until the fall of 1869, when he exhibited them for the first time at Worcester, Mass. The breed proved popular among the exhibitors and a "craze" for the species followed during which many sorts of crosses were made with the result that the fine lines of the present day sturdy Plymouth Rock was the ultimate.

The revelation of the poultry writer is indeed an interesting one, especially to poultrymen of Windham county and Putnam in particular. The fact may not be clear in the minds of many engaged in the business and to others it may be a subject for conjecture. However, the author in putting across his story credits Mr. Spaulding with the honor of introducing the species on the strength of an article that appeared in the Poultry World in 1876, which was written by the Wilsonville exhibitor.

POTVIN MAY RE-OPEN HIS DAMAGE CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 29.—Unless advised differently by his attorney, George Potvin, deposed secretary of the Society St. John Baptist, who recently took his fraternal troubles into superior court in the form of a $3,000 damage suit against the organization will probably renew his fight for vindication by instituting other legal procedure against the society. Mr. Potvin said this afternoon that the matter of re-opening the case, which was non-suited by Judge Newell Jennings when tried at the December session of superior court, rests entirely with his counsel, who is Attorney Samuel B. Harvey of Willimantic.

The suit grew out of Mr. Potvin being relieved of his office in the French fraternal order after he had refused to accept the dues of a member who had been convicted of a constitutional violation, which Potvin ruled was grounds for forfeiture of membership rights, if by-laws of the society were to be faithfully adhered to. The action of the secretary was contested by the member and after considerable controversy, Potvin was removed from office and subsequently from membership in the organization to which he has belonged for 53 years.

Good fortune smiled on many of the patrons of the post office and subscribers of the Connecticut Light and Power company today when they happened to be somewhere else besides around the offices of both establishments located in the Union block, as a heavy plank, used to prevent snow slides from the roof of the building gave way shortly after noon today and crashed to the ground under an avalanche of snow. As it was, an automobile owned by the Goodyear mills of Goodyear, which was parked in front of the light and power office when the smash came, was considerably damaged. No one was walking by the building at the time. Had there been, it is doubtless that they would have been severely injured.

Realizing the danger that lurked in the recess of the roof of the three-story structure, Archibald Macdonald, Jr., custodian of the building, immediately reported the matter to the police and made arrangements for the roping off of the danger zone around the south and west sides of the square. A crew of shovelers was soon at work pushing off the remainder of the blanket of snow that was likely to slide at a moment's notice after it had thawed in the light of the warm afternoon sun.

Miss Elsie Gallant, daughter of Mark Gallant of Church street, has returned to her home in this city after taking examinations for admittance to the state bar, which were held this week in Hartford. Miss Gallant was one of two women among a class of more than 50 law students seeking admisison to practice.

The recent issue of a popular magazine devotes several columns of print to the Trudeau murder case, which developed at Webster, on the morning of February 22, with the finding of the strangled and brutally beaten body of Mrs. Celia Manksi Trudeau, 28-year-old Webster girl, whose estranged husband, Leon A. Trudeau, 26, of Worcester, was later arrested and subsequently convicted of having committed the crime. He was sentenced to serve a life term in prison. As the scene of the murder is only a few miles from this city and both principals together with police and prosecution authorities figuring in the case are widely known here, the story is proving to be of especial interest to local people.

MONTVILLE

APPLY FOR CHARTER FOR FIRE DISTRICT

The committee in charge of securing a charter from the state of Connecticut for the purpose of establishing an independent fire company in the town of Montville took the necessary steps last week, applying for a charter. If this is granted, a meeting will be held at an early date and plans for raising funds by popular subscription will be made. The proposed fire station will be located on the land of former Senator Frederick A. Johnson, of Uncasville, who offered the land for the site. All property owners within a radius of a mile from the station would get a reduction of from 28 to 29 per cent on their fire insurance and people living outside the fire district would also get a reduction in rates. The new fire company officers are: President, Frederick C. Rogers; vice-president, Frederick A. Johnson; treasurer, Mrs. Charles E. Ramage; secretary, Frank P. Richards.

SPATTERERS BUSY AGAIN

The days of water, sposh and mud throwing are again with us. The snowfall followed by rain and warmer weather has left much soft snow and many puddles of dirty water in the streets. When fast-moving automobiles plunge through these there is a sheet of water and slush thrown in both directions and it invariably means that the sidewalk and those on it are liberally sprinkled.

A cold ducking of that kind might not disturb the temperament of the individual in dungarees in the summer time, but when it is suddenly administered to a person in his best or semi-best outfit and means a frigid shower in cold weather and damage to clothing, there is good and sufficient ground for the uncomplimentary things that are said of drivers who are responsible for such conditions.

Not only are people spattered in such a careless manner, but buildings, windows and autos just off the wash stand are similarly plastered, and in most instances it is entirely needless.

The condition of the streets is clearly indicated to drivers. They can observe distinctly the effect of fast driving upon the sposh and puddles. They know that their machine is projecting a spray of water and mud to both sides, and they likewise have a chance to note what the cars going in the opposite direction do of a similar nature. It is thus too often a case of insisting upon speed to the utter disregard of those on the sidewalks.

That it can be avoided is evident. Of course, the slowing down of the car when pedestrians are observed in a position to get the full effect of such a shower requires taking the foot off the accelerator and possibly applying the brake, or protection for the person on the sidewalk may mean turning the car into the center of the street instead of keeping close to the curb, but in either case the ducking could be prevented if there was the proper disposition. When there isn't it might be well for the aggrieved person to proceed in the usual way for the collection of damages and let it be established where the responsibility of such drivers rests. Most of those spattered would prefer to adjust th matter in a different manner but the speeding car usually ma'es it a bit difficult. Even catching the numbers isn't as easy as it might seem.

NORTH DAKOTA'S LESSON

What may be expected as the result of the failure to properly safeguard valuable property and irreplaceable records is convincingly illustrated by the destruction of the state capitol of North Dakota.

That was not the elaborate structure that graces some of the capital cities, being the original state building, to which two wings had been subsequently added, but at the time of construction of any part of it the importance of a fireproof structure was not stressed or recognized. It was a building that would burn and while it served for many years without loss there came the time when it went up in smoke and along with it went the contents. The building can be rebuilt but the replacement of the records it contained presents a different problem.

Evidently North Dakota had not given sufficient serious thought to the danger that surrounded its unprotected records to provide even fireproof vaults in which to keep them against the possibility of destruction by fire.

It is not an unheard of thing for capitol buildings to be burned, but it does not occur very often. Ordinarily the destruction of such a building is sufficient to cause others to establish safeguards for their important records and to keep in mind the necessity of erecting additions, or new buildings, that will be immune to fire. It means an increased outlay at the time but it provides a protection that compensates in the end.

Now North Dakota faces the building of a new capitol and it is to be expected tha it will insist upon a building that will resist fire and provide adequate protection for its records as they accumulate and such of those of past years as it is able to replace. It must realize by this time how preferable it would have been to have done this in the first place and to have thus avoided the situation that exists today. But what has come through bitter experience to North Dakota is an equally telling lesson for any and all other states which have capitol buildings that may be destroyed by fire and whose costly and irreplaceable records are subject to destruction in such a manner.

It will be surprising if North Dakota is caught in such a predicament a second time. The chance to prevent the first time lies before certain other states.

DEER PROTECTION

If the legislature at the coming session is asked to make changes in the law which now throws protection around the deer and establish greater protection for the people whose property is damaged by them, or if there is an effort made to have an open season declared so that for a brief time anyone may hunt them, there need be little surprise.

Those living in the country know how much damage is done to crops and orchards by deer. They may be able to catch them at their work, and if they do they have a right to shoot them. They are thus the only ones who are offering any resistance to the increase in their number in this state.

Perhaps it would surprise if it were known just how much venison is being consumed in the state in the course of a year. There are supposed to be records kept of the killings, but such requirements are quite as apt to be forgotten as to be remembered. For years the deer have become so tame that they have herded with cattle and got their fodder from the farm lands, to the decided annoyance of farmers.

An open season would be in keeping with the privilege that is extended to hunters in Massachusetts. This year there were 1,150 deer killed during the week when it was possible to shoot them without violating the law. But Massachusetts is claiming that the open season is rapidly reducing their number, while in Pennsylvania there is a demand that the law be so changed that the killing of does will be permitted in addition to the bucks.

It is quite natural that there should be objection to the killing of deer which make such a pretty picture in the fields, because they have been protected until the hunting means little or no difference from going out and shooting cows. The demand for the hunting and the complaint over the damage which they do to the growing crops result entirely from the protection that has been thrown about the deer for years. This protection was for the purpose of encouraging their increase without thought of where the cost of maintenance was going to fall or of the damage they would do. The increase has been obtained and with it comes another side of the picture.

EASTERN CONNECTICUT ROADS

The announcement by Highway Commissioner Macdonald of the highway projects that are to be let next month with the intention of having the work begun at once instead of waiting until the first of March is of particular interest to the eastern end of the state, for there are involved two rather important pieces of roadwork which when completed will be of much convenience to the respective sections and aid in distributing traffic.

For some time there has been a new road extending from Lisbon toward Canterbury which has been of little use because a section about five miles in length had not been improved. This was rough and narrow and those who used it once were not disposed to try it again. The plan of the commissioner to complete this link is therefore good news.

When done it will make a second route north from Norwich up through Lisbon, Canterbury, Brooklyn, Pomfret and Woodstock to the Massachusetts line and attract traffic to a section which is otherwise served by a good macadam road. It will considerably reduce the distance in reaching these points and at the same time reduce the traffic on the Norwich to Putnam highway.

It will mean another valuable outlet to the north, but it is to be hoped that by the time the new stretch of road is completed that arrangements can [illegible] made for eliminating the narrow underpass which exists in Lisbon and where fatal and other accidents have occurred. This constitutes a menace which ought not to be found on an improved road.

The improvement scheduled between Chaplin and Eastford will be heartily welcomed in that section. The need for such a road has at last been recognized and in both of these instances it is to be expected that much of the rough grading can be accomplished during the cold weather. These projects, with the remainder of the 30 miles of road about the state to be started, should contribute much to the relief of unemployment.

BINGHAM AND THE COURT

When Senator Bingham announces that he expects to vote for adherence to the world court he unquestionably indicates that he is going to act in accord with what is believed to be the sentiment of the people of this state.

Senator Bingham indicated some time ago that he was not in favor of adherence under the terms first proposed. He believed that we should join only if our reservations were accepted. Those reservations have been accepted now that the Root formula has met with approval and for the senator to declare at this time that he will be numbered among the senators to vote in the affirmative is quite in keeping with the attitude that he has maintained. It means that he now finds nothing of an objectionable nature which calls for his opposition. He believes that the interests of this country ha e been adequately safeguarded in the proposed action.

While it may not be true that the senator has waxed enthusiastic over the idea of joining the world court, or that he has displayed an eagerness to have this step taken, yet he has consistently maintained an open mind, apparently giving the matter much study, and reached the conclusion that the plan deserves support. If he has been helped in this decision by learning the sentiment of the people of Connecticut, it is only what was to be expected. Such a sentiment is frequently sought in order to meet the requirements of constituents and there is every reason why it should be given the weight to which it is entitled in regard to action on the world court protocols. After all, it simply goes to show that the senator is not one of the "yes" men who gives his approval to everything, whether he is convinced of its merit or not.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Looking down from the press gallery we often note marked contrast, political, physical and temperamental, between senators representing the same state.

Take Ohio, for instance. Down the aisle, the day congress convened, walked the newly elected senator, Mr. Buckley, leaning on the arm of Senator Fess, who presented him to the vice president that he might take oath of office. Buckley is a democrat; Fess is chairman of the republican national committee. Fess stands about five feet five or six inches, is slender, well dressed, well poised and always well groomed. Buckley is of the massive type; fully six feet, outstripping Fess in theight, girth and general rotundity; Fess is dry as a chip; an uncompromising "straight" republican; Buckley is an uncompromising straight democrat and a stand pat wet. But they seemed entirely friendly and unruffled as they stood together in front of the vice president.

Then look at Shortridge and Johnson of California. Both are republicans, but of different party factions and differ widely in personality. Johnson is short, stout, steps out in double quick, is tremendously aggressive in debate. Shortridge stands fully six feet, walks with a slow, dignified stride, speaks with overpowering caution, carefully weighing each word. He is punctilliously formal, even "Chesterfieldian" in manner. The two men are bitter political enemies in their home state, but it is not shown on the floor of the senate.

Connecticut sends Bingham and Walcott, both staunch republicans of the political creed—both tall, both vigorous in debate, both in the front rank when standing by their state and their party. Both zealous in defending what they believe for the nation's welfare.

Then look at Senators Gillett and Walsh of Massachusetts; staunch dry republican and staunch wet democrat. They not only stand far apart in political creed, but far apart in personality, temperament and up-bringing.

Mr. Gillett is a born aristocrat; wealthy, medium height, quiet, reserved, with manners beyond reproach. Always kindly and polite. He seldom takes active part in debate, but has been a leader in congress more than a quarter of a century. Mr Walsh, on the other hand, is a good mixer; is big in stature, ruddy of complexion, and an eloquent speaker. Walsh had to make his own way in the world, and made a good job of it. He worked his way through school, then through college. He is what might be called "well off", but not credited as a rich man.

And what about the senators from Maine? Well, there is no greater contrast in the senate. Both are wealthy and both republicans, but then comes the parting of the ways. Gould is considerably over six feet, angular, and full of quaint New England "sayings." He declined to run for re-election; speaks his mind right freely, and don't care a hang who knows his sentiments, way down to the core. Senator Frederick Hale is less than average height, one of the best groomed and best mannered in the senate, a quick stepper but a cautious talker, when it comes to interviews. Hale came to the senate largely on the prestige of his father, Senator Eugene P. Hale, but has made good in his own right.

When Mr. Gould steps out of the senate March 4th, he will be succeeded by Representative Wallace White, of Maine, who has long held positions of responsibility and honor in the house. White comes, as does Hale, from experienced senatorial stock, for he is grandson of the late Senator Frye of Maine, who stood second to no senator from New England.

If we look Texasward we see Sheppard and Connally—Sheppard is author of the prohibition act; short, quiet, smiling and always unperturbed but persistent. Connally is tall, wears a black frock coat, a big Texas broadbrim hat, and it doesn't take an electric lighter to start him up if things senatorial don't go his way.

From Utah we find Senators Smoot and King. They occupy seats across the middle aisle, for Smoot is a republican and King a democrat. What Smoot don't know about pending, past or future legislation, isn't worth knowing, and although no orator, his knowledge and position as chairman of appropriations, gives him the rhgit of way in debate, every time. He is tall, is of solemn countenance and seldom smiles.

King is persistent smiling but determined. He stands openly and firmly either for or against practically everything that comes before the senate. When somethings pops over from the republican side, "Reserving the right to object," pops from King's staunchily democratic lips. But he isn't afraid to change his mind, if convinced he was at first in the wrong.

And so we might run on making comparisons until the list of 96 senators, composing the senate was exhausted.

And while we are commenting on peculiarities of the senate make-up, why not point out that quintette of republican leaders who sit cheek by jowl and touching elbows with the insurgent leaders, so closely are they blocked in selection of seats.

In the foreground, on the republican side of the center aisle, sit Fess of Ohio, chairman of the republican national committee; Moses of New Hampshire, chairman of the republican senate campaign committee, and chairman of rules of the senate; Watson of Indiana, floor leader; Hale of Maine, chairman of naval affairs; and Smoot of Utah, chairman of appropriations and the topmost financier of the senate.

But almost directly back of them close together, sit Norris, Borah, Blaine and Nye, with LaFollette within easy reach, thus forming a counter quintette bent on upsetting all the plans of those who form the "regular" vanguard. To hear the bitter attacks in debate, you would be led to think the two factions were implacable personal enemies. But in refutation, we often see Senator Borah, or Norris or LaFollette, lock arms with Moses of New Hampshire, Watson or Fess, and walk together in warm, friendly fashion, out of the senate chamber and down to luncheon. It is exactly like what happens in court, when two attorneys have been tilting each other for supremacy, but when the trial is ended, meet as personal friends. Even Caraway whose tongue is the sharpest, and Pat Harrison, whose witty thrusts are the keenest, hob-nob with republicans when the day's work is ended.

On the democratic side of the senate, where factional clevage is not so much in evidence, there is no such marked grouping of leaders, as we find on the other side of the aisle.

For instance, while Senator Robinson, floor leader, chooses an aisle seat in the front row, Tydings of Maryland, Walsh of Montana, and other democratic leaders, selected back rows, and sit within hailing distance of each other. King of Utah, sits well down front close to Robinson, but there is no special desire to groupe so far as can be observed from the galleries.

Every one seems to have merely exercised his personal preference as to where he shall sit. In the senate there are allotted seats, and desks for which every senator may file a formal preference, while over in the house, with its 435 members, no seats are allotted, outside the accredited and official floor leaders, and no desks provided, except for the leaders, and chairman of the committees whose bills may be then before the house. For them, two large tables are set next the middle aisle, one for democrats and one for republicans, where the floor leaders sit all the time, and where they offer seats to chairmen when debate is going on. When speaking, senators stand at their own desks, while members of the house, may step to the rostrum.

The back row, under the gallery, in both senate and house is known as "the Cherokee strip," and to it are banished the newly electe' of the opposite party. If there is need of overflow quarters when a big majority comes for one party or the other in a landslide election, that produced an over-crop of republicans or democrats as the case might be.

NORWICH BRANCH OF IRISH LAND LEAGUE HAS ITS SEMI-CENTENNIAL

On Dec. 30, 1880—just 50 years ago today—the Rev. Lawrence Walsh lectured here on the aims and objects of the Irish Land League—one of the many instrumentalities which the Irish people have created to wrench themselves away from the domination of English exploiters. The following extracts are printed from The Bulletin files purely on account of their historical interest to the residents of Norwich, and in the belief that their publication now will not stir up animosities which have been sleeping ever since Erin decisively registered a victory over Albion by forcing the latter to accept the Irish Free State as a full member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, on equal terms with every other member of that commonwealth, including England herself.

The lecture by the Rev. Mr. Walsh was prompted by the formation of a Norwich branch society of the Irish Land League. The formation of this branch was first suggested, apparently, in the subjoined letter from John T. Moran, which appeared in The Bulletin of Dec. 8, 1880:

Calls On Norwich To Act

Mr. Editor: May I presume to trespass on your space? The Irish people are today in open revolt peaceably agitating against a system which is in conflict not only with the laws of God, but against nature itself. It is unnecessary for me to attempt to describe the awful sufferings brought on my kith and kindred by the blything landlords of my native land.

I have watched with much interest the doings and the enormous growth of the Land League organization both in Ireland and America. The ever liberty-loving American heart has again come to the succor of poor enslaved Ireland. Almost in every town and city in the United States and Canada are Americans and Irish Americans working in harmony, and forming branch organizations of the Land League, my own adopted city alone excepted.

Will some one please come to the rescue and reestablish the good old patriotic name that Norwich always maintained in Irish national affairs? The Americans will be with us; all it needs is for some one to make a start.

They who would be free themselves must strike the blow. I call on my fellow countrymen to suggest some mode to the propriety of organizing, and how we may do it, in order that we may help our brothers at home to gain their long lost rights.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN T. MORAN.
Norwich, Dec. 6th, 1880.

Dr. Cassidy The First President

Mr. Moran did not have long to wait to see his suggestion acted upon, as the following extract from The Bulletin of Tuesday, Dec. 21, 1880, indicates:

A branch society of the Irish Land League was formed in this city Sunday evening, and the following officers were elected: President, Patrick Cassidy; vice president, P. O'Mahoney; secretary, Daniel Lee; treasurer, J. B. Shannon; council—Bernard Carroll, John Enright, Timothy Kelley, P. J. O'Connor, Morris Welsh, Charles McChesney and M. J. McQuirk.

Father Walsh's Lecture

The Bulletin's report of the Rev. Dr. Walsh's lecture is herewith reprinted in full:

Dec. 30, 1930—The Rev. Lawrence Walsh of Waterbury lectured last evening at St. Patrick's church for the benefit of the Irish Land league. Despite the storm, there was a fair audience in point of the numbers and a great one as to enthusiasm.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. Cassidy, president of the local branch of the Land league and a list of officers was read, headed by the Rev. P. P. Shahan as president, with an imposing array of names as vice presidents and secretaries. Father Shahan accepted the chairmanship and introduced the speaker of the evening in a brief but graceful speech.

Father Walsh plunged at once into his subject by saying that he proposed to speak of the origin of the Land league, the points of the present movement in Ireland and the reason for the establishment of a Land league in America. When the famine of a year ago was imminent in Ireland, those now leaders of the Land league looked to see how it could be prevented. They appealed to the British government in vain; they appealed to the Irish landlords in vain.

Landlords "A Class of Neros"

There were a few honorable exceptions, but in the main the landlords showed themselves the most cruel class of men on the records of the century, a class of Neros. Then they asked what was the cause of the famine.

It was not that Ireland had an unproductive soil, for the soil was notoriously fertile. It was not that the people were lazy or improvident. He had been in Ireland and vouched from personal knowledge for the hard-working characteristics of the people. It was not because of the drunkenness of the people, for his experience had proved to him that the peasant farmers were sober men. There was drunkenness, too much of it, in the cities, but as a total abstinence man he was proud to know there was very little among the Irish peasants of the country.

The cause of Ireland's periodic famines was in none of these things, but in her land laws, which were the most odious and tyrannic in the world. When they saw help could come from no other source, Parnell and Davitt appealed to the tenants themselves. They took the ground that rights of property are second to those of self-preservation, and advised the tenants, if they could not pay their rents and support wife and children too, to refuse to pay rents in full or in part.

Amid great applause the speaker declared the English landlords had no vested rights, strictly speaking, to the lands in Ireland their ancestors stole 800 years ago. Their rights were only de facto, not de jure. Last winter, this advice of Parnell had saved $12,000,000 to Ireland.

One Landlord To 100 Tenants

There were 6,000 landlords in Ireland, and 600,000 tenants at will; that is, tenants without any lease or contract, liable to be turned off their little farms at any moment by the owner. He drew a distinction between the north of Ireland, where, he said, the landlords didn't dare treat their tenants so badly, and the west and south. When a tenant was turned off his farm he received nothing for all the improvements he had put on it. If he remained he was made to pay a higher rent on account of these very improvements.

The speaker had seen a farm in Leinster which rented a dozen years ago as bog land at 10 shillings an acre; now, on account of improvements put on it, not by the landlord but by the tenant, he has to pay 50 shillings an acre. Can the Irish tenant be blamed for not improving his farm or his house? He had seen, he said, something of slavery in the south, but the Negroes were far better off than many Irish tenants.

Among the good deeds of the Land league he reckoned the increase of independence on the part of the tenants. Once they crouched, hat in hand, before the landlord, like white slavery; now they stood before him, hats on, as boldly as free Americans might.

The speaker briefly referred to the bill giving compensation for improvements and the church establishment bill put through by Gladstone, and said the Irish recognized Gladstone and Bright as their friends, but believed their efforts neutralized by the minority and house of lords, as their bills had been nullified by a bar and bench, the servants of British misgovernment.

The Land league holds that the good of the majority is of more importance than even the "vested rights" of the minority. Mr. Parnell asks that the British government do justice to the 600,000 tenants against the 6,000 landlords. He asks the government to buy up the land and distribute it among the peasant tenants, giving them 33 years to pay for it. He laughed to scorn the idea of emigration. Ireland was not over populated but, in comparison with other European countries, under-populated.

Father Walsh also referred to the report in an English paper that the pope was about to condemn the league. He did not believe it. He had too much respect for the pope to fear that he would prejudge a case without hearing both sides.

Anyway, he advised his hearers not to put credence in stories reported by English papers about Irish affairs. Lucifer was supposed to be the father of lies, but if Lucifer was dead, he believed the post would be ably and willingly filled by the editor of the London Times.

Throughout all his lecture, the reverend gentleman was severe on the "empty-headed journalists" who write about Irish affairs. He drew considerable applause by these attacks, especially on the New York Herald, as well as by the expression of his desire for Irish independence, for the abolition of the British house of lords, and for the expulsion of the landlords from Ireland. He spoke in high terms of Michael Davitt and Mr. Parnell and said the fund for their defense having reached $70,000 no more was needed.

League Sustains Boycotters

The object of the American Land league was now to raise money to sustain the evicted tenants and the "boycotters." He didn't believe there was any danger of the conviction of the leaders in the present trial, but if they were convicted, other leaders were ready to take their places. In conclusion he appealed to all Irishmen to aid their mother country, for the love they ought to bear for her.

At the close of the address, a considerable number of names were added to the roll of members of the local league.

The trial referred to by Father Walsh resulted favorably for the Irish leaders. It is planned to follow the development of Irish Land league activities hereabout with the publication of other semi-centennial articles in 1931.

YOUR HEALTH

Have You Weak And Flat Feet?

By JOSEPH O'DWYER, M. D.
New York City
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

If you suffer from weak or flat feet you are probably wearing shoes that do not conform to the shape of your foot. The causes of such foot troubles are many but the commonest cause is ill-fitting shoes.

All muscles are weakened by acute illness or long drawn out convalescence, and it is only natural that the muscles of the feet, bearing all the superincumbent weight, often suffer. Excessive weight is frequently seen as the cause of weak feet— whether caused by carrying heavy loads or by sudden increase in weight. Undertrained people who have for one reason or another been forced to do increased walking or standing are often seen as sufferers from foot troubles. The foot is just as individual and important as the eye. One can go in and buy a pair of glasses without having his eyes examined; he can also buy arch supports without any particular specifications. The chances are that neither was meant for him.

Among some of the first symptoms an individual notices with foot strain is that his feet feel unusually hot and uncomfortable and seem to perspire more than usual. There is also lameness and frequently stiffness present. The stiffness is often more noticeable after sitting for some time, and also on arising in the morning. Pain is often rather a constant symptom in acute cases. In long continued cases of flat foot, it is fairly common to have a pain in the back of the knee or in the hip and in very severe cases, a pain is often present in the lower part of the back.

The people who need foot treatment are those suffering from pain or impaired function, not necessarily those with flat feet. Many men went through the war with flat feet, without suffering undue discomfort.

Treatment, which should aim at a restoration of function, depends upon the type of foot, and may be roughly divided into three types: (1) Acute painful feet, with or without a collapsed arch; (2) the flexible flat foot, which is freely movable; and (3) the rigid flat foot, which is bound together by adhesions and has limitations of motion in all directions.

In the first type listed, complete rest is the first requisite, followed by hot foot baths and massage. When the condition becomes less acute, the patient may be allowed to try weight-bearing with the feet well strapped.

Flat foot may be either congenital (present at birth) or acquired. Congenital cases are brought to the doctor more for the awkward gait and deformity than for pain. It is important to find the cause first and then remove it. After that, the simplest procedure is to raise the inner side of the sole and heel one-quarter inch. This tilts the foot on the outer side and turns the toes in when walking, so that the weight comes upon the foot in a position of strength. The rigid foot needs surgical treatment.

It would be a good thing if prospective shoe buyers would walk several miles before having the new shoes fitted. Feet are apt to swell after exercise, and it is while the feet are swollen that most shoes should be fitted.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Facts of Life

Mr. Editor: It is an unquestioned aphorism that one-half the world doesn't know how the other half lives. And still there is locked in the minds of many who have seen, as in the mirror of life, that which may seem stranger than fiction. As we travel on the pathway of life, we look back and try to recall something that is to us listed as the unusual. We read a book and are interested and we try in our mind's eye to see the author and we wonder as to what manner of man he is. We somewhere, some day, come in contact with another who perhaps knew him and through this means you see him as just a man, devoid of anything that may have invested him with anything of the heroic. Perhaps some of you have read the real, true-to-life stories of Jack London. Perhaps the "Call of the Wild" may have held your attention, and your interest, though it is only the story of a dog. Maybe you have read his descriptive "Children of the Ghetto," who in the reckless abandon of their youth dance on the sidewalks to the music of the hand organ, and all so realistic and typical of life on the East Side of New York. I, too, have watched this during some of my strolls over into the big city, have seen those little ones with their graceful movements, just the poetry of motion. As you read this you create a picture of the writer of this tale as something out of the ordinary. He derived all his inspiration regarding life among the poor through personal contact, for he had been a rover and had seen the shady side of life, as well as the sunshine, for he had been a "nomad" or what we know as a hobo, or tramp. He had been one of the star truck riders of the world and had ridden in many a side door Pullman. All this, in the bitter school of experience, did not dwarf the nobility of his soul, nor did it dull his intellect, for he was securing that first hand knowledge that would be of priceless value later on, when the real man would come forth and stand out in his true form.

All this preamble is necessary to what I wish to say, for there is today in the city of Norwich a young man who has many interesting facts in connection with this wonderful delineator of the seamy side of life, Jack London. This young man, as I may be permitted to call him, although perhaps a little way along the trail as is the writer, came at some time in his eventful life in personal contact with Jack London after he had found himself and become famous. I refer to John Cleary, or whom I knew "yesterday" as Harry Lester. He is living on Franklin street in Norwich and is steward of one of the clubs in the Rose of New England.

In one of my talks with him I gleaned much information. No doubt there is much that he might unfold, but I will go on with my story and let London tell it in his own inimitable way: "Riding into the honeymoon part of the country—Niagara Falls—in a side door Pullman, I wandered to the brink of the falls and gazed with adoration upon that wonder. With its fast-rushing waters I was lost in admiration; with its surpassing beauty, the roar of the onrushing waters, I could not tear myself away long enough to hit the 'domiciles,' long enough to touch a native for a 'hand out,' and as it was a beautiful moonlight night I lingered until after 11 and then I decided to flop (sleep), and I wandered out a little way into the suburbs where I knew my repose would not be disturbed by one of the minions (police) and here I slept peacefully until the dawn of the tomorrow, lulled to sleep by the thunder of the falls that I could plainly hear in the distance. I awoke. I was hungry, but the call of the inner man could wait, for the wish to once more view one of God's most glorious works was uppermost in my mind. I was lost in meditation as I gazed upon this marvelous work of nature, but I was awakened from my reverie by the rude hand of a limb of the law (cop), who haled me before the judge—and the charge, vagrancy, and the answer, 30 days."

Here I leave him for the time being. This is but an act in the great drama of life, so real, so true, and out of this crucible comes the real gold. We vision just the caterpillar and, tomorrow, the golden winged butterfly. This is but the reflection of our better selves, for at the end of the rainbow we see the bright sunshine of another life. This is given to the man who has the vision to reach out and aspire to better things.

Someone in a recent letter said to me that I must have always seen the sunny side of life. In answer I can say, "No, not always," for I have seen much of the other side and every man doesn't wear his heart on his sleeve, neither does he parade his troubles for the real fellow keeps on smiling and tries to inject a little sunshine into the other fellow's life. Do you recall Marshal P. Wilder, who said, "I live on the sunny side of the street: others walk on the shady side. I prefer the sunshine," I might add: "Me, too," so keep on smiling for even the flowers and all nature does that, and if you go around with a chip on your shoulder someone will come along and knock it off. So think it over, and keep on smiling. For although it may be cloudy today, tomorrow the sun may be shining and your troubles will vanish like the mist before the rising sun. This is one of the facts of life.

A Washington Bystander

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—In that all but forgotten day when the tariff fight started in the senate, the Hon. Jim Watson of Indiana, republican leader, arose to make a speech.

He does not do that very often; he just dips into debate now and then. Most time he's busy behind the scenes with duties of leadership.

Yet on that long ago occasion, Senator Watson said one thing that impressed itself on the Bystander's memory particularly:

"We all have a good time whenever I make a speech," he remarked at the conclusion of a tilt with somebody over on the democratic side.

Free-For-All

And that is true. Senator Watson on his feet to do an outward and visible job of leadership means invariably a political free-for-all of the sort much loved by the press gallery.

He makes it a habit to yield to anybody who likes to interrupt him and shoot barbed political darts at him. He seems to like the give-and-take of that kind of debate.

And being a man of quick wit with a liking for humorous jibing, he usually manages to give as good as he gets.

That Watson trait cropped up instantly when he undertook after days of republican silence under the steady fire of Hoover relief program criticism from the democratic trenches in the senate, to say a few words about non-partisan cooperation.

It was not an easy job to do, for that white house "playing-politics-at-the-expense-of-human-misery," statement complicated things. Watson had no intention of talking about that at all. And he didn't.

Back and Forth

But before anybody brought that up, Watson and Thad Caraway of Arkansas, that rambling verbal sharpshooter of the democratic cohorts, had tangled repeatedly.

Watson stands at his own desk while he talks. Caraway roams around the senate, hands in trousers pockets, head tilted forward. Up and down the aisles he goes, in and out among the desks, and comments and retorts fairly drip from his tongue.

"Did I understand the senator to say this cooperation was going forward?" Caraway asked.

"That is my understanding," said Watson.

"Then why is the senate being lectured?"

"I am not lecturing; I am exhorting."

"Exhorting?"

"Yes; I am exhorting the senator. He goes to church often enough to know the difference between a sermon and an exhortation."

So it goes. Everybody has a good time when Jim Watson makes a speech.

CHILD TRAINING

THE MEASURING STICK

Edith L. Reid

George and Elsie live next door to each other. They are in the same class at school, and in the spelling test they each missed two words out of ten.

When George gave his spelling paper to his mother, she exclaimed, "Aren't you ashamed of yourself! I suppose you let Jim Martin go to the head of the class again. If you would study as Jim does Mother wouldn't have to feel bad about your spelling paper."

"Spelling's easy for Jim," George protested, "he can remember anything. I brought mine home last night and studied half an hour, but I was afraid I'd miss and so I did."

George's mother thought she was using the best method to make her son study. Ever since George had started to school she had tried to get him to do better. This comparative idea was good, but she had always used the wrong measuring stick. She had held him up against another instead of against himself. The truth was that her own pride was hurt. She didn't want Jim to succeed above her own son. The inference to be drawn, then, by George or anyone else is that if Jim had missed two words out of ten, then George's misspelled words would not have mattered.

But what did Elsie's mother do about the spelling record? Since both mothers, afterwards, told the teacher all that was said about it, another method of dealing with unsatisfactory school work is available.

"When do you have the next spelling test?" Elsie's mother asked, and when told that it was in two weeks, she said, "Well, we'll just forget this paper and think about the fine one you'll have next time. What can you do that you didn't do this week, so as to win in a contest with your best record?"

"I'll review my words for five minutes every day," volunteered Elsie; "this time I let my reviewing go until the last day."

There was not a word from Elsie's mother about what anyone else in the class had done. Her little daughter was encouraged to do her own best, not the best of some other pupil. Elsie was held responsible. She was made her own disciplinarian. She was not crushed by the recollection of her own lapse in spelling and by the victory of a classmate. Rather was she inspired to press forward towards her own shining ideal.

Not all children can be at the head of the class or leader in the game or winner of a trophy. But every child should covet advancement and enjoy mastery of his individual problems.

It is discouraging to hold up an example of excellent before a child which he can never hope to attain. He may not be either physically or mentally equipped to reach such a standard. But every child can step ahead of his own past record if he has any intelligent guidance at all. And the thrill of knowing that he is better this week than last will bolster up his spirit and make him surprise himself.

Stories That Recall Others

Like His Own Hair

A druggist of slightly more than middle age, who prides himself upon having hair of original hue and thickness, was approached by a customer wishing to buy some hair dye. He asked her what color she preferred, and she appeared nonplussed for a moment, looked at his hair and then answered:

"Oh, the kind you use will be all right, I guess."

Financial Exposure

Mother and dad were discussing the regular monthly payment of bills. Some of the bills had to be put off until next month, while others were to be part paid. Barbara overheard the conversation and remembered it, too, for that afternoon when a neighbor asked where daddy was, she said: "Oh, he has gone downtown to pay bills, but he won't have near enough money."

A gateway has been erected at the site of Sir Walter Raleigh's colony in North Carolina in memory of Virginia Dare, first white child born in America.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Eddie Howard And His Admirals

The management of the Uncasville ballroom, ever anxious to offer the ballroom dance lovers, something new and novel, as well as entertaining, in the way of smart attractions, have gone to great expense in bringing Eddie Howard and his sensational Admirals to the town of Montville, for their initial engagement in this territory. Eddie and his boys have been creating a sensation with their modern interpretation of the hot dance arrangements and their novelty hits and smart tunes will no doubt make an instantaneous hit with the dance lovers. Music is the paramount aim of these boys and their desire to please is exemplified in their unlimited supply of popular dance arrangements that are being made exclusively for this aggregation. The Admirals specialize in smart dance arrangements that hit the correct spot and the right tempo with the dance lovers of this territory and they will no doubt be accorded a wonderful reception during their engagement at the Uncasville ballroom on Wednesday. Don't fail to see, hear and dance to this splendid aggregation at the ballroom on that evening.

Palace Theatre

Divorce Among Friends heads the all-star double feature bill opening at the Palace tomorrow and running through Friday. This is perhaps one of the fastest moving comedies of the eternal triangles ever brought to the screen, more laughs per minute then you could ever hope for. Irene Delroy, who is remembered for her great work in Oh Sailor Behave and with Winnie Lightner in Life of the Party, is the charming leading lady, and is ably supported by such well and favorably known artists as James Hall, Lew Cody and Natalie Moorhead.

Billy The Kid, from the great book The Saga of Billy The Kid, is the co-feature on this double bill, and is a story of the old west, with all the punch left in.

The most dramatic episodes of this re-creation of the life of William Bonney, notorious desperado of the old "wild west," are concerned with his capture. The locale in the picture is a cave. As no cave which could be artificially constructed could quite give the feeling of a real cavern, Kit Carson's Cave in New Mexico became Vidor's temporary studio for a period of two weeks.

This place is of great historic interest as the famous Indian scout, Kit Carson, is said to have sought refuge there on several occasions from marauding Indian bands.

Today, The Princess and the Plumber with Charles Farrell and Maureen O'Sullivan, is shown for the last times, and this is a real treat. Tickets now available for the gala midnight frolic, New Year's eve, 10 acts of vaudeville and feature picture, novelties, noise-makers, etc.

The seed industry of Oregon has reached an estimated $1,700,000 annual business volume.

FLETCHER POST VOTES IN NEW MEMBERS

A postponed meeting of R. O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, was held Monday evening at the Buckingham Memorial with Commander Walter T. Clark presiding. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and accepted and Warren E. Wilcox, chairman of the uniform committee, reported progress. Imbert Fellows, for the service committee, made a report showing an increasing demand on the committee within the last few weeks, showing a growing need in the vicinity for assistance to ex-service men and their families. Carl Johnson submitted his report as chairman and several new members were voted into the post.

Joseph Bellefleur, district membership chairman, spoke at length on the increasing membership in the Legion and of the coming statewide drive for members at which time it is expected that the department membership will be materially increased over all previous numbers. Enthusiasm is running high among Legion members and notwithstanding the depression, reports coming from national headquarters show the greatest membership to date that the American Legion has ever seen.

A meeting of the local membership committee, John Bennett, chairman, has been called for Friday, Jan. 2nd.

Notice was given that the January district meeting would be held at the Buckingham Memorial, Thursday, Jan. 15th. The following committee was appointed to make the arrangements for the meeting: Dr. Thomas O'Neil, chairman, Patrick J. McMahon, Warren E. Wilcox, Joseph Bellefleur.

SENATOR HIRAM BINGHAM TO BE ADVANCED

In the event the republicans have sufficient votes to organize the new congress which will meet in regular session next December and perhaps in extraordinary session earlier, both Connecticut senators will enjoy committee promotions.

Senator Hiram Bingham, of course, will retain his chairmanship of the committee on territories and insular affairs. In addition, the senator will be advanced from sixth to fifth ranking on the appropriations committee through the retirement of Senator Lawrence Phipps of Colorado and will go from ninth to seventh position on the republican side of the important finance committee as a result of the defeat of Senator Charles Deneen of Illinois and the recent death of Senator Frank L. Greene of Vermont.

Due to the voluntary retirement of Senator Frederick Gillett of Massachusetts, Mr. Bingham will be promoted from fourth to third ranking on the library committee. He will remain as seventh and last republican member of the committee on rules and will probably lose that assignment entirely in the event the democrats muster sufficient votes to organize the congress.

CALLED FOR CHIMNEY BLAZE ON SCOTLAND ROAD

SEVERAL AUTO DRIVERS HAVE LICENSES RETURNED

Hearings for motor vehicle drivers who sought to have their licenses returned or retained were held in this city Monday in the court of common pleas room in the court house before an inspector from the state motor vehicle department at Hartford. Two of the eleven drivers failed to put in an appearance and no action was taken in their cases.

John G. Lukaszewicz of No. 23 Carpenter street, Norwich, had his license returned. He was the driver of the machine which struck and fatally injured Matti Hytti of Norwich on West Thames street, Oct. 26. He was exonerated of criminal blame by Coroner Edward G. McKay and the case was nolled in the city court. The inspector informed Lukaszewicz that if he had any further trouble he would send his operator's license to Hartford at once without waiting for a hearing. He had been previously convicted on charges of speeding and reckless driving.

Albert Rondeau, 13, of No. 17 North Chestnut street, Wauregan, who was before the inspector relative to a conference in connection with trouble with the Rhode Island authorities, was ordered to send in his license to Hartford on his return to Wauregan Monday. He needed it to drive home. Rondeau drove his machine with a flat tire for six miles, he testified, and for this he was arrested by the Rhode Island police. The inspector told him that he would not return his license until he knew how to use it properly.

As soon as Aime Moreau, 52, of No. 41 Main street, Jewett City, takes out class "C" insurance, a special insurance for operators, he will have his license returned. He was arrested on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor in the town of Lebanon. Moreau is the father of 12 children and is employed as a salesman.

Other cases were disposed of as follows:

Hieme Cohen, Uncasville, violation, no conviction; decision reserved.

Maynard Joseph Sullivan, 67 Seventh street, Norwich, operating under influence; license returned.

Henry Marc-Aurele, 366 Central avenue, Norwich, operating under influence; license returned.

David Favreau, North Grosvenordale, operating under influence; license not returned. Limited license to drive for employer will be issued when Favreau obtains employment.

Peter Sorensen, North Stonington, reckless driving; will consider return of license.

Albert W. Bruso, 96 Thames street, Norwich, reckless driving; license called in by department.

Reuben H. Kerachsky of Leonard Bridge, improper markers; failed to appear.

Earl LeClair, Danielson, fatal accident; failed to appear.

GEORGE ELVIN WHITFORD NAMED "HONOR MAN"

George Elvin Whitford, apprentice seaman, U. S. navy, enlisted at local navy recruiting station Oct. 15, 1930. From there he was sent to the U. S. Naval Training station, Newport, R. I., for a nine week course of instruction in recruit training. This training comprises such subjects as: Infantry and artillery drill, boat and signal instruction, lectures on naval life and etiquette and lessons in swimming. During this training period Whitford showed himself so alert and obedient to orders, as well as neat in person and appearance as to be selected "Honor Man" of his company. This is a distinctive honor.

In civilian life Whitford was employed by the Atwood Machine Co. The many advantages offered by the navy caused him to enlist and he says he is well satisfied with his choice of a career. Whitford has passed the entrance examination to the machinist's mates school at Hampton Roads, Va., where he will be sent after his return from a 13-day leave. He was born in Willimantic, and graduated from Windham high school, class 1928.

His father, E. Whitford, lives at 161 West Broad street, Westerly, and is general foreman for the Atwood Mfg. Co., of Stonington.

The navy will resume recruiting next month, having reduced its normal enlisted strength of 84,500 men by 4,800 since it stopped recruiting Oct. 8th. Half the normal recruiting of first enlistments will be accepted in January, three quarters in February and the full quotas in March. The full quotas average 1,600 a month. This is expected to offset normal attrition and keep the strength at the present figure of 79,000 men.

Recruiting was temporarily suspended in October, when the revised fleet operating plan was placed in effect whereby a reduction of ships in commission made unnecessary, 4,800 men.

Eventually, as new ships are built, the navy will be required to return to a strength of 84,600 men and then to exceed that by several thousand.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Edward D. Fuller has returned, after a holiday visit with her niece, Mrs. Arthur C. Hallan and her nephews, Mr. Hallan and Arthur Brewer Norton, in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Fuller was a member of a family dinner party given Christmas eve by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Norton, also of a larger dinner party which they gave on Christmas day. Miss Ruth Brewer Norton, who was a member of the family group, has accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norton to Lake Placid for the winter sports, during her vacation from the Holmquest School, New Hope, Penn.

The Fesma Auction Bridge club was entertained Monday by Mrs. E. A. Bidwell, of Bliss Place at luncheon, amid very dainty Christmas decorations. At cards, the prizes were won by Mrs. Herbert M. Lerou and Miss Annie E. Vaughn.

SURPRISES COME IN BOYS' INDOOR TENNIS PLAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(P)—While the seeded favorites ran true to form in the junior singles of the national indoor tennis tourney in the third day's play here, today, the elimination of the entire seeded list of eight by unheralded stars provided the surprise in the boys' singles championships, as both divisions advanced to the quarter final round.

William Jacob, defending junior champion, representing the University of Pittsburgh, continued on his way to the finals without being pressed, as did Marco Hecht, of DeWitt Clinton high school, New York, number 4, Kendall H. Cram, of Nashville, Tenn., number 5, and Robert O. Bacon, Jr., of New Prep school, Cambridge, Mass., number 7.

Richard Downing, of Jamaica high school, New York, second seeded favorite, also advanced, but was extended to eliminate Stanley E. Davenport, of Harvard, tenth seeded competitor, 3-6, 6-3, 9-7.

In the boys' singles, school boys from the metropolitan area played havoc with the seeded players who had survived the third round, and the close of the day found no seeded players remaining in the draw.

Two of the startling upsets were scored by J. M. Freudenheim, of Mount Vernon high school, who defeated R. W. Giller, of Milton academy and Joseph H. Abrams, of DeWitt Clinton high school, New York. Abrams previously had conquered the number one seeded player, James Spalding, of the Hotchkiss school, 6-1, 6-1.

Freudenheim and Abrams recently were ranked number 1 and number 2, respectively, by the Eastern Lawn Tennis association, but were entirely overlooked in the draw for the national matches. They must face each other in the quarter finals tomorrow.

CHARGES OF KIDNAPING AND ROBBERY DROPPED

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(P)—Charges of kidnaping and robbery against three men held in Harlem were dropped today but all were held in custody on other counts.

Samuel Weiss, 44, of Brooklyn, and Jacob Rothberg, 36, of 36 Milford street, Boston, were held without bail for the grand jury on charges of violating the Sullivan law. The other man, Benjamin Bernstein, 55, was taken in charge by federal agents on charges of violating the Volstead law. Similar charges will be lodged against the other two. It was said, as soon as the Sullivan law charges have been heard.

The three men were accused originally of "hijacking" a truck load of 200 cases of whisky valued at $10,000 and kidnaping one of the two drivers. The liquor and truck, it was charged, were stolen in Troy, N. Y., through which it was passing en route to Cleveland.

The men were arrested here by police into whose hands the truck and prisoners fell at 125th street and Madison avenue on December 11.

Oscar Smith, of Summerville, Mass., the driver supposedly kidnaped, did not appear as complainant. A detective told the court he had information that Smith had fled to Canada to avoid arrest on liquor law charges.

PRINT SHOP PROPRIETOR FORCED TO WRITE $200 CHECK

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.— (P)— Because Max Allen is a cautious man, he keeps no cash in his Brooklyn print shop.

That was the case when three youths came in the office late today and, with drawn revolvers, demanded Allen's money.

"I'm sorry," said the printer, with a regret he did not feel, "but I haven't a cent, upon my word. I haven't."

"Okay," said the leader of the robber trio. "We ain't particular. We'll take a check."

POETRY

The Way To Arcady

Oh, what's the way to Arcady?
Sir Poet, with the rusty coat,
Quick mocking of the song-birds' note.
How have you heart for any tune,
You with the wayworn russet shoon?
Your script, a-swinging by your side,
Gaps with a gaunt mouth hungry, wide.
I'll brim it well with pieces red,
If you will tell the way to tread.

Oh, I am bound for Arcady,
And if you but keep pace with me
You tread the way to Arcady.

And where away lies Arcady?
And how long yet may the journey be?

Ah, that (quoth he) I do not know;
Across the clover and the snow—
Across the frost, across the flowers—
Through summer seconds and winter hours,
I've trod the way my whole life long,
And know not now where it may be;
My guide is but the stir to song,
That tells me I cannot go wrong,
Or clear or dark the pathway be,
Upon the road to Arcady.

—Henry Cuyler Bunner, in Poems.

The Snowing Of The Pines

Softer than silence, stiller than still air
Float down from high pine-boughs the slender leaves.
The forest floor its annual boon receives
That comes like snowfall, tireless tranquil, quiet, fair.
Gently they glide, gently they clothe the bars
Old rocks with grace. Their fall a mantle weaves
Of paler yellow than autumnal sheaves
Or those strange blossoms the witch-hazels wear.
Athwart long aisles the sunbeams pierce their way;
High up, the crowds are gathering for the night;
The delicate needles fill the air; the jay
Takes through their golden mist his radiant flight;
They fall and fall, till at November's close
The snow-flakes drop as lightly—snows on snows.

—Thomas Wentworth Higginson.

UTILITIES AND SPECIALTIES SHOW GREAEST LOSSES IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Without much support from investment buying, the floundering stock market charted a bumpy path today, closing irregularly lower.

Most of the larger losses were in the rails and a few utilities and specialties, for pivotal industrials finished steady.

Weakness of wheat in the world markets was a disturbing element. The July option at Chicago sagged to 61 1-2c, the lowest since 1896, when the price was 54 1-4. Liverpool, reopening after the Christmas holiday, saw sharp declines and students of that venerable market reported that the December delivery had gone to the lowest quotation, with the sole exception of 1894, since 1854. Chicago corn also was heavy.

A year end spurt in day loan interest rates to 4 per cent, the highest in eight months reflected the calling of about $100,000,000 in loans by banks. These were chiefly out of town institutions, which wanted their money to meet the billion dollars, more or less, in dividend checks and bond coupons payable in a few days, and also to augment the cash balance item in their annual condition statements. Considering the recent course of rates, it was tight money; but at this time in 1929 call loans went to six per cent and in 1928 to 12. In both those years, however, the demand was much larger.

The stock market paid little attention to the injunction in the Bethlehem-Youngstown merger. Shares of the former company eased to a new low, but the decline was fractional, while Youngstown Sheet and Tube, lightly traded, held firm. The coppers edged up when a quarter of a cent was added to the domestic price of the metal, bringing it to 10 1-2. Virtually complete returns from the class one railroads on November net operating incomes showed that the percentages of loss as compared with November, 1929, and October, 1930, were much the same as had been indicated in the statements of the first lines to report, although a few roads made an improvement.

In general, the stock market had two fair rallies. The first followed a heavy opening and lasted until early afternoon. Prices then gave way again, with U. S. Steel dipping a point. There was a recovery from these lows, but the market softened in the final hour when the rails weakened. Covering in the last 15 minutes helped most of the list, with the exception of the carrier stocks.

Some of the day's heaviness was ascribed to tax selling, but the more fundamental reason was obviously the lack of demand.

With the exception of the new July contract, which lost 1 3-8 net, wheat closed steady. Losses in corn amounted to nearly 2c a bushel. Cotton opened lower in sympathy with Liverpool, but the movement thereafter was generally upward and final prices represented advances of 46c to $1 a bale.

Declines of 1 to 3 points prevailed in such rails as Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, Nickel Plate, Frisco, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania and Southern Railway. New York Central cut a drop of 2 5-8 to 3-4. Louisville and Nashville, after touching a new low, was up 2 points net. Frisco lost 4.

There were small fractional advances in U. S. Steel, Anaconda, American Smelting, DuPont, Johns Manville, General Electric and Kennecott, and losses of equal size in American Can, American Telephone, Radio, Montgomery Ward and Bethlehem Steel. Consolidated Gas and Columbia Gas were off a point, Eastman Kodak lost nearly 3 and International Silver, an inactive, dropped 11. Sales totaled 2,768,820 shares.

Foreign exchanges sagged, sterling cables yielded 1-8 to $4.85 3-4. The Spanish peseta rallied slightly.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—The Mahoning Valley Steel company's sheet plant at Niles, Ohio, will resume operations tomorrow at 75 per cent of rated capacity, after a ten day shutdown.

Graham Paige Motors corporation has resumed assembly line operations and is working six days a week, with 1,300 men employed. This is an increase of 400 men over the number employed when the company closed for inventory in November.

MONEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Call money firm. High 4, low 2 1-2, ruling rate 2 1-2, close 4 per cent. Time loans steady, 30-90 days, 2 1-2 at 3; 4-5-6 months 2 3-4 at 3. Prime commercial paper, 2 3-4 at 3. Bankers' acceptances, unchanged; 30 days, 2 at 1 7-8; 60-90 days, 2 at 1 7-8; 4 months, 2 1-8 at 2; 5-6 months, 2 1-4 at 2-1-8.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—The curb market churned about uncertainly in the most active session in nearly a fortnight today.

The more active issues in the utilities and oils were generally steady to firm, but a long list of industrials and specialties broke sharply in light of offerings.

Short covering evidently imparted much of the strength to the more active issues. A total of more than 500 issues was traded, and the turnover embraced 873,600 shares.

Electric Bond and Share, United Light and Power A, Utilities Power and Light, and American Gas and Electric were among utilities to close about 1-2 of 1 point higher. Nevada California Electric, a comparatively inactive issue, shot up 25 points in a few sales. Duke Power and Tampa Electric dropped about 4 to new lows.

In the oils, Imperial gained a point, and Gulf, Humble and International Petroleum, each advanced fractionally. Cities Service and Indiana closed about steady, off 1-8. Vacuum lost 2 points. In the copper, Newmont sagged nearly a point, but Noranda closed up slightly.

Some of the investment company issues penetrated new lows. American Founders sold off nearly a point to duplicate its previous low, in anticipation of the announcement of discontinuance of stock dividends. Goldman Sachs eased a fraction to a new minimum, Securities corporation general declined 2, and Continental Shares preferred made an extreme loss of 5, both going to new lows.

Among the lightly traded industrials, L'Air Liquide lost 15 points, Parker Pen, 9 1-2, Fajardo Sugar, 8, and Aluminum company, 5, all breaking to new bottom levels. Dohler Die, Niles Bement Pond, Acme Steel, and Safety Car Heating, sagged a point or two to new lows.

There were a few firm spots, Columbia Pictures, Heyden Chemical, Triplex Safety Glass, and Tung Sol Lamp, gained a point or two. Ford, Ltd., rose a fraction.

An interesting transaction in the curb bonds was the purchase of a block of the old Imperial Russian 6 1-2 per cent certificates of deposit at 1 1-2, off 1-2 to the lowest ever. This was equivalent to 1 1-2c on the dollar. The year's highest was 7 3-8c on the dollar.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 29—(AP)—Prohibition received blame in some quarters today as being largely responsible for a fresh collapse that carried grain values down to new low records. July wheat fell to 61 1-2c a bushel, a bottom level heretofore unreached in 34 years. There was a simultaneous all around drop in corn to the lowest point since 1921. With the price breaks were reports that persistent downward swings of grain values were traceable to prohibition having shut off a large amount of business with Europe and having forced European countries to increase production of foodstuffs, with consequent lessened demand for American products.

Wheat closed irregular, 1 3-8c a bushel wore than Staurday to 1-8c advance; corn 1 5-8 at 1 7-8c down; oats 1-2 at 7-8c off, and provisions from 15c setback to a rise of 20.

CHAMPIONSHIP VS. SPORTMANSHIP IS THEME OF DR. LEWIS' ADDRESS

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—The ideal of sportsmanship as opposed to that of "championship" must be restored to intercollegiate football if it is to attain its proper place in collegiate life, President William Mather Lewis, of Lafayette college, today told the annual luncheon of the Sportsmanship Brotherhood.

Speaking as a friend of football, Dr. Lewis both pointed out the evils and suggested some remedies.

The evils he saw as lack of moderation, an over-emphasis on championship teams, on record crowds and record gate receipts, on intersectional games, and too heavy schedules.

He suggested formation of more such sectional groups—traditional rivals—as the Big Three and the Little Three, the Big Ten and the Big Six. And he also suggested conferences among the undergraduates, among the alumni and among faculties.

"The lack of moderation in the field of athletics, particularly football, has led us away from the ideals of sportsmanship," Dr. Lewis continued. "We think in terms of championships, and record crowds of spectators and millions of income. As result what should be recreation for school and college students, and of some educational value in giving them skill which they can turn to good account in their future leisure time program, becomes serious business. The student does not play at his games; he is required to work at them."

The students themselves are taking a saner view of things, the Lafayette president believes, "are growing up, putting away childish things."

"The pep meetings, the victory bonfire, the defeat depression, are much less than they were a year ago," he said. "The students are taking football in their stride. They are perhaps the first group, among those interested, to appreciate the benefit of moderation."

The coaches, graduate managers and others interested in sports warmly applauded Dr. Lewis' remarks. Dr. Charles Kennedy, director of athletics at Princeton and president of the National Collegiate Athletic association, and others echoed them.

Romeyn Berry, graduate manager of athletics at Cornell, said he would like to see the now inarticulate 99 per cent of the alumni be given a chance to raise their voices and "drown out that articulate, insane one per cent," who are constantly calling for winning teams at any expense.

There was no direct mention of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's recent suggestion for an "athletic league of nations" and an intended discussion on points raised by him and by Dr. Lewis had to be dropped because of lack of time, the luncheon having run far beyond its scheduled hour.

The symbolic love feast between Mr. Kennedy, representing Princeton, W. J. Bingham, representing Harvard, and Harold F. Woodcock, of Yale, also did not materialize. Someone else got Dr. Kennedy's seat at the table of Devereux Milburn, whose guests the three athletic directors were to be, and Mr. Kennedy was forced to move over to a seat at the speakers' table.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Tax selling and 4 per cent call money had a depressing effect upon the bond market today, and a majority of the changes were on the downside.

Railroad obligations were very irregular and narrow fluctuations either way gave a fairly steady tone to prime domestic issues but the rest of the list was heavy.

Year end disbursements amounting to more than a billion dollars, a portion of which should flow into the bond market, and bank withdrawals for window dressing purposes brought an advance in the call money rate from 2 1-2 to 4 per cent. While regarded as indicating a temporary stringency U. S. governments, which more than any other section reflect conditions in the money market, softened. Liberty 1st 4 1-4s, and Treasury 4 1-4s, reacted 1-8 of a point.

Special activity developed in New York transit companies obligations on announcement that a tentative plan for unification had ben agreed upon for submission to the city. Turnover was unusually large and helped to swell the day's volume of business which was one of the best of the month.

Brooklyn Manhattan 6s advanced nearly 2 points and closed 3-4 net higher, and Interborough Rapid Transit obligations advanced about 3 points before selling off slightly. The sixes closed a point higher, and the 5s advanced 1 1-2 points.

Stock privilege issues dipped sharply. A feature was the heavy activity in Allegheny corporation issues. The 5s of 1944 reacted 2 1-2 points, and the 5s of 1949 and 1950 yielded one each. Most of the railroad convertibles followed the downward trend of carrier shares, and speculative industrials were reactionary, some dipping to new lows for the year. Oil and sugar company issues were under pressure.

Foreign loans were irregularly lower. Australia 5s reached a new year's low in a large turnover, and Latin American obligations were weak. Bolivian, Brazilian and Peruvian governments and some of the municipals gave ground readily.

Losses ranged from one to three points. The European list French 7 1-2s sagged 1-4, and German 5 1-2s lost more than a point and closed 5-8 lower.

FOOTBALL TEAMS GET CLOSE-UP OF STUDIO LIFE

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 29—(AP)—Football players from the University of Alabama and Washington State college saw the inside of another great amusement enterprise today when they visited Hollywood to witness motion pictures in the making.

The big boys from down south and the lumber-laden slopes of the northwest found embryonic movies different from the hundreds of football plays in diagram form on blackboards, but they seemed to enjoy the novel skull practice and it gave them an opportunity to forget their game for a time.

The two coaches, Wallace Wade of the 'Bama contingent, and Babe Hollingbery of the Cougars, were well satisfied with the result of the outing from a football standpoint. The mentors thought their pupils needed a rest, as both squads were reported on edge for the big New Year's game featuring the annual Tournament of Roses.

The two undefeated teams were entertained on different "lots".

Alabama saw Will Rogers at work and heard the philosophical humorist wisecrack according to script and ad lib. When the luncheon call was sounded Rogers presided as master of ceremonies in honor of the Tuscaloosa tourists.

The Cougars witnessed the shooting of scenes in a picture in which Dorothy Mackail and Mary Astor appeared and then were entertained at luncheon on the set.

The parade of famous football players through the working section of Hollywood created considerable excitement and general amazement at the size of the warriors. This was not surprising as the two teams will offer as much poundage on the hoof as any two first ranking elevens in the country.

The charity game between Notre Dame and a west-south aggregation out of the way Saturday, and a clear football field left to the Tournament of Roses battle, interest increased noticeably today and it was announced the ticket sale had passed the 60,000 mark. Estimates of a crowd of approximately 75,000 were made.

Sparse wagering reported continued to favor Alabama.

Wade steadfastly insisted his team could in no sense be made the favorite and Hollingbery gleefully accepted the role of the under dog, declaring the psychology would be good for his side.

The two coaches will keep their own counsel until the kick-off but there will be many surprised railbirds if Alabama does not depend on sheer power for its offense and Washington becomes air-minded.

WELLESLEY GIRL WINS WINTER SPORTS COMPETITION

LAKE PLACID CLUB, N. Y., Dec. 29—(AP)—Miss Louise Adams of Wellesley won the college women's winter sports competition here today and took the Taylor trophy offered for the six-event contest.

She took the final event, the snowshoe race, and had two other firsts and three seconds to total 24 points, four more than the runner-up, Miss Vera Warbasse of Packer institute and Brooklyn.

These two distanced the field, for third place was won with 11 points by Miss Doreen Canaday of Dongan Hill and Toledo, Ohio. Miss Grace Madden of Newton, Mass., was fourth with six points, and Miss Happy Munro of Lake Placid had five.

Tomorrow the annual college men's competition opens for the President Harding and Marshal Foch trophies. The former is an award for the college team placing first in an eight-event competition embracing skis, skates and snowshoes.

The Marshal Foch trophy is the permanent challenge cup awarded annually to the individual winner of the ski jump, included in the President Harding trophy contest.

HALPIN REPORTS ON CONDITION OF ROCKNE

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 29—(AP)—Dean Dan Halpin, manager of the 1930 Notre Dame football team, came to Newark tonight by plane from Los Angeles. He was on his way to attend a meeting of the Notre Dame club of Hartford, Conn.

He said that during interruption of his fight at Kansas City last night he had telephoned Knute Rockne, who is recovering from a slight illness at Rochester, Minn. Rockne told him he was feeling well and had benefited from the rest. The coach said he expected to be in New York late this week or early next.

Halpin said he received a telegram from Mrs. Rockne stating the famous coach was "O K" and would get well quickly "if people would leave him alone."

At Hartford tonight, Halpin said, he would tell the club of the work of the football team this year.

OVER-EMPHASIS

Just at the present time there is much discussion pro and con regarding the matter of over-emphasis of football and athletics in general among colleges. There is no denying that there is plenty of over-emphasis of football in practically all colleges but is it not a necessary evil, if it is an evil as many claim? Those who claim that college athletics should be for college students alone seem to lose sight of the fact that it costs plenty of money to run a college athletic plant and that football in most colleges pays the way for all other branches of sports, inter-class and others. If football pays the way for all sports and recreation in colleges why kill the goose that lays the golden egg? If football is made just another sport in college there is bound to be a falling off in the gate receipts and when the gate receipts dwindle it means that the expense must be borne in some other way. This would mean that funds that are available for scholastic work now would have to be used in part to carry out the proposed athletic program and thus would handicap the college a great deal more than the over-emphasis of football. This talk of making football a sport for the student-body, and maintaining the old college spirit and getting it away from "big business" is mighty high-minded and all that as a theory but is it practical?

MR. SHARKEY AND MR STRIBLING

Madison Square Garden Corp. seems mighty willing and even anxious to stage another Sharkey-Stribling bout in Miami or any other place for that matter. It seems to be in direct contradiction to the old adage that a child once burned is always afraid of fire. The Garden Corp took a sweet licking in the "Tete Tete Among the Palms" in 1929 and it would seem that there would be a natural aversion to taking a chance of a repetition. The fans who saw the "Fiasco of the Southland" can't be suckers enough to go and see another bout between these two boys. A Sharkey-Stribling bout wouldn't draw flies if it was held in a molasses refinery. To put over another bout between these two boxers the press agents will have to work overtime and with high pressure methods on any kind of a ballyhoo that will make the turnstiles click to the tune of a quarter of a million. No heavyweight bout between any of the present crop seems like a moneymaking proposition. The only thing that would pack them in again would be the return of Dempsey or Tunney to the ring.

SEN. DAVIS WARNS COACHES AGAINST OVER-EMPHASIS

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania tonight warned the American Football Coaches' association that football was facing the danger of extinction because of over-emphasis of the commercial aspects of the game.

Speaking at the coaches' annual "Brown Derby" banquet, Senator Davis declared the coach was in a fine position to cure the ills that have caused criticism.

Senator Davis thought the coach was playing too prominent a part in the actual playing of the game. Asserting the coach should not be on the field during play, he took the position that the coach's work was over when he had prepared the team for competition and thought the team then should be left to its own resources.

"It is no more logical," he declared "to have the coach on the field to run the game from the bench than it would be to have a college professor around to help college graduates after they are out in the world."

Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt was toastmaster at the banquet.

Senator Davis warned that "the game is the thing—not the score."

"The football team exists for the college," he asserted, advocating extension of athletic participation in colleges and high schools beyond the candidates for football and other teams.

"Inter-class athletics should be given encouragement," he continued. "Out of this should come better physical development of the entire student body, assuring better teams than those which now represent the various colleges on the athletic fields. It is obvious that an athletic program that reaches only a small part of the student body is of little or no value, as far as the physical welfare of that body is concerned.

"Athletic competition should be extended to include everyone on the campus."

ACADEMY SHOWS WELL AGAINST TEAM OF GRADS

In preparation for the opening game of the season Friday with Putnam high at Putnam, Coach Bitgood sent his Academy basketball squad through a brisk scrimmage session Monday afternoon at the Norton Memorial gym against a team of graduates. The students went through their paces in a satisfactory manner and are almost in shape to start their first tilt.

There is much interest in the tilt and a large crowd will accompany the team to Putnam. Putnam has played and won one game, defeating East Providence high, 32 to 20, and is regarded as a formidable opponent.

COACHES FAVOR CHANGE IN EXTRA POINT AND BLOCKED-KICK RULES

(By Edward J. Neil)

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—The master minds of the gridiron, meeting in convention as the American Football coaches association, found time today to favor two changes in the playing rules along with retention of the point after touchdown in between rounds of a strenuous battle over the bugaboo of over-emphasis.

After the sweeping recommendations of Hugo Bezdek designed to curb over-emphasis had been shelved a series of softened resolutions proposed by W. W. Roper, former Princeton head coach, were adopted almost unanimously on second thought in the afternoon meeting.

The sweeping reforms suggested by Bezdek, Penn State athletic director,—centralization of all college athletics under a department of physical education, adoption of athletic budgets, abolishment of spring practice and fall workouts until Sept. 15, and establishment of football coaches as bona-fide members of college faculties—were finally reduced to three points, dealing chiefly with fall and spring practice and post-season games.

Roper's resolution, adopted with only a few dissenting voices, stipulated that fall practice start approximately Sept. 15, that post-season games be kept at a minimum "and that the best interests of football are against charity games, except in exceptional cases;" that spring practice be not compulsory upon the players and be organized in moderation so as not to conflict with other sports, and that practice during the fall season be limited to two hours a day.

The resolution, coming out of the fire of bitter debate, has the effect only of putting the coaches on record as favoring these changes in the pigskin system. Nevertheless their vote indicates a willingness to support policies already in effect in most of the big conference groups.

In between the over-emphasis debates which struck deep into tender spots in many sections of the meeting hall, the coaches unanimously adopted recommendations of the rules committee headed by Lou Little, of Columbia. These recommendations would have the National Collegiate A. A. committee retain the try for the extra point after touchdown but would strip from officials the right to award or take away the point because of a foul on the extra play.

The second change in the rules would give the privilege of advancing the ball after recovery to a team that has one of its kicks blocked. Under the present code the defending team alone can advance the ball after recovering a blocked kick.

Seven recommendations, all embodying the answers to questions sent out in a questionnaire to every member of the association, were accepted with little or no debate. The coaches voted 182 to 89 in favor of retaining the point after touchdown and 208 to 71 in favor of taking away from officials the right to award the extra point. The coaches suggested that the usual penalties for fouls governing the play for extra point be substituted, the ball being advanced to the one yard line and the play being made over again if the defense is off-side, while the offense would try again from the seven yard line if off-side on the first attempt.

Rules governing the screen pass were acceptable to 164 of the coaches while 88 favored changes, and the shift was favored in its present form, 213 votes to 49. The coaches also favored interpretation of rules meetings in March instead of September so that coaches and officials alike would have an opportunity to study changes some time before they go into effect.

In what appeared to be almost disciplinary action, the coaches suggested that their own three delegates to the rules committee meeting express the views of the association as a whole in the future rather than their individual opinions. Jock Sutherland, of Pittsburgh, answered the criticism for himself, "Pop" Warner, of Stanford, and Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, this year's delegates. Dan McGugin, of Vanderbilt, was chosen to succeed Warner on this committee.

Paul Schissler, coach at Oregon State, opened the afternoon barrage on over-emphasis with figures that showed his eleven devoted 118 hours to football last season as compared to the 126 hours set by a mathematics professor at Oregon State as the minimum of study required in one of his 12-week courses.

The association adopted a resolution asking 100 colleges and universities to time their practices next fall and submit their figures to the next assembly.

John F. (Chick) Meehan, of New York university, was elected president of the association, succeeding W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech. William H. Cowell, of New Hampshire, was reelected secretary-treasurer. Dr. Marvin Stevens, of Yale, was chosen first vice president and McGugin second vice president. Trustees chosen were: Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame; Dana X. Bible, of Nebraska; Edward L. Casey, of Harvard; and Bernie Bierman, of Tulane.

Honoray memberships in the association were voted to Major Daly, former Army and Harvard player and coach; Amos Alonzo Stagg, of Chicago; and Fielding Yost, of Michigan. A resolution was adopted in tribute to the late Enoch H. Bagshaw, who coached at the University of Washington prior to the past season.

STRIBLING READY TO MEET SHARKEY ANYTIME

OCHLOCKNEE, Ga., Dec. 29—(AP)—The Striblings are ready for Jack Sharkey—in Miami. "Pa" admitted today he had advised William Carey of Madison Square Garden that "W. L." was willing to face the Boston sailor man under the spreading palms.

Pa also said W. L. was ready and willing to meet Sharkey or Max Schmeling in Chicago. He favored February or March as the time for the proposed bout.

Madison Square Garden officials have been dickering with the Striblings for some time for W. L's. services against Sharkey.

The Shyma club of Taftville will have the Aces from Montville as its opponent for the weekly basketball tonight at Parish hall and sharing the spotlight with this fast attraction is the opening of the Shyla basketball league, with two games scheduled.

The opening game of the evening will go on at 7:30 o'clock, which should place the starting time for the main game at about 9 p. m. The Lipsticks will battle the Powder Puffs and the Rouge team tackles the Permanents in the league clashes. The Shyla club is the girls' organization affiliated with the Shyma club. There are six teams in all and practice sessions have been held for several weeks.

The Shymas plan to present their strongest front, which includes Ray Yerrington and Lefty Dugas at forwards, Coleman at center and Les Pingree and Lemieux at guards. The Aces have won three out of their four games this year and are confident of keeping up the good work. They will use their regular lineup, as shown above, and will have Lak as utility player.

FOUR GAMES IN S. N. E. BASKETBALL LEAGUE TONIGHT

The Southern New England basketball league finishes its first round tonight at the Plainfield Community house with four fast basketball games scheduled. The first tilt brings together Plainfield and Willimantic, two of the fastest clubs in the loop. These two clubs share with Danielson in a triple tie for first place and both clubs have an even chance of winning.

The Willimantic team will be greatly strengthened with the addition of Artie Meikle and Saba, from Vermont academy, while Plainfield will depend upon the usual lineup with Bromley, Peterson, Dysart, Mercer and Mette, with "Gorilla" Korab in reserve.

Danielson is favored to stay in a tie for first place as they battle the New London Tel and Tel team, but if McKelvie shows up with the New London boys tonight, they will have a good chance of winning, as Danielson suffered a setback in the loss of their center, Mayhew.

The New London Boys' club and Putnam will fight it out for the fifth place tonight with the Putnam team the favorites through their great playing during the past two weeks, swamping Danielson last week. Stafford Springs is expected to take the Westerly team into camp with little trouble. Pop Williams, Paul Bitgood or Leroy A. Dissinger will do the officiating.

The schedule:

7:30—Willimantic vs. Plainfield.

8:00—Stafford Springs vs. Westerly.

9:20—Putnam vs. New London Boys' club.

10:00—New London Tel. and Tel. vs. Danielson.

President Lester Salisbury announced last evening that, due to the unemployment conditions and also the wonderful patronage that the public is giving to the professional team every Thursday evening in Plainfield, he was going to allow the public to attend the S. N. E. basketball games on the pay-as-they-like plan with the understanding that those who are not working and feel that they cannot pay are invited to attend these games free of charge. There are always four good basketball games.

SHIRES IN HOOSEGOW PLAYS UP TO HIS PUBLIC

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 29—(AP)—The motion picture career of Charles Arthur "The Great" Shires bumped to a sudden halt today to allow its principal time to get out of jail.

And in getting into jail during the wee hours of the morning on charges of drunkenness and carrying concealed weapons, "Whataman" proved he was a showman, as ever.

Desk Sergeant Gordon Towne, in charge of the Hollywood station, said Shires weaved in and began to regale him with a monologue.

Towne remarked: "Gwan home."

Shires announced he would stay, Towne said, and in a high crescendo of shouts, declared: "I've got rights as a citizen, haven't I. Try and put me out if I want to stay in this hoosegow."

Towne didn't. He took the ball player to sunrise court, where he pleaded not guilty to charges of drunkenness and was ordered to trial next Wednesday.

Shires was declared to have possessed a pair of brass knuckles, a felony in California, the penalty for which may be one to five years in prison. That matter was not easily disposed of and Shires will be brought into court later to plead to this charge, meanwhile remaining in jail.

Shires later said he went to the station to report he had been held up and robbed of $50. Towne said he apparently forgot it.

Shires, former major league ball player, and boxer, came to Hollywood to enter pictures. His first picture was in a boxing serial. His last one to date was behind the bars with newspaper photographers doing the shooting.

13-YEAR-OLD BOY SETS JUNIOR BILLIARD RECORD

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Arthur Judice of Brooklyn, 13, broke the national junior high run record with a string of 27 in defeating Lewis Pastore of New York, 14, in the first game of the eastern junior pocket billiard championship tournament here today. Judice won, 76 to 8, in 19 innings.

The former record of 25 was set by Robert Moore of Grand Rapids, Mich., present national junior champion, in Chicago last August.

In the second afternoon game, Alphonso Giugliano of Brooklyn, 16, defeated Joseph Venturella, New York, 15, 75 to 66, in 45 innings. Giugliano's high run was six; Venturella's 13.

Arthur Cranfield, Jr., of Syracuse, N. Y., 16, defeated Antonio Massa, Brooklyn, 15, by 75 to 10, in 27 innings. Cranfield's high run was 14; Massa's eight.

The tournament schedule calls for 15 games, five each day with the wind-up Wednesday night. The winner will meet Moore for the title.

SEEDED PLAYERS ADVANCE IN GIRLS' TENNIS TOURNEY

BROOKLINE, Mass., Dec. 29.—(AP)—All of the seeded players called upon to play in the opening matches of the ninth annual girls' national indoor singles tennis tournament were successful today on the Longwood indoor courts.

Six of the favored eight participated in the play, which numbered only 11 matches during the entire day. The only one on the seeded list to meet with any kind of opposition was Helen Jones of Swampscott, No. Five, who had to play an extra set before overcoming Virginia Arnold, Boston high school champion, by scores of 5-7, 6-4, 6-4.

Joanna Palfrey, 13-year-old sister of Sarah, the last year's champion, who has graduated from the junior division, carried out the famous Brookline family's tradition in this tournament by advancing into the second round with the loss of but one game to Alice Wood of Boston.

Renault to Meet Charles

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Jack Renault, the veteran Canadian heavyweight, was substituted today for Mateo Osa of Spain as an opponent for Pierre Charles, of Belgium in the 10-round bout topping the heavyweight card at Madison Square Garden Friday night. Osa hurt his arm in training.

HUTCHINSON NAMED HEAD OF GRADUATE ADVISORY COM.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 29—(AP)—The Yale A. A. tonight announced the appointment of Guy Hutchinson, '06, Sheffield, of New York, as chairman of the Yale graduate advisory football committee for 1931. He succeeds Tad Jones, former head football coach at Yale and chairman of advisory football committee for the past three years.

Besides the chairman, the committee for next year will consist of six members, three of whom served on the 1930 committee, which had a membership of eight.

Edward C. Bench, '25, Englewood, N. J.; Edwin F. Blair, '24, New Haven; and Malcolm Farmer, '04, Sheff, New Britain, were the members of the 1930 committee who will also serve next year. The other members will be Ed Leader, rowing coach at Yale since 1922; Artemus L. Gates, '18, of New York ;and Henry E. Tuttle, '14, of Groton, Mass.

The retirement of Jones as a member of the committee had been expected for some time. Recently the athletic association denied a rumor that the former head coach was leaving the committee because of a rule adopted by the association prohibiting persons officially connected with Yale athletics from broadcasting or writing for newspapers.

With Jones, the following are members of the 1930 committee who will not serve on the new committee: C. B. Esselstyn, '25, New Haven; Burr C. Chamberlin, '97 Sheff, Brooklyn, N. Y.; John Field, '11, Bridgeport; and Louis F. Stoddard, '99, New York.

Leader is a graduate of the University of Washington, but received a degree at Yale in 1928.

Hutchinson served on the committee of which he becomes chairman some years ago. As an undergraduate, he won his Y in football, playing quarterback on the varsity team in his junior and senior years.

ZUPPKE SOLVES HIS PROBLEM OF QUARTERBACK

DALLAS, Dec. 29—(AP)—Refreshed in mind and body after a day devoted to relaxation and tightly chaperoned sight-seeing tours, football squads of the middlewest and southwest returned with zest today to practice siege in preparation for Thursday's charity battle.

In particularly high spirits was the midwest squad as it romped through a single workout.

"This is one of the easiest teams to handle I ever saw," said Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois, "Although many of them have been playing against each other for three years, they have developed a fine team spirit and are rearing to go right now. That's about half the battle in football."

Among other things, Zuppke decided today on his quarterback, the one position that had him worried. Stanley Bodman, big tackle of the University of Illinois, will direct the midwest attack when he is in the game. If and when Bodman goes out, the task will fall to Leo Jensvold, University of Iowa line crasher, Zuppke said.

Outside of that, the midwest mentor was unable to hazard a guess on his starting line-up. Among the possible backfield nominations he listed Kissell Purdue; Horn, Ohio State; Deig, Marquette; Molloy, Loyola, and Jensvold.

Five players on whom the southwest is counting strongly were scheduled to arrive by airplane from Los Angeles early tonight. They include Jake Wilson, quarterback, and Bochey Koch, guard, both of Baylor, who played for the west in Saturday's charity tilt at Los Angeles, and Noble Atkins, big Texas Christian university center, also credited with some noble work in the coast battle. The other two were Louis Long, Southern Methodist end, and Louis Paradeaux, Baylor center.

At a meeting of Dixie classic officials today, it was decided not to permit a broadcast of the New Year's game. As all profits go to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children here, the promoters said they felt the fans should be given no incentive to stay at home. A sum of $10,000 was cleared last year.

DUNLAP REACHES SECOND ROUND AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 29—(AP)—George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, Princeton golfer and intercollegiate champion, won his way into the second round of the 29th annual Pinehurst mid-winter tournament here this afternoon by defeating Halbert J. PLAINFIELD TACKLES PHIL. COLORED GIANTS ON THURSDAY

At the Plainfield Community house on Thursday evening the Plainfield Pros play the Philadelphia Colored Giants in what should be the best game in a number of weeks. The Colored Giants have a fast club having won 24 out of the last 25 games played. Ther, there is that star comedian Berthard with them and the new center, Flater, who stands six feet and seven inches in his stocking feet.

BOXING INSPECTOR ASKED FOR CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 29.—(AP)—A chief inspector to control boxing in California was recommended to Governor C. C. Young today by the commission he recently appointed to investigate fight conditions.

The commission suggested the proposed chief inspector be paid $7,500 to $10,000 a year and devote his entire time to the work.

At present boxing in California is administered by a state athletic commission of three men and a secretary. The three members received no pay and are responsible for conditions in their own territory. The recommendations today would provide for a commission of three and a chief inspector with authority over the entire state.

ROCK RECOMMENDS BASKETS FOR GRID

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Knute Rockne's contribution to the "Brown Derby" contest of the American Football Coaches' association banquet was received tonight by telegraph from Rochester, Minn., where Rockne is recovering from an illness. The "Brown Derby" goes to the contributor of the best "wisecrack" of the evening.

Here's what Rockne had to say:

"Happy New Year to all the coaches. Suggest for air-minded mentors removal of goal posts and substitution of baskets and backboards. Also suggest that Napoleon Okeson (Commissioner Walter Okeson) rule on lateral passes inside and outside the head linesman. Regards, ROCK."

MACK RECALLS ORWOLL FROM PORTLAND DEAL

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager and part owner of the Athletics, and Tom Turner, president of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league, decided here today to revise the recent deal which sent Ossie Orwoll and Homer Summa to the Portland club in exchange for Pitcher Herb Lahti.

Orwoll remains with the Athletics for the present, but Mack intimated he would send him to an International league or American association club if the double A leagues and the majors come to an agreement on the draft question. Lahti will not join the Athletics until 1932, as was stipulated in the original deal. Another player will be selected later to go with Summa to the Portland club.

COACHES NOT TO BLAME FOR PAYING ATHLETES

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Two of the most common charges that football coaches have to meet are that the game is being taken from the students and that colleges are buying their teams from stars of high and preparatory schools, W. A. Alexander of Georgia Tech, told the American Football Coaches association which closed its sessions with a banquet tonight. Alexander is the retiring president of the association.

Taking up the second charge, involving subsidizing and recruiting, Alexander said that there was no question that star athletes have been induced to enter certain colleges but that the "coaches are not to blame except in that they have accepted this condition and made no protest against it."

HANOVER

CATHOLIC CHRISTMAS SERVICE MOST INSPIRING

The Feast of the Nativity was joyously observed at St. Joseph's church, Hanover, Christmas day. The nine o'clock mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. William F. O'Brien, who gave a very inspiring sermon on the birth of the Saviour. The handsomely decorated altar, in charge of Mrs. Fred Gauthier, along with the special musical program by the children's choir, under the direction of the organist, Miss Catherine McMahon, gave further joy to the day's observance. With extra fervor, in their young voices, their numbers proved of unusual excellence and brought them praise from the large congregation present. The solo parts, in the Adeste Fidelis, were taken by Masters Peter Zukowsky and Harlan Harrison. The soloist at communion was the organist, who rendered in fine voice, Oh Lovely Infant, Dearest Saviour.

The crib of Bethlehem was arranged on the gospel side of the sanctuary by the men of the parish.

NEW YEAR'S RECEPTION AT PARSONAGE THURSDAY

There is to be a community New Year's reception in the Parsonage-by-the-Pines, between the hours of four and nine o'clock in the afternoon. Every one in the community has been invited. If very stormy on Thursday, the reception will be held the next day at the same time.

BUILDING CO., NEW LONDON, CHARGED WITH TRESPASS BY LUBCHANSKY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 29. — The Springfield Wrecking company, owner of a building at Ocean Beach, intended to be used as an apartment house, but which was blown over in the gale of Saturday last, is declared to be trespassers on the property of Nathan Lubchansky, at No. 36. Mr. Lubchansky has ordered the trespassers from his land, where he says they have jacks, etc., for the purpose of raising the building that they may avoid tearing it down. He declares that he notified the captain of police and that officers of the department were sent to the beach and told the trespassers to vacate, but they declined to do so, or at least have not left the Lubchansky property. There seems to be no doubt this evening but a law suit in damages will follow. Mr. Lubchansky notified the city manager this evening, also the director of law.

Douglass A. Anello, 311 Huntington street and Brunswick, Me., was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Albert Iverson, charged with blocking traffic on Bank street. He posted a bond of $2 to insure his appearance in the police court tomorrow.

MARTY AND ANNA RUSSELL PLEAD GUILTY AT PROV.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 29. — Mario Restiva, alias Marty Russell, and his wife, Anna, were until recently of 8 Cross street, this city, and were formerly of Providence, where they conducted a resort of shady character. They were arraigned in the United States district court at Providence today, pleading guilty to violation of the Mann act. It was represented that they were members of a white slave ring. The former was sentenced to a year in prison on each of five counts and his wife was sentenced to two months in jail on one count. On the other counts, the woman was given suspension of judgment and placed on probation for three years. Undoubtedly they would have received more severe sentences had it not been for the fact that they pleaded guilty. Eleven witnesses from this city, including Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney and Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith, were among those from New London summoned to give testimony, but their knowledge of the operations at the Cross street house were not taken because of the plea of guilty having been entered. The indictments under which the man and woman were prosecuted alleged that Restiva and his wife transported women between Providence and New London for immoral purposes. Lucy Baldi, wife of "Tony" Baldi, a former resident of New London and a member of a white slave ring, who was "put on the spot" in Providence last June when he was murdered, was given two months in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended and the woman was placed on probation for three years. Baldi was a former resident of Shaw street.

The lad was among numerous coasters on Vauxhall street and while descending the grade was hit by the automobile which was driven by Gordon Bussel of Hempstead, L. I.

Miss Marien was driving southerly on Thames street and when the wheels skidded on the slippery trolley tracks, the driver lost control of the steering wheel. Lewis' automobile traveling in the opposite direction was about to pass when Miss Marien's car plunged to the wrong side of the highway with the result that the cars collided, head-on and with great force.

Switch Engine Derailed

The derailment of a big switch engine of the New Haven railroad in the Union station yard early today caused a tie-up of yard traffic with the result that two trains en route to Providence were delayed more than an hour in their departure. The trains delayed were the 6 and 6:45 o'clock trains. The derailment was caused by an accumulation of ice and snow on the tracks.

Collapsed In Gale

The Springfield Wrecking company was having a three-story wooden apartment house at the boardwalk, Ocean Beach, erected and the structure had been sheathed and framed. It collapsed before the terrific gale of Saturday. It is being dismantled by the owners and its entire removal will be ordered by Building Inspector William Gunn. Inspector Gunn said that in his opinion the collapse of the building was partially due to the removal of braces.

Miss Anna Ransom, of 161 Ocean avenue; Miss Regina Lamb, Walker hill, Groton; Robert Hempstead, Quaker hill, Waterford; Hans Dahlgren, Mystic; Mrs. Cincinatus Tyler and infant son, 91 Garfield avenue; Mrs. Phoebe Pickering, 225 Broad street; Mrs. George Barden, Mystic; Mrs. Samuel J. BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Billy Mink Changes His Mind

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Discretion always has its place,
And sometimes it may save your face.
—Billy Mink.

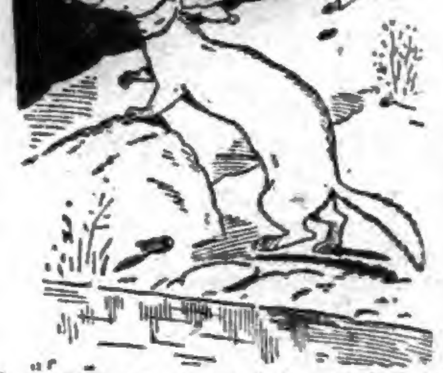
Billy Mink was feeling out of sorts To begin with he wasn't finding it easy to get enough to eat. It had been all right until the arrival of Little Joe Otter. Yes, sir, it had been all right up to that time. Billy had had no trouble in getting all the fish he wanted. Now it was different. Little Joe had made that difference. Little Joe Otter is even more of a fish eater than Billy Mink and being much bigger he requires much more at a time. Billy is a good fisherman, but Little Joe is a better one. Billy Mink can swim fast, but Little Joe can swim faster. The result was that Little Joe was getting the biggest and fattest fish and Billy was having hard work to get any at all.

"If I can't get a meal by fishing I'll have to go hunting," said Billy as he ran along the edge of the Laughing Brook." I wish Little Joe Otter would keep away from here. I don't see why he had to come back just now. Times are hard enough at best in the middle of winter. I wonder how Jerry Muskrat is getting along down in the Smiling Pool. He and Mrs. Jerry had a lot of children last summer. I wonder if any of them are still living in the Smiling Pool. A dinner of young Muskrat would taste rather good. Jerry and Mrs. Jerry are old and tough. Besides, either of them would put up a hard fight and killing one would hardly be worth the effort. But a young Muskrat would be different. The more I think of it the more a Muskrat dinner appeals to me. Anyway, it won't do any harm to go down there and have a look around. If Little Joe Otter hasn't been there it may be that I will find some fish in the Smiling Pool."

So Billy Mink headed for the Smiling Pool. He passed Little Joe Otter's slippery slide, but Little Joe was nowhere to be seen. He reached the open water just above the Smiling Pool. There he examined the tussock on which Stumpy, the three-legged young Muskrat, delighted to sit. His nose told him that a Muskrat came there every day and that that Muskrat was a young one. He was big but young, and this meant that he was lacking in experience. Billy's eyes brightened.

"I ought not to have much trouble with this fellow," he muttered. "I wonder where he is living. If I can find him asleep in his house so much the better. That is one advantage I have over Little Joe Otter—wherever a Muskrat can go I can follow. That is one advantage of being slim. I believe I'll wait until that Muskrat comes out. If I can't catch him here I'll follow him to his home."

So Billy Mink waited a short distance from that tussock. He didn't have to wait long. In fact it was only a few minutes before Stumpy appeared and climbed out on that tussock. Instantly Billy saw that one leg was missing. This would make it all the easier for him to kill Stumpy. At least this is what Billy Mink thought. Before Billy had a chance to attack, Stumpy dived with a splash that was a signal of alarm. He had caught the fresh odor of Mink and wisely had not waited to try to find out where that Mink was.



"If I can't get a meal by fishing I'll have to go hunting," said Billy Muskrat

Instantly Billy Mink leaped forward and dived after Stumpy. He was just in time to discover which way Stumpy was going and followed swiftly. Just as Stumpy reached the underwater entrance to the hole in the bank, Jerry Muskrat came out. Stumpy passed him and entered. Like a flash Jerry turned and followed. He had seen Billy Mink and he was far too wise to fight Billy in the open water. He knew that there he would be no match for quick-moving Billy Mink.

Up the long hall to the bedroom under the roots of the big hickory tree that grew on the bank of the Smiling Pool scrambled Stumpy, with Jerry right at his heels. Once in that bedroom, Jerry turned and with bared teeth took his stand in the doorway. Without hesitation Billy Mink had followed. He knew all about that home in the bank. He had visited it in the summer when no one was at home. As he approached that bedroom he stopped. The entrance was quite filled by a very angry and very determined Muskrat with a set of strong, sharp teeth which he was snapping together in a most unpleasant manner. There was no room here to turn and twist as Billy loves to do. Right then and there he lost his appetite. He changed his mind. Muskrats were no longer of interest to him. Without a word he turned and left.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Linderson and family of Gurleyville have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linderson of North Third avenue.

In spite of the recent heavy snows, the main arteries of traffic through the town were kept open by the state road plow and scraper. Bad spots were sanded, especially the curves on upper Merchants avenue and the Old Canterbury turnpike. The Blissville and Jewett City roads were taken care of promptly and icy spots had been covered with sand by noon. The weight of the snow crushed down shrubs and ornamental evergreens at many of the residences and in some places, heavy iron trellises were laid flat to the ground. Coasting became the most popular winter sport on Sunday, and crowds of young people (and some not so young) were to be seen on North Third avenue and in the big lot north of North B street. The lots south of South C street also were a favorite coasting place. What little skating there had been on shallow stretches of water in the vicinity was ruined by the heavy fall of snow. There being no high wind, there were not many drifts, either in the village or in the woods surrounding the town. Sportsmen were out early Sunday with plenty of grain to feed the game birds, and it is hoped that others will take it upon themselves the duty of throwing out more grain during the week.

Douglas Whiting of North Third avenue is spending a week with relatives in New Bedford, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lamb, of Philadelphia, Pa., are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Exavier Ducharme of 51 Providence street.

Lewis A. Aberg of North A street and William LaRochelle of Providence street are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Maynard at Poquonnoc Bridge.

Miss Anna Belisle of 13 South A street has returned from Philadelphia where she has been spending the past four weeks with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Pingree and their daughter, Miss Lois C. Pingree, have returned to their home in Saylesville, R. I., after a few days visit with Mrs. Pingree's father, Axel L. Aberg of North Third avenue.

RAT CAMPAIGN IN N. L. COUNTY MOST SUCCESSFUL

Some definite figures on the recent rat campaign conducted in the county under the auspices of the New London County Farm bureau have been tabulated by the office of the U. S. department of agriculture, which has sent a communication in this connection to County Agent Walter T. Clark. According to the communication those taking part in the drive were very well satisfied with the results. The county drive was most successful.

A total of 622 persons participated in the drive, according to the report, and of this number 139 sent in report cards, 100 reporting that one week after the poisoned bait was placed that the rats on their places had been killed. One person reported finding 51 dead rats, another 39 and a third, 25. In answer to the question, How much damage have rats caused you this past year?, 74 reported a combined total of $3,313 or an average of $45.85 per place.

The communication received by County Agent Clark from Ernest M. Mills, regional leader, rodent control of the agricultural department, follows:

I am glad to report that your campaign was about the best campaign to date. You disposed of nearly all the baits we made up and the report on results is excellent. On question, most of the campaigns this fall have run a little lower although one was 80 per cent on complete results. Your odor was very low, most of them run around 18 per cent this fall, with 9 per cent last spring. Later I will make a summary of all campaigns and send you a copy.

EDUCATIONAL LEADER ADDRESSES LOCAL AUDIENCE ON WORLD PEACE

Before a large and representative audience, Gaylord W. Douglass, New England secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, gave an interesting address on The World Court and the Importance of Building an International Mind, at the Wauregan hotel, Monday afternoon. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Department of International Relations of the National Council of Jewish Women, the Women's Christian Temperance Union and the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Nathan Gilman presided at the meeting at which there were representatives from Council of Jewish Women, the W. C. T. U., the League of Women Voters, the Professional and Business Woman's club, the Woman's City club, the Polish Woman's Alliance, the Young Ladies Italian club, and Group No. 2607 of the White Eagles' society. Mrs. Gilman called attention to the conference on international relations to be held at Connecticut College in the near future and sponsored by the Connecticut Council on International Relations. Mrs. Gilman expressed the hope that Monday's meeting would be the nucleus for a permanent organization having world peace as its objective. She introduced Mr. Douglass to the audience.

In describing the "Importance of an International Mind," Mr. Douglass said that an international mind is one that sees beyond the limited horizon of local affairs into the larger experiences of other peoples and other lands. It is a mind that appreciates the unity of the world in which we live and the necessity of the people within it working together for a common end. The international mind is one that seeks to understand other peoples and their customs, backgrounds, and viewpoints, and thus to sympathize with them in their experiences and to cooperate with them intelligently concerning world conditions and world institutions and is ready to use its influence in advancing the good of all, practicing as well as preaching the spirit of goodwill.

In showing how essential an international mind is for Americans today, Mr. Douglass illustrated by vivid and vital statements and conditions the inter-communication, interrelation, and inter-dependence of the peoples of the world today because of the advancement of science, inventions, business, education, and religious connections. He quoted George W. Wickersham as stating that 'Americans are apt to forget that the developments of modern science in the form of means of communication of thought, speech, and persons have largely destroyed all possible isolation and left physical detachment merely as a dangerous illusion that actual isolation is still possible." International thinking is necessary because the peace and prosperity of each nation is bound up in the progress and security of all. Each one must do its part well.

Our recent American tariff has had its effects for good or ill in every corner of this world, indicating to others the lack of international understanding and seemingly of international good will on the part of those who seek solely to serve a portion of their own constituents. The stock market crash of October, 1929, was felt immediately by the diamond workers in Amsterdam, Holland, thousands of whom were thrown out of work because the bottom dropped out of the American market. The world is so closely connected today in the ordinary affairs of life that what affects one affects all. Because of this the cooperation of all is essential for the common good. Instead of one nation looking for causes of war from another, all nations should cooperate against their common foe, which is war itself.

There is no question but what the world progress of peoples is in accord with the march of the universe. The nations must go onward together with progress which is slow but steady and sure. Every practical means for the development of true international cooperation should be brought into the foreground. At present for us as Americans there is the possibility of adherence to the world court, and thus bringing America into line with this great institution which makes for stability among the nations. It may be that the United States will never need nor care to present a case before this great international tribunal; but the moral support of this powerful and influential nation could accomplish much in leading others to begin to believe that we practice some of the things which we have constantly preached.

Peace and harmony are logical for nations and for peoples in their relations with each other, and these are the ultimate goals for all. We must develop in America a mental attitude and psychology which will make peace possible. We must study and understand such pronouncements as the Kellogg-Briand pact for the renunciation of war which has already seen the signatures of more than sixty nations in the world. We must have a broader conception of our own influence and responsibility in the family of nations among which we live and serve.

The development of the international mind comes through reading, study, travel, and other methods of contact in body or mind with things beyond and outside of the personal matters which largely engage our attention. The more we consider the matter, the more we realize that local affairs are really international in their spirit and often in their direct influence. We cannot over-emphasize nor over-train our mental processes along this line for the more we gain of knowledge, the more we find just a bit ahead in the realm of the unknown. But we do not learn simply for the pride of knowing, but rather to understand, to act intelligently, and to work helpfully in this world in which we live. This is the task for each one of us—to cooperate in the development of the one thing needful in the solution of controversies between nations—an informed, influential and friendly international mind.

Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, gave the invocation, and Mrs. Reuben Potter, accompanied by Miss Goldie Bruckner, sang two vocal selections.

The committee in charge of the meeting comprised Mrs. Gertrude Silberman, Mrs. H. Libby, Mrs. Anna Wechsler, Mrs. Edna Levitte, Mrs. Ruth Berkman, Mrs. Elkin Smith, Mrs. Minnie Jacobson, Mrs. G. Hyman and Miss Ida Mindle.

Visiting at Toronto

Frank M. Murphy, of Philadelphia has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. Katherine C. Mayo, of No. 148 McKinley avenue over the Christmas holidays. On Sunday, Mrs. Mayo left with her daughter, Miss M. Celina Mayo, to visit her sister, Mrs. Charles T. Roddy, in Toronto, Canada.

LOCAL WOMAN, CHASED BY HUSBAND, JUMPS FROM THIRD STORY WINDOW

Alleged to have been chased by her husband with a razor, Mrs. Viola Vincent, 22, wife of Manuel Vincent, jumped from the third story window of her top floor apartment at No. 36 Thames street, about 11:30 o'clock Monday night. Early this (Tuesday) morning, Vincent was arrested by the local police on a charge of breach of the peace and held in bonds of $1,000.

Angry because of the lateness of the hour at which her husband returned home Monday night and for other reasons, Mrs. Vincent is said to have quarreled with her husband.

Officers Michael F. Pounch and Joseph Tombari had her taken to the police station in the police patrol driven by Officer Patrick F. Shahan and upon her arrival there Captain Thomas P. Murphy ordered her sent to the hospital, as it was at first thought that she was seriously injured. Upon examination at the hospital it was discovered that she has a probable fractured pelvis, a number of broken teeth and abrasions to the face.

An X-ray will be taken today (Tuesday) to determine the full extent of her injuries. At the hospital the theory was advanced that the woman had landed on her right side upon the sidewalk. She was conscious on arrival at hospital. At 2 o'clock this morning Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officer Shahan went to the hospital to interview the woman. The woman's maiden name was Viola Marshall, formerly of No. 8 Clay avenue.

SMALL FIRE AT HOME OF WM. T. CRANDALL

An overturned candle, part of the Christmas decorations, at the home of William T. Crandall, No. 161 McKinley avenue, set fire to the draperies in one of the rooms and was responsible for a telephone call to the fire department Monday evening. The call came in at 8.34 o'clock and Engine No. 1, Engine No. 3, and Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan responded.

A group of Boy Scouts, who were passing the house at the time, extinguished the fire, while the call was being sent to the fire department. The draperies and window shades were burned chair or two and the flooring near the window were slightly damaged. The building is a two story frame cottage.

PLAN FOR CONSOLIDATION OF ALL EASTERN RAILROADS EXCEPT THE NEW ENGLAND

Agreement Reached by Railroad Executives at the Instance of President Hoover—The Chief Executive Initiated the Negotiations to Speed Up the Recovery of Business by Enlarging Opportunity For Employment—Details of the Plans Have Not Been Made Public—It is Now Up to the I. C. C. to Determine if It is in the Public Interest

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—(AP)—Called together by President Hoover, rail executives have agreed upon a plan for the consolidation of all eastern railroads except New England into four systems.

The president, in making this known today, said he had initiated the negotiations to speed the policy enunciated by congress in 1920 and to contribute to the recovery of business by enlarging opportunity for employment.

Details of the plans were not made public. It is now up to the interstate commerce commission to determine if it is in the public interest. Members of the commission declined to comment today.

The agreement was reached by executives of the Nickel Plate, New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroads, and only a "minor point" was said to stand between them now. This, the president said, was left to arbitration. What this point is was not made known.

The chief executive added that many improvements have been retarded by uncertainty as to the position particular roads were to occupy in the permanent grouping as outlined a year ago by the interstate commerce commission.

Before any action can be taken, the roads must make formal applications to acquire control of the various carriers involved, either indirectly through stock purchases, or actual consolidation of single ownership and operation.

They also must show that the capitalization of the combined system does not exceed the actual value of the companies included.

Transfer of the Lehigh Valley by the Pennsylvania to the Nickel Plate, described as one of the proposed changes, is understood in effect to meet the commission's order that the Pennsylvania company, an investment corporation, divest itself of control of the line. It does not, however, affect the Wabash which the Pennsylvania also was ordered to release.

Another proposal to allow the Nickel Plate to keep the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad is in direct contravention to orders of the commission. The stock of the Wheeling is owned by the Nickel Plate which in turn is controlled by M. J. and O. P. Van Sweringen of Cleveland.

The commission several months ago ordered the Van Sweringens to dispose of the Wheeling stock and pending final disposition it is in the hands of the governor of the federal reserve bank of Cleveland as trustee.

Not only does the unofficial outline contravene some commission orders but it wrecks the fifth system proposal outlined by the commission in its own consolidation plan.

The Lehigh and Wheeling roads are important units in the proposed Wabash-Seaboard system and their inclusion in the Nickel Plate would leave a gap which it was said in railroad circles, probably could not be filled.

Opposition from the Taplin interests of Cleveland was forecast in some sections. The Taplin brothers have been fighting the Van Sweringens for control of the Wheeling for several years.

The interstate commerce commission now has before it an application of the Taplins to acquire control of the Wheeling and connect it with the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad, which they control.

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia also was included in the Wabash-Seaboard route, but tentative outlines of the four system proposal do not mention it.

The Nickel Plate and Baltimore and Ohio, under the unofficial outline, gain direct entry into Manhattan, something they have been seeking for years. The Nickel Plate, it is understood, would gain entry into New York over the Lehigh, while the Baltimore and Ohio would go in over the Central of New Jersey, which is controlled by the Reading company. The New York Central is understood to have agreed to cede to the Baltimore and Ohio its interest in the Reading.

The New York Central was described as gaining full control of the Dela-

REPUBLICAN CAUCUSES FOR THE 1931 LEGISLATURE

HARTFORD, Dec. 30—(AP)—Definite steps leading to the organization of the 1931 legislature, which will meet for the first time on January 7, were taken today with the issue of the call for caucuses of republican members-elect by Chairman J. Henry Roraback of the republican state central committee.

The republican senate caucus is called for January 6 in the senate chamber in the state capitol at 8 p. m., to nominate a candidate for president pro tempore, to nominate a candidate for clerk of the senate, and to name candidates for two messengers and six doorkeepers. Senator Albert E. Lavery, of the 25th district is expected to be the choice for president pro tempore and Senate Clerk J. Frederick Baker is slated to be named again for that office. Each county customarily has one of the senate attaches. The assistant clerk of the senate is appointed by the clerk, and it is expected that Charles P. Roraback, of Torrington, who served in that post in the 1929 session will be re-appointed.

The house caucus is called for 8 o'clock in the hall of the house, to nominate a candidate for speaker, for house clerk, for assistant house clerk, for four messengers, and eight doorkeepers, and for the appointment of a committee on permanent organization. Howard W. Alcorn, of Suffield, is slated for the speakership and the clerk and assistant clerk of the 1929 session, Albert S. Bill, of West Hartford, and Stanley J. Traceski, of New Britain, respectively, are expected to be chosen again for those positions. The committee of permanent organization will iron out conflicts in the nominations of the county caucuses for messengers and doorkeepers.

County caucuses to select candidates for messengers and doorkeepers and members of the house committee on permanent organization are called for 7:30 p. m. Room assignments for the various county gatherings are as follows:

Hartford county, room 62, fourth floor, east; New Haven county, room 73, fourth floor, west; Fairfield county, room 74, fourth floor, west; Litchfield county, room, 76, fourth floor, west; New London county, room 65, fourth floor, east; Windham county, room 67, fourth floor, east; Middlesex county, room 41, third floor, east; Tolland county, room 21, second floor, east.

The old senate chamber, on the second floor, east, has been assigned to the democrats for their caucuses.

HELD UNDER $1,500 BAIL FOR DEFRAUDING WOMEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(AP)—A man who used the mails to promote a homework enterprise which extracted $6 each from hundreds of women in many parts of the country, was held for federal grand jury today in $1,500 bail.

Richard C. Guest was arrested at a desk he rented in an advertising agency after United States attorneys had inquired into thousands of letters advertising for "women to manufacture Hoover aprons" at $4 a dozen. The $6 was to be a deposit for materials. Government agencies said he had about 200 letters each containing the deposit, and no apparent facilities for living up to his offers, when they arrested him.

Previous indictment of Guest in a mail scheme excited their suspicions of the present operations, it was explained.

OFFICIALS IN CONTROVERSY ABOUT CHRISTMAS CARDS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—(AP)—Secretary Hyde and Senator Caraway of Arkansas came to words today about Christmas cards.

The senator said he had been informed the secretary sent his greetings under the free mailing privilege given cabinet members for official business.

The secretary replied that they were not personal cards, but the official holiday greetings customarily sent by the department to the various officials of organizations and agencies that cooperate with the department.

"He was opposed to using government money to succor starving babies in drought ridden states, but I understand he used it to send out Christmas cards," Caraway observed.

Hyde felt that:

"Sufficient proof of the fact that they are official and not personal can be adduced from the fact that Senator Caraway received one. The number of these cards sent out this year was about 900. The postage would have been about $18. The senator's interest in starving babies is very touching."

PILLS WITH SAME EFFECT AS MILD OLD SCOTCH WHISKEY

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 30—(AP)—In the office of the secretary of state, lies an application for a charter which if it had been granted might have started an orgy of pill-taking unrivaled in history.

"A beverage whose taste, smell, appearance and effect is the same as that of mild old cotch whiskey" was to have been made from pills manufactured by the applicants for the South Carolina charter.

The application was denied on the ground that no legal authorization could be given a concern to manufacture a pill having the "effect" of Scotch whiskey, according to G. R. Little, corporation clerk.

The names of three men who gave their address as Charleston, were given, but efforts to return the check accompanying the application proved futile. The letter always came back unclaimed.

MYSTERIOUS RIVER NEARLY COST LIVES OF SEVERAL MEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(AP)—Discovery of a mysterious river flowing under Brooklyn today nearly cost the lives of several workmen.

The subterranean stream, its origin and end as yet unfound, was struck about 550 feet below the terraces at Fort Greene park, during the building of a conduit for the Catskill water supply system extension.

A charge of dynamite was set off. Out of the excavation rushed a tide of muddy water. Fifty laborers in the shaft raced for their lives.

The river was found to be pouring into the shaft 1,400 gallons a minute. It flooded a 4,000-foot section.

It will take a month to divert the stream, by means of a catch-basin and concrete barriers, engineers said.

JURY FINDS THE COURT ROOM GUNWOMAN INSANE

ENID, Okla., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Mrs Dolly Douthitt, eccentric widow, who three months ago emptied a gun in the Enid district court room, wounding one man, was found insane by a jury late today.

Mrs. Douthitt will be committed to an asylum at Supply, Okla., it was indicated.

Crowding The Board Of Trade Of Chicago

Further Federal Restrictions on Grain Speculation May Cause Board to Close Its Doors

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Further federal restrictions on grain speculation may cause the Chicago board of trade to close its doors, an eventuality, which, according to Peter B. Carey, a vice president, the board of directors has contemplated.

"We might as well; few traders are doing any business; the government agencies are doing most of the trading," Carey observed today. Outside his door had died the day's tumult and uproar of the "pit," unchecked in three-quarters of century.

During the World war free trading was suspended but the pit operated to acquire wheat for beleaguered Europe. The board of trade determined to close its doors during the depression of 1873 but Marshall Field and Levi Z. Leiter dramatically shouted against it from the trading floor and the doors remained open.

The present home of the board of trade, a $12,000,000 peak of 44 stories, crowded with a gigantic statute of Ceres, rising 605 feet above La Salle street, has been open only a year.

"It's time we fight back at those who have tried to make the board of trade the goat in this farm relief business," Carey said.

"We've gone along with the farm board; given them our support and kept still when Secretary of Agriculture Hyde introduced his Russian 'menace,' and Chairman Legge of the farm board found so much fault with our practices. I don't think we ought to keep still any longer; nor do most of the traders."

His utterances were significant because the board of trade has refused to be drawn into any controversy over farm board policies. While Minneapolis, Kansas City and lesser boards of trade criticized stabilization and other farm board practices, Chicago board officials remained silent.

BAY STATE POLICE HAVE NO DRY LAW AUTHORITY

BOSTON, Dec. 30— (AP) —Massachusetts state police have no authority under the federal prohibition act to enforce its provisions, Attorney General Joseph E. Warner, ruled today.

Nor have state police, as such, Waner said, the authority to arrest without a warrant a violator of the federal act even though the violation is a felony under the so-called Jones act.

Despite the fact that every officer of the commonwealth takes an oath to support the federal constitutino, Warner said in his opinion, the oath "does not of itself impose a duty to enforce a federal enactment, such as the national prohibition act, which itself authorizes only federal officers to act thereafter."

Persons keeping or exposing liquor for sale may not be arrested without a warrant unless they are detected in the act, the attorney general held.

He ruled similarly in reply to a question by Foote as to the powers of state police officers who, while conducting raids, come upon a load of liquor "in a liquor manufacturing still."

Should an officer find a person in the act of selling liquor, he held, the officers might arrest without a warrant and then hold them until a warrant was secured.

GANGSTER GETS FIVE YEARS FOR EVADING INCOME TAX

CHICAGO, Dec. 30—(AP)—The heaviest penalty yet imposed in the government's war on gangsters was meted out today to Jack Guzik, Capone business manager. For evading taxes on an alleged income of $1,000,000 during 1927, 1928 and 1929, he was sentenced to five years in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $17,500.

Guzik was the third of the higher-ups in the Capone liquor and gambling syndicate to be sentenced.

Ralph Capone, brother of the leader "Scarface Al," drew three years and a $10,000 fine for evading payment of $300,000 in a five year period. Frank Nitti, treasurer of the organization, recently pleaded guilty to the failure to list an income of $842,887.81, for a three year period, and was sentenced to 18 months and fined $10,000. Both are out on bond.

Defense attorneys, in asking the court not to pass a sentence that would be "out of line" with previous cases, pointed out that Ralph Capone's alleged income was larger than Guzik's and that Nitti's wealth came from illicit alcohol while Guzik's was derived from gambling houses.

DROWNS IN SWIMMING POOL OF HARTFORD Y. M. C. A.

HARTFORD, Dec. 30—(AP)—Isadore B. Cheiffetz, 25, a Russian resident of this city, was drowned here today in the swimming pool of the Y. M. C. A.

Medical Examiner Henry N. Costello pronounced the man dead after two and a half hours of artificial respiration had failed to revive him and said that in his opinion Cheiffetz had committed suicide. A few hours before his death he had been taken to a local hospital for mental observation. He was alone in the pool when his body was found.

CONFIDENT EARL QUINN SLEW THE GRIFFITH SISTERS

BLACKWELL, Okla., Dec. 30—(AP)—Bruce Potter, Kay county attorney, said tonight he was convinced Earl Quinn, alias Earl Howard, former Missouri convict, was the slayer of the Griffith sisters, Jessie and Zexia, found shot to death on the highway south of Tonkawa Sunday.

The prosecutor said Quinn was in Tonkawa Saturday night and that "evidence was very damaging against him." Quinn has not been seen since.

Asks Early Hearing On Anti-Dry Decision

Justice Department Also Files Brief Attacking the Finding of Judge Clark in Newark

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The justice department today filed in the supreme court a motion to advance for early hearing the case presented by Judge Clark of New Jersey in ruling the 18th amendment invalid.

At the same time the department filed a brief attacking the decision.

The government's brief requested that Judge Clark's decision be reversed on the grounds that Article 5 of the constitution was "entirely free from ambiguity and that there is no room for the construction" upon which Judge Clark ruled the prohibition amendment invalid.

The brief argued further that "substantially the present argument was presented to this court in the national prohibition cases, "where this court determined that the 18th amendment, 'by lawful proposal and radification has become a part of the constitution.'"

The brief attacked the argument of Judge Clark that the language of the constitution concerning the ratification of amendments could be modified by "priciples of political science."

In its motion to advance the case "for hearing at an early date convenient to the court," the government said:

"The decision has received wide publicity and has produced uncertainty regarding the validity of the prohibition laws which, unless properly settled by this court, is likely to encourage disregard for those laws and will hamper the government in their enforcement."

Solicitor General Thatcher, who submitted the motion, asserted the government was ready "to argue the case at the earliest convenience of the court."

The supreme court will convene on January 5 and may set a date for hearing the case at its next opinion day, January 11. If, however, the case is not heard by the week beginning January 19, it would have to be postponed until February or later. The tribunal will recess from January 26 until February 24.

The government's brief declared Judge Clark erred both in quashing the indictment against the two defendants and in holding the 18th amedmet invalid because it was not ratified by state conventions rather than state legislature.

FIRST VISUAL EVIDENCE OF EARTH'S CURVATURE

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Man's first visual evidence of the earth's curvature, a photo which "saw" 320 miles, was exhibited to the American Association for the Advancement of Science tonight.

The picture was taken recently from an airplane in South America, showing level pampas stretching ahead for nearly 300 miles, ending in a long range of the volcano Aconcagua.

The distant horizon line of the pampas bent slightly downward at one end, like a photo of the curving edge of the moon.

Tracing the just distinguishable curve with his finger, Dr. C. E. K. Mees, director of research of the Eastman Kodak company, said there is a science in photography not yet realized even by most scientists.

STRIKES MENACE BRITAIN IN TWO LEADING INDUSTRIES

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The prospect that 1931 would begin in Great Britain with great upheavals in two leading industries, coal and cotton, involving approximately 353,000 men, loomed large tonight.

South Wales, where the agreement under which miners have been working expires tomorrow, is the center of the coal crisis as it has been often before. Failing some last minute developments on lines which none could foresee tonight, stoppage of work, with 153,000 men thrown idle on New Year's day, seemed inevitable.

At Manchester spokesmen for 200,000 workers in the cotton weaving industry threatened a general strike in the industry for Jan. 5 unless employers abandon their plan for doubling the number of looms for each worker. The ultimatum came after long and fruitless negotiations.

CHARGES OF BRUTALITY AT STATE PRISON UNFOUNDED

Governor's Committee Finds Charges Made by Rev. W. H. Smith Untrue—That Criticisms of Management by C. M. Patterson, a Former Deputy Warden, Were Actuated by Dissatisfaction at the Manner of His Discharge—Report Praises the Prison Management—Committee Makes Constructive Suggestions

HARTFORD, Dec. 30—(AP)—The report of the governor's committee which recently investigated charges of brutality in treatment of inmates of the state prison today was in the hands of Gov. John H. Trumbull. It found that all reports of ill treatment were unfounded; that charges of Rev. William H. Smith, former chaplain, to that effect were based only on rumors, and that criticisms of the management by George M. Patterson, a former deputy warden, were actuated by dissatisfaction he felt at the manner of his discharge.

The committee, noting the repudiation by Patterson of statements in a newspaper interview which declared that an inmate was shackled to his cell bar with his hands elevated above his head, and the assertion of newspapermen as to correctness of the interview, said it would not pass upon the question of veracity involved. Note was made of the petition signed by 516 inmates asking that Patterson be appointed warden as an illustration of the cardinal feelings of those inmates toward him for the excellence of his work as deputy warden. It was pointed out that dissatisfaction with Patterson gew out of the escape of three prisoners.

As to Guard Benton McIntyre, who was discharged, the committee found he was not sufficiently discreet. As both discharges were an administrative matter the committee gave them no further consideration.

The statements of Miss Genevieve Cowles on prison management as wel. as criticisms of Mr. Smith, were regarded by the committee as applicable to general reform and to any penal institution, rather than to the investigation.

Regret was expressed that the general assembly had not adopted the policy of Col. N. G. Osborn and the directors which called for a new prison.

The report praised the prison administration, care of inmates, and the skill of the staff, and said that no complaint of harsh treatment had been received for a long time. On November 28 there were 670 men in the prison, 86 of them insane, and 90 lifers.

The directors were called an efficient, intelligent group of men. The committee surveyed the institution and made its recommendations a part of the report. It suggested a further study to develop unexpected outlets for the labor when the law against interstate movement of prison products becomes effective.

The prison farm of 1,000 acres is needed. The school should be under a trained educator. The "silence" rule at meals could be modified. In the medical department hospital wards should be rebuilt and facilities extended. A male graduate nurse should be employed. The recommendation of the directors that life prisoners be paroled after 25 years was endorsed. Inmates should have daily outdoor exercise. A receiving ward should be erected. Efforts should be made to raise the efficiency of custodial officers and employes. Changes should be made in cells, and solitary cells should be provided with light and more ventilation. Handcuffing should be abandoned except where absolutely necessary. No inmate should be put on limited diet in solitary confinement, or placed in solitary confinement without advice of the prison physician. Consideration should be given the question of substitution of an eight hour day for one of twelve among the custodial group. Prisoners who persistently violate rules should be examined by a psychiatrist.

The report was of considerable length and detail.

GOLD ARRIVALS AT PORT OF NEW YORK YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Gold arrivals at the port of New York today included a consignment of $3,000,000 from the Bank of Montreal in Canada over a route believed to have been hitherto unused.

The metal came from Halifax, N. S., on the liner Ausonia and was said to have taken only slightly longer than shipment by rail, the usual route for Canadian gold movements, would require. It was said that the shipment by steamer was at a much lower cost than rail consignments would involve. Ordinarily the fastest means of transportation is utilized in gold shipments because of the loss of interest while in transit.

The liner El Salvador arrived today from Cuba with a consignment of $1,650,000 in gold to meet interest payments on Cuban bonds. It was the first time Cuba has sent gold for such payments.

Announcement was made today that the Royal Bank of Canada had arranged to ship $1,000,000 in gold from Montreal to New York.

SCIENTISTS HAVE PROBLEM FOR DR. ALBERT EINSTEIN

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Great stellar systems like the Milky Way, rushing away from the earth at 73,000 miles a second, offer a problem to Dr. Albert Einstein.

Southern California scientists have this problem ready for the German author of the theory of relativity, who will reach here tomorrow. They likewise have a problem for his wife, Frau Elsa Einstein.

While the furrowed brow of the master of physics and calculus corrugates for an answer in his theory of the curvature of the relativistic universe, Frau Einstein will decide what sort of California bungalow she likes best to house them here.

A. F. OF L. HEAD MAKES PROPOSAL FOR ARBITRATION OF VA. TEXTILE STRIKE

DANVILLE, Va., Dec. 30—(AP)—A proposal that all strikers return to work immediately and that all differences between strikers and the management of the local textile mills be referred to an arbitration board with either former Governor Harry F. Byrd or Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd to serve as umpire, was made tonight by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

The proposal was made in an address tonight before an open meeting of strikers held under the auspices of the local textile union whose members have been on strike since September 29.

President Green made the further proposal that if such an offer of settlement is refused by the management of the Riverside and Dan River mills the public of Danville should hold an indignation meeting and bring the force of public opinion against the mills to agree to mediation.

"I propose," said President Green, "that this strike be settled on this basis:

"I propose that all working men who were employed in these Dan River cotton mills shall return to work immediately, and all without discrimination with the right to join the union if they wish.

"I propose that immediately after they return to work all questions of the dispute be referred to a board of two representing the company and two workers and that the umpire be either Admiral Byrd or former Governor Byrd, of Virginia.

"That all questions that can't be settled by representatives of the workers and management shall be referred to either Admiral Byrd or Governor Byrd for final decision and that both sides abide by his decision."

"If this proposal is rejected," Green continued, "then who is responsible for a continuation of this sacrifice and suffering in Danville?"

He was interrupted by the cry "Harry Fitzgerald" (H. R. Fitzgerald, president of the mills).

"I want the people of America to know and understand this proposition and I want them to hear Fitzgerald's answer to the offer of arbitration, x x x x x."

Green asserted that a corporation that refuses to arbitrate its differences with its workers, when such an arbitration is referred to an official "as outstanding as Govenor Byrd or Admiral Byrd, has forfeited every right to protection, legal or otherwise."

Green's proposal was greeted with cheers.

"It seems to me," he said in conclusion, "that if the mill refuses, a public indignation meeting should be held and that public opinion should compel the mill to accept the offer of arbitration. If the mills do, I'll pledge that the American Federation of Labor will cooperate to the fullest extent, that the good will of the federation will be given to the mills and that bygones will be bygones."

Mr. Fitzgerald declined to comment tonight, saying that he preferred to read press accounts first.

Green, who conferred with labor officials from Richmond, as well as local union officials after his arrival here tonight, said he had not and would not seek a conference with the mill management.

FRANCE IS REORGANIZING ITS FINANCIAL STRUCTURE

PARIS, Dec. 30.—(AP)—France is closing the old year and entering the new actively engaged in a reorganization of its financial structure.

French bankers look to 1931 to make the franc as powerful abroad and as much sought after as the pound sterling and the dollar, and to establish Paris as a world market for short-term credits.

In the economic field the new year opens with an uncertain outlook. For the greater part of 1930 the country largely escaped the world depression that has brought unemployment and loss of markets to most nations.

In the last quarter, however, exports of manufactured goods fell off before the world's diminished buying power, and unemployment, an unthought of contingency a few months ago, began to manifest itself.

Money was plentiful, too plentiful, said some economists, throughout the year, chiefly because of the huge gold deposits of the Bank of France. The bank, to avoid sterilization, is expected in the first quarter of the new year to seek new outlets for the reserve above normal requirements of 12 billion francs, (about $480,000,000) that has accumulated in its coffers.

This accumulation of gold stocks, which has been criticized at home and abroad on the ground that it is, in effect, inflation, is defended by the statement that it has been brought about solely by a natural flow.

JOFFRE AMAZES DOCTORS IN HIS BATTLE FOR LIFE

PARIS, Dec. 30.—(AP)—A shivering knot of Frenchmen stood in the rain outside the Hospital of St. Jean de Dieu tonight marveling that "Papa" Joffre was still alive.

He had baffled his doctors and amazed the nation by his stupendous vitality, and when a medical bulletin disclosed that his pulse was sound and that he was holding his own the crowd went home telling themselves that the marshal had won another victory.

But his five doctors, although gratified at their patient's stamina, were not too optimistic. They warned that the battle was still far from over.

Shortly after 9 o'clock physicians announced that the marshal was sleeping soundly and the indications were that he would pass the night unless lung complications set in.

Not only that, but the home service is giving weekly orders for groceries and milk to three ex-service men's families until employment is secured. The Red Cross room is open Monday and Friday afternoons, in care of Mrs. W. A. Broadfoot and Miss Rosanna DesJardins, to receive donations of apparel of all kinds in good condition, to be given as may be called for, to needy persons. Already two families have been benefitted by this plan. Children's underwear and shoes are particularly needed. One hundred dollars was sent to the Nashua fire relief fund, and twenty-five dollars to headquarters for production work. One hundred dollars has been given the town nurse committee.

The annual roll call amounted to $666.80. The $3.70 received from the night school pupils was used to send a Christmas basket. The Red Cross Courier is sent yearly to the pastors and libraries in Griswold, Voluntown and Lisbon, and to the chapter chairman. Thirty-five Christmas bags were sent to service men through headquarters, and evidently went to Cristobal, in the Canal Zone, as six return cards were received from that place.

Mrs. F. I. Ray gave and made the bags and part of the money necessary to purchase them was donated by Pachaug grange, Dorcas circle, the King's Daughters; Reliance lodge, I. O. O. F.; Faith chapter, O. E. S.; Ladies of St. Anne, Newent Ladies' Aid society, Undaunted lodge, K. of P., Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R.; Ruthie Rebekah lodge, Gardiner class of M. E. church; Ladies' society, Congregational church; Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. and A. M.; Harmony club, Ladies' Aid society of Pachaug church. This chapter has a Red Cross life saving examiner and instructor in F. W. Chase, and two juniors who received their badges at summer camps, Catherine Jodoin and Oliver Carter. Rev. David Carter is also an examiner and instructor, having been a member of this chapter for several years. The Junior Red Cross committee, Miss May Driscoll reported twenty subscriptions to the Junior Red Cross, 15 from the public schools and 5 from the parochial school. Delegates attended the national and state conventions, two juniors attending the state convention, one taking part in the junior program.

A vote of thanks was extended the Legion post for the redecoration of the Red Cross room, also it was voted that the Red Cross pay the bill for the new lights, in appreciation of the work done by the Legion.

The executive board elected was: Miss May Driscoll, chairman, Mrs. F. I. Ray, Miss Katherine Barnett, Miss Rosanna DesJardins, Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mrs. Alice Anthony, Miss Bertha E. Lewis (Voluntown; Dr. G. H. Jennings, Mrs. E. B. Cheney (Lisbon) and Mrs. Earle E. Gilbert. This board elects the officers at a late meeting. The treasurer, Miss Margaret Driscoll, reports for the year from Dec. 27, 1929, to Dec. 29, 1930 is in recapitulation:

Balance on hand Dec. 27, .. 1929	$892.26
Cash received	774.25
Total cash received	$1,666.51
Total expenditures	864.49
Balance on hand Dec. 29, .. 1930	$802.02

Of the expenditures $355.11 was used in the chapter's local program, the remaining amount of $446.91, which includes half the roll call membership, has been used for disaster relief work, Christmas cheer, and production work, which is clothing for hospitals and needy people. The national headquarters would not be able to finance the relief work following floods, fires, drought and any terrible disaster, if it were not for the annual membership roll call. The local chapter cannot carry on its local work, in which the welfare of all ex-service men comes first, without the roll call.

WEDDING

Lachapelle—Cote

Albert Lachapelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lachapelle, and Miss Isabelle Cote, daughter of Mrs. Anna Cote, were married at St. Mary's church Monday morning. Rev. J. J. McCabe performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial high mass. The music of the mass was sung by the children's choir, under direction of Sister A. Cecelia. The bride wore a white satin gown, a tulle veil held with rhinestones and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bride roses and carnations. Her bridesmaid was the groom's sister, Miss Lillian Lachapelle. She wore coral crepe with maline beret to correspond. The best man was Leonard Bessette. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold pendant, and the groom presented a gold pen and pencil set to the best man. Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast at Mrs. Cote's home. Mr. and Mrs. Lachapelle will spend their honeymoon in Hartford and Fall River. On their return they will live at the bride's home.

Trooper Writes To Unknown Girl

One of the cards received from Cristobal in acknowledgment of the Red Cross Christmas bags, gave some of the single young women on the board quite a thrill. It read: "My Dear Christmas Friend—As I received your Christmas bag, I am greatly indebted to you, and if you are a girl I would gladly like to keep on writing to you." It was signed, "Your Trooper Friend." —Well, never mind the name. The young women on the board have the inside track, and no telling what may be the result, for he has a real spiffy name.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Gardiner will entertain Edward L. Gardiner of Newtonville, Mass., and his nephew, Robert L. Lane, Jr., of Montgomery, Alabama.

FUNERAL

Telisphore Raymond

Funeral services were held for Telisphore Raymond at St. Mary's church Tuesday morning. The high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Nicholas Carron, who also read the committal prayers at the grave in St. Mary's cemetery, in Lisbon. The floral remembrances were very beautiful. The bearers were Eugene and Joseph Raymond, Fred and Leo Thibeault, Hazard Arremony and William Kane. The children's choir sang the music of the mass, James Olsen being at the organ. Relatives from Voluntown and Taftville were present. Hourigan Bros. were the funeral directors in charge.

David Clarke, of Jamestown, R. I., a student in the University of Alabama, at Tuscaloosa, was the guest earlier in the week of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McLaughlin. The young man was born in Jewett City, in the house where he was entertained. He was very glad to report, and Jewett City friends were much pleased to learn, that his father, A. M. Clarke, is much improved and is at his home in Jamestown, from a Boston hospital, where a major operation at a most critical stage was successfully performed.

Miss Idella Young, of Glasgo, will be the school mistress and give out the words for the old fashioned spelling match to be held at the Baptist church tonight (Wednesday). The words will be taken from a school speller.

Joseph Wharton is confined to his bed by illness.

BOZRAH

In spite of the stormy evening nearly eighty assembled at the Center church for the Christmas tree and entertainment Friday evening. The program opened with prayer by the pastor, Rev. G. H. Strouse and the singing of Christmas carols by the children. Then followed recitations by the junior and primary classes also some members of the Cradle Roll. Members of the intermediate classes gave a play and a winter exercise. A midget Santa Claus and his assistants distributed gifts from the tree. The superintendent, A. J. Bailey, awarded pins from the Sunday school to those pupils who had attended most regularly. A gift of gold was presented the pastor. Sandwiches, cake, ice cream and cocoa were served and each child present received a box of candy and an orange.

Rev. Sherrod H. Soule of Hartford was present at the Sunday morning service and occupied the pulpit. By request, he read the paper on Harlan Page which was given at Park church when the Association of New London County Congregational churches and ministers met there, in the fall.

POMONA GRANGE HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BANQUET

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 30.—Officers of Quinebaug Pomona grange, No. 2, which includes all of the subordinate granges of Windham county and also some in Tolland county, met at G. A. R. hall here last evening for a banquet and to block out the program of meetings for 1931.

A banquet, at which turkey and many good things were served under the direction of Mrs Minnie Sharpe, Putnam, chairman of the home economics committee of the Pomona, and her assistants, was excellent in every way, and put the party of 36 in the best of humor. The tables were very prettily decorated with flowers through the courtesy of O. R. Hermanson of Putnam.

Quinebaug Pomona's first meeting for 1931 is scheduled for Feb. 28, with Putnam grange. The recently elected officers will be installed at this meeting. The second meeting of the year will be with Echo grange at Mansfield Center, on April 25. The May meeting that in accordance with regular schedule would come on Memorial day will be held May 23, with Quinnatisset grange, in Thompson. As for the past two years, the annual field meeting for 1931 will be held at High Lawn farm, Mansfield Hollow, on Aug. 20. The other regular meetings of the year will be with Canterbury grange, No. 70, on Oct. 31, and with Senexet grange in Woodstock on Dec. 5, the latter being the annual meeting.

Miss Susie G. Williams, Brooklyn, secretary of the organization, will begin immediately after the first of the new year the compilation of material that will enter the making of the annual handbook, which will make its appearance about mid-February. This book will contain a mass of statistical matter pertaining to Quinebaug Pomona grange, programs for the various meetings of the year and much other information of value to the members.

KILLINGLY FEELS IT HAS MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 30.—Killingly has much to be thankful for during 1930, the general condition of business throughout the country considered. Its manufacturing plants have operated more consistently than in most New England towns of this size that specialize in textiles. Powdrell and Alexander, with six mills, have kept upwards of 1,600 operatives steadily at work with very little let-down from capacity operation, though there was the usual comparative slackness to allow employes summer vacations. The Quinebaug mills have done well, all things considered, though there has been some lost time. The Goodyear Mills, Inc., have plugged steadily along right through the year with day and night forces of operatives. Killingly Worsted also has operated quite consistently, though with reduced production. The Aseptic Products company and Davis and Brown plants at East Killingly have added considerable to workers' revenue in the textile and allied fields. Assawaga Woolen at Dayville has not done quite so well, a matter that is regarded as a misfortune to the town as a whole, for this is one of the most valuable plants that Killingly has when it is operating to capacity.

Jailed for Non-Support

Henry Richards' explanation of why he has not been supporting his wife and three children for weeks past apparently did not impress Judge W. Fenner Woodward over-convincingly in the town court this morning, for he sent Richards over to the county jail in Brooklyn to serve 120 days, and to work out the costs in the case.

Richards, charged with non-support, described himself as a laborer without a job and unable to get work. For something like three months his wife and her father have been supporting the Richards children. Meanwhile Richards has purchased an automobile, for $25, making a payment of $5 on it, and has been using it for a boudoir nights. He explained that he needed the car to go about the country looking for work, and that relatives had supplied him with money to purchase the necessary gasoline for running the machine. This case, minor in itself, took up a considerable period of the court's time. Mrs. Richards did not spare her husband in discussing his status as a worker.

Rat Campaign a Success

On the whole, the rat extermination campaign that was conducted in this county on Nov. 21, by the Windham County Farmers' association in conjunction with a representative of a federal bureau, was a success. This has been determined by checking replies on cards that were sent out to those who used the poison bait under directions supplied with it. The number of cards sent out was 503. The number of cards returned was 72. Six questions were asked on the cards. The first was: "One week after baiting were there any live rats left?" Thirty-five answered No, 37 answered Yes. The second question was: "How many dead rats were found?" Thirty-nine answered this question, they reporting a total of 220 rats, an average of 5.7 per place. Yet one man reported finding 93 dead rats and another 33 of the departed rodents. Sixty-six persons answered to the question about being annoyed by odors from the dead rats. Of these 60 reported no odor, while six reported odor.

As to the question, "Are you satisfied with the results?" 52 replied that they were and 16 that they were not.

The last question was: "How much damage have rats caused you this past year?" and there were 20 replies to this query. Their total reported damage was $807, an average of $40.35.

So outstanding a sports authority as Doc Almy, special writer for one of the big daily newspapers of Boston, has in his column, given Dynamite Lou Brouillard of Danielson the rating of second best welterweight in New England, rating only Indraisano ahead of him. When these two slayers meet, as they are scheduled to in the near future, Brouillard's friends here expect the local boy to be returned the winner.

Miss Cora E. Chase, artist, who was quite seriously injured several weeks ago when she was run down in New York by an automobile while returning to her home after having attended a lecture, will come here New Year's day in company with Mr. and Mrs. William T. Mullally, the party to spend the holiday with Attorney and Mrs. Arthur G. Bill. Miss Chase has so far recovered from her injuries as to be able to walk with the aid of a cane.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lambert announce the engagement of their daughter, Monica Elizabeth, to George J. Brown of Franklin Mass., and Danielson.

Four hen pheasants resting on a limb of a tree at the very edge of the Brooklyn-Wauregan state highway, just south of the creamery this morning, were a sight for two Danielson men.

Mrs. Edward Hatch, a patient at St. Francis' hospital in Hartford since last week, is reported as in improved condition.

A light snow and colder weather made state highways slippery again through this territory this morning, and skidding cars were a common sight.

Several stores handling New Year's cards today reported their stocks of these pretty remembrances entirely closed out. The demand has been unusually good.

Scores of automobiles owned in Danielson will appear on Wednesday with 1931 registration plates. It appears that a greater number of persons than ever before have taken the time to get their registrations early, yet there was a rush of people out of this territory for Hartford and New London today to get registrations.

FUNERAL

Williard Cornell

This neighborhood was well represented at the funeral of Williard Cornell at the church at Central Village last Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Harry E. Small of Canterbury conducted the services. Burial was in the family lot at Evergreen cemetery. The bearers were three sons, William, Amos and Benjamin Cornell and three sons-in-law, Stanley Moore, of Phenix, R. I., Kenneth Stetson, of Brooklyn and Newton Perkins, of Foster, R. I. Mr. Cornell came to live at Black Hill nearly thirty years ago, when he purchased the farm which has since been the home of his family. A friend to all and an accommodating neighbor, he will be much missed in the community. The death of his wife about three years ago was keenly felt. He had not been in the best of health for several years and last summer he was severely ill for several weeks at the Putnam hospital. Of late he had spent his time with his children at their several homes. He died at a Providence hospital where he was taken for an operation from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Stanley Moore. Six children survive him. Two sons, Amos and William remain at the home farm.

BROOKLYN

The community Christmas tree placed on the "green" added a cheery note to the holiday season and was especially effective with the mantle of snow which covered the ground.

For the past few days it has been ideal coasting and not a few of the older ones as well as children have made the best of the opportunity of sliding on Marlow hill.

SUDDEN BOOM AT GROSVENORDALE MILL GIVES WORK TO OVER 100 HANDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 30.—Tidings of joy came to the people of northeastern Windham county Monday evening, like a bolt out of the clear blue, when Agent John F. Reardon of the Grosvenordale company mills at North Grosvenordlae, after perfecting plans for a busy season, called his assistants together and sent them throughout the countryside with instructions to raise a small army of workers prepared to begin at once to share in the fruits that a sudden turn in business is about to provide.

When the company's modern Paul Reveres reached this city, their message was so jubilantly received by the large number of unemployed textile operators that the rush to the little community in the northernmost part of the county became a mad scramble. Men with cars were quickly sought out, parties formed and soon a small procession of automobiles containing enthusiastic workers were Grosvenordale-bound with a spirit of hope that might be likened to the feeling that springs up when news of a gold strike is received. Word was likewise sent out to the manufacturing towns in the southern Massachusetts section, and from that vicinity, too, there came a similar train of operators all eager to be first to arrive in the boom town.

Within an hour after the first placards informing that work was available had been posted, the employment office of the big plant was stormed by the sudden influx of anxious men and women, who hurriedly filed applications for jobs. The required number of hands were quickly obtained and soon came word that all vacancies were filled, then began the usual and somewhat pathetic work of turning away late arrivals.

The majority of the 100 operators employed Monday night were weavers, while a large percentage were assigned to work in the spinning room. Openings for the additional staff were created when 450 looms were commissioned for service on the night operating schedule and several idle spinning frames were suddenly made active.

The increased lease of manufacturing life taken on this week by the Grosvenordale company constitutes one of the biggest textile booms this section of the state has experienced since the beginning of the business depression period.

The Grosvenordale company is one of the largest cotton textile manufacturing concerns in Connecticut. While pessimists, everywhere, have been spreading adverse propaganda depicting deplorable conditions, the little manufacturing villages in the town of Thompson have been bustling with activity, too busy to stop even to note what's going on around them. And with the new wave of business assuming greater proportions, its effects are likewise expanding and are now being felt in surrounding communities as opportunities for immediate employment are being offered by company officials.

Agent Reardon said this afternoon that his expectations for 1931 are that business in general will assume a more favorable aspect and points to the Grosvenordale boom as one of the many changes constantly taking place throughout New England. When asked for his opinion as to how long the sudden business wave will continue, Mr. Reardon replied, "Indefinitely!" The situation at the present, he said, is extremely favorable and unless the outlook is changed the scale should continue high. Whatever the future holds, the people of this and other communities hereabouts, who came in for a share of the benefits passed out in the form of employment in North Grosvenordale last night, are indeed grateful and equally hopeful that their new-found fortune is permanent.

THOMPSON GRAND JUROR DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 30.—Amede Bellerose, for many years a grand juror in the town of Thompson and a life-long resident of North Grosvenordale, died at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Amede Seney, in the latter place, shortly after 5 o'clock this morning. He was 49 years old and his death followed a prolonged illness. Mr. Bellerose was born in North Grosvenordale in 1881. His father was Amede Bellerose and his mother's maiden name was Elodie Bellerose. After attending schools in Thompson, Mr. Bellerose began work as a painter and continued this pursuit until he became ill, more than a year ago. He was a leading member of the democratic party in Thompson and for a number of years served the town in the capacity of grand juror. In this office he was particularly active directing prosecution against law-breakers in the town.

Members of the hook and ladder company at the Central fire station will put aside their cares of duty for a few hours Wednesday evening in order to join the reception of the new year. They will partake of a turkey supper to be served at a local restaurant during the early part of the evening and at midnight will retire to the Bradley theatre for a New Year's eve show and party. Chief Dumas and Deputy Chief Keane will be guests of the company during the programme of entertainment.

Dog Attacks Boy

A large dog owned by M'saell Basinet of 154 Pomfret street attacked a 12-year-old Pomfret street boy this morning, inflicting a severe wound in the upper part of the boy's right arm, and another ugly gash several inches in length in the center of his back. Town Dog Warden Ernest L. Chandler was summoned and the animal taken in custody and later killed. Its head was sent to the state department of health at Hartford for testing purposes. The injured boy was treated with anti-toxin injections to prevent the possible development of lock jaw

Official announcement was made today by the New Haven railroad concerning the initial run on Jan. 7 of the "Legislative special," an extra train which will operate on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, during the period the general assembly remains in session. The train will leave this city mornings at 9:15 o'clock and will make stops at Pomfret, Abington, Elliott, Hampton, Clark's corner, North Windham, Willimantic, Andover and Hartford. The purpose of the special is to convey eastern Connecticut representatives and senators to the capital city, where it will arrive daily at 11 o'clock. The train will begin its return run at 4:15 and is due at Putnam at 6:05 p. m.

Miss Ann Hogan, who has been spending a short vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Hogan, of Tatem street, returned yesterday to her home in New York city.

Present indications are that Putnam will greet the new year in various ways. Local churches are planning watch night services, which will attract many. Midnight vaudeville and motion picture performances Wednesday, at theatres hereabouts, are proving to be of special interest to local theatre-goers, judging from the advance sale of tickets. There are no town dance frolics planned, but those being held in nearby communities are certain to draw large numbers from this city, who will join the merry throngs.

At St. Mary's church Thursday morning, masses will be celebrated at the regular hours, since Jan. 1 appears on the church calendar as a holy day.

Sergt. A. J. Sponcey of the local police testified in the case of David Faverau, North Grosvenordale driver, whose application for a return of his operator's license was heard at a motor vehicle session held in Norwich, Monday. The right to operate was denied Faverau, although a limited license to drive for an employer will be granted when he obtains employment. Faverau had his license revoked after his conviction several months ago in city court on a charge of operating while under the influence of liquor.

Returning home about 8 p. m., they found their house had been entered by burglars and money taken from a child's bank. The home is in the north end of the city.

THE STATE PRISON INVESTIGATION

By the report that has been made by the special committee named to investigate conditions at the state prison the board of directors and the state have been vindicated. The charges that were made in a sensational manner were not proved and the impression which those charges were seemingly intended to create has been knocked into a cocked hat.

The situation was created by an article published by a former chaplain at the institution, Rev. W. H. Smith, now of Schenectady. He received certain support from a former deputy warden who had a grievance. Chiefly because of the statements by these men, and statements which the committee found to be "totally without foundation," a group of clergymen became aroused. Confident that conditions were not as represented, the board of directors called for an impartial investigation. The governor acceded, named a committee which went thoroughly into the prison situation and it is their conclusion "with reference to the question of illegal, brutal unusual or inhuman treatment that any charges of this character are entirely disproved by the evidence."

It was the decision expected in view of the testimony given at the hearings and shows how unjustified the charges and how weak the basis for making them. It reflects most unfavorably upon the makers of the charges and those who rushed to their support with such a flimsy claim.

The report of the committee stands as a rebuke to the persons who made the charges when it "unhesitatingly found no basis for either allegation or suspicion" regarding the treatment used, and when it says "there appears to have been no treatment of refractory prisoners which would arouse the just criticism of even the most sensitive."

In view of the finding that has been made by the committee, there appears to have been good ground for the indignation that was recently expressed by Governor Trumbull following the completion of the hearings.

The committee went into a number of matters in the course of its investigation which permitted it to make certain suggestions in regard to the prison, certain of which the directors have already recommended and for which plans have for some time been underway, but any and all of which might have been advanced for the consideration of the officials of the legislature without resorting to any unwarranted and sensational charges which could not be backed up with any evidence.

THE GAS TAX

Almost from the very beginning the gasoline tax has made a good impression and accomplished results. Some of the states were more inclined to adopt it than others but the favorable results obtained brought all the states into line before many years had passed and now it isn't a question of getting more states to adopt it but of keeping the states from raising the gas tax to the point where it will work an injustice.

Because the gas tax is easy to get and because it produces much revenue, it is about the first thing thought of when added income is sought. If money is wanted for new projects the gas tax is the first thing thought of and a boost in the levy is suggested.

The gas tax is equitable and serves the purposes intended when it is used for the purpose of constructing and maintaining highways. It is then the case that those who pay do so in proportion to the use they make of the roads. It doesn't always happen that those who drive motor vehicles get a chance to use the improved highways as much as they would like to, or that their particular locality is as much favored with road improvements as some others but it is a tax that benefits in general those who pay it.

To collect such a tax for other purposes would mean an injustice to the auto owner. He would be made to carry more of a burden than rightfully belongs to him. The idea of imposing a special tax to be used for general purposes is not generally done and the auto owners are justified in opposing increases with any such object in view. The gas tax is intended for and should be kept for highway purposes.

ARE THE DRYS SLIPPING?

There has been a disposition among certain of the dry leaders not to view with alarm the results in certain states in November where referendums, or their equivalent, were held in regard to the 18th amendment. There have been expressions to the effect that neither those results, which were favorable to the wets, nor the democratic victories indicated a corresponding landslide of sentiment against prohibition.

As ground for basking in the shade of safe situation it has been pointed out that almost five-sixths of the senate is dry and in the house over 300 of the 435 members are favorable to prohibition.

That seems impressive. It lends support to the reliance that is displayed in congress keeping the country dry regardless of such efforts as are put forth by the wet influences. But does it reflect the real situation and does it indicate the sentiment that is growing against prohibition and the demand for a change?

There is significance in the statement which has been made by Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald. He says: "There is no evading the fact that a considerable handful of dry congressmen are watching eagerly for the first opportunity offered them to 'switch' into the wet column. A recent and, I believe, authoritative canvass in the capitol lobbies revealed at least 40 members of the house who confessed themselves prepared to desert and are only waiting for the strategic moment."

If those 40 should desert it would not eliminate the claimed dry majority in the house, but where there are 40 who are ready to confess their inclination to flop there is no telling how many more there are who are similarly minded without being ready to express it, or who would be powerfully influenced by the switching of the 40.

The drys are not going to admit that they are in the position of fighting with their backs to the wall. They are going to try to maintain the attitude of being satisfied with the situation and confident that it will continue in their favor. That is, some of them are. But there are others who are unwilling to ignore the handwriting on the wall. They attach significance to the trend of affairs and they appreciate that if there are 40 ready to desert, the strength of the drys is being undermined to an extent which cannot be disregarded. All of which has its bearing on the prohibition situation.

THE REFUNDED TAXES

Probably the only reason we haven't heard a howl before this over the tax refunds that have been announced is because congress is just now in recess. For those who are disposed to inspire headlines and to get publicity there will be a chance next week to go off on a tangent and get the senate to talking about something besides the business which it should dispose of at this session.

In connection with the collection of taxes we have not as yet established a system that is impervious to mistake. There are so many details over which there is question that it is the practice of the government to collect what it considers to be right. In such collections it often gets more than it is entitled to and when it is shown to be in the wrong and that it has collected much more than it should have there is nothing for those vested with the authority to do but to refund the excess.

If such refunds involve large amounts it is because large taxpayers are concerned and where that is the case large tax payments are certain to be encountered. When errors are made in regard to the big taxpayers it is quite natural that the refunds involve the readjustments which are to be expected in order that injustices may be overcome. It is a common idea that the big fellows should be made to pay. It is quite certain that they do pay but it is to be expected that if errors are made in the collection of taxes from the big fellows that there will be quite the same effort made to adjust them as there would be with the little fellows. That is, of course, only common justice.

In view of the tremendous task involved in collecting the federal taxes it is perhaps surprising that more errors are not made or that the refunds do not foot up to a greater total. Probably it is too much to expect that there would be no readjustments, or that all adjustments should be made at the time of collection. The refunds, which have to be passed upon and shown to be right, indicate that as well as the difficulty of adjusting disputes at the time of collection. But as an offset to these refunds it is to be realized that the government gathers in a huge sum each year in back taxes, a sum which reveals that the big fellows figure in the readjustments quite the same as the government. It is not all one sided.

A LEADER'S CLAIMS

When Colonel Lindbergh talks he usually has something to say, and when he speaks for publication he is listened to with interest and respect. Colonel Lindbergh's accomplishments in aviation and diplomacy are such as to justify the confidence that is placed in him, so that when, he offers a prediction as to what may be expected in flying progress he never fails to gain an attentive ear. The feeling is that he knows what he is talking about and that he is not inclined to indulge in a lot of talk just to hear his own voice. His accomplishments make him an authority, so that when he declares that he expects to see an increase of ten miles an hour in cruising speed of transport planes during the coming year and looks for the establishment of international airlines in the near future it will be accepted as something more substantial than might be expected from a promoter.

Colonel Lindbergh's service to aviation has been of the greatest value. He has long since gained the confidence of the country and full weight is attached to his practical advice. He has a habit of proving his claims.

EDITORIAL NOTES

New resolutions, new number plate, and then the new year.

The man on the corner says: What seems to be needed is complete faith in the new year.

Have you tried writing it 1931 just to see what it looks like and get in practice for the last of this week?

How are the new resolutions coming along? Are you repeating the list that got away to such a good start when 1930 opened?

Probably congress is waiting in gleeful anticipation of the stalling it can do as soon as it gets to discussing the Wickersham report.

Even though it is shown that the toll of the motor is worse than the toll of war, it continues to go on to a greater total each year.

New denaturants are ordered for industrial alcohol the first of the year, but will that be early enough to prevent the poisoning of New Year celebrants?

There is opposition in Cuba to any intervention by the United States. Certainly, and so there is here, unless Cuba by its acts makes it necessary. It all rests with Cuba whether there is intervention.

JEWETT CITY CREAMERY, JUST DISSOLVED, EMPLOYED FIRST WOMAN BUTTER MAKER

The dissolution of the Jewett City Creamery company, announced this week in The Bulletin's Jewett City correspondence, recalls the unique celebration which the company held in observance of its 29th anniversary, six years ago. This celebration was thus described in The Bulletin of Monday, April 28, 1924—The Jewett City Creamery company celebrated its 29th anniversary in Odd Fellows hall on Friday evening. Creamery patrons, stockholders, officers and friends filled the room and anterooms, for it was an event which has never taken place before in this town, or any nearby town.

The programme was unusual in its varied make up, and was very entertaining. B. C. Bliss, the superintendent of the creamery, made all the arrangements and presided, his introductions and reminiscences being very apt and witty.

Supt. Bliss, State's Oldest Butter Maker

He said it was also his 39th anniversary as a butter maker, he being the oldest butter maker in the matter of a number of years in the business, in the state. W. C. Terry the president presided. He stated that his farm was the only one that had been in the creamery from the start until now. The first president of the creamery.

George A. Ross with his wife had motored from Wellesley Hills, Mass., to be present at this anniversary. He told of the reasons for starting the creamery, which were that the farmers needed to dispose of their milk. For a long time he and Whitin Fitch peddled milk at four cents a quart.

He spent six weeks riding around trying to get the farmers interested in a creamery. Then Joseph Rood and Charles Standish went to Hampton to visit that creamery and then the creamery here was started. It has been a success from the start.

C. C. Palmer Oversaw Construction

Clark C. Palmer, one of the oldest farmers in town, who oversaw the construction of the creamery building and fixed up the boiler the first time, was on the platform, but did not care to speak, as he said his think-box did not work as quickly as it used to. Frank E. Robinson, secretary during the time of organization, also one of the first cream gatherers, living in Lisbon then, gave several items of interest taken from the record book.

Arthur M. Brown, who has been the legal advisor of the company for a long time, particularly emphasized that it was a fitting thing for an institution to be proud of so many years of honest achievement which has never been anything but a benefit to Griswold and many other towns. It is a good thing to boost the interests of one's town.

Elmer Starkweather, who was 13 years a cream gatherer and has been on the board 20 years and who worked on the building, spoke briefly. Mr. Bliss then introduced Adelard Morin, the vice president of the Plaut-Cadden company, who had brought up one of his best victrolas and fine records and who also furnished the programmes. Four numbers were played: Norma overture by Arthur Pryor's Band; Villanelle by Galli Curci, A Dream (In English) by Caruso and In a Monastery Garden by Victor orchestra, with male chorus.

Mr. Bliss then spoke of the up-to-date farm which Mr. Anderson is conducting on the one-time Bennett farm and said Mr. Anderson was willing to answer any questions about the business. Rev. H. S. Stephenson spoke of the cooperative plan among the farmers in their business in Kentucky, by telling of the Kentucky and Indiana Dairying association. The object is not to monopolize the market, but be a factor in it.

Dairy Paid Pastor's Salary

Rev. E. E. Scates was a former pastor in Vermont in one of the richest dairying communities, the section being called the Garden of Eden. His church owned three farms with 77 cows. As his salary was paid from the income of these farms, he was naturally much interested in cows. He gave a most interesting description of the large condensatory which was located there and its operation.

Mrs. James B. Palmer read a humorous story and Miss Mable Kanahan gave a whistling solo and encore. Master William Stebbins sang a motion Flag song, accompanied by Mrs. E. H. Wilcox. Misses Esther and Mabel Frink sang two duets, Miss Kanahan accompanying them.

Mayor Milo R. Waters of Norwich brought the best wishes and congratulations of Norwich to this anniversary of an industry that through all these years has injured no one and helps everybody. He also spoke of what a fine thing it is to boost the town and congratulated the creamery on its progress.

The closing number was by Francis Campbell, who impersonated Harry Lauder in two songs, being in kilts. His numbers made a big hit. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Celia Geist.

Then Mr. Bliss announced that refreshments would be served by people from several Norwich caterers including the Terminal. The butter, cream and pimiento cheese came from the Jewett City creamery and the ice cream was made from creamery cream. Cake was given by women in town and punch was served. Napkins were furnished by a borough bakery. Victrola music enlivened the refreshment time, and old fashioned dances with music by Driscoll's orchestra with F. H. Gilbert prompter concluded the evening.

Shows Certificate of Merit

Mr. Bliss had on exhibition a picture of the creamery and several framed certificates of merit he has been awarded as well as a large silver water picture he had received as a prize. There was also a photograph of himself in his spotless white working uniform and the real coat as a sample of the cleanliness carried out it the business. The Bliss family crest was among the exhibits.

During the latter part of the time that M. G. Young was butter maker the late Joseph E. Leonard was superintendent. It was his anxiety to keep the butter at its already high standard of excellence that influenced him in engaging B. W. Smith.

Had Only Woman Butter Maker

Mr. Young died quite suddenly during Mr. Leonard's administration as superintendent. For more than a month the wife of the butter maker at Putnam came down to Jewett City every morning and took charge of the manufacture of the day's product. She was at that time the only woman butter maker in Connecticut.

In order that she might render this temporary service E. H. Hiscox, then employed by Mr. Leonard, (35 years ago) ran the steam engine and boiler, and performed the many duties too heavy for a woman's hands. Mr. Leonard was superintendent for six years.

Another incident of interest during the earlier days of the creamery is that at the time B. W. Smith was butter maker here he married Miss Luella Bancroft of Springfield, Mass. She was the daughter of the then leading dairy authority of the state. As changes have been recorded in the 35 years of the Jewett City creamery's existence, none serves better to indicate its steady advancement than the change in the method of paying the patron for his cream.

For the first 20 years the Cooley creamer was in use, with its cans submerged in ice water. Every day the collector calling for the cream turned a crank on the side of the big tank. The cans were thus raised above the water. He then took them off the elevator rack, and by means of a faucet drew off the skimmed milk from the bottom. The cream was then measured by graduated spaces on the side of the can.

Today, the separator does the work for the farmer. Each day an ounce sample of his cream is brought to the local plant in an individual numbered bottle. Every afternoon the superintendent by means of the Babcock tester determines by the action of centrifugal force as applied to the rapidly whirling bottles, just what percent of butter fat each patron's cream contains and what its comparative value is. Then the producer is paid by the pound for butter fat.

In the old days, unscrupulous persons would sometimes keep an eye out for the approaching cream collector, then "doctor" up the cream from the top of the can, by carefully applied milk. Today no attempt to deliver inferior or light cream can escape the daily Babcock test.

A Washington Bystander

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—Alas, the old order passeth! The days when you more or less knew what the educational process for a new senator of the United States would be seem gone.

For time was when senate freshmen invariably got back seats and stayed sat down. They contributed nothing new to senate debates. Committee work and such "ayes" and "noes" as roll calls required were about all you hear from them for a year or so. A new senator's maiden speech was quite an event.

Some present-day new senators still stick to that rule. Witness Dwight Morrow of New Jersey. He is starting an eight-year haul as senator. Yet up to Christmas time he was a one-man conspiracy of senatorial silence. Neither speech nor interview was to be lured from his lips.

He would, Mr. Morrow allowed, sort of sit about on the sidelines a while and absorb understanding about the senate and its ways before he burst into oratory.

Quiet Study

No doubt the banker-diplomat-senator was doing a lot of private talking with his senatorial colleagues. It is a way he has. He did that at the London Naval pow-wow, being a novice at that sort of thing.

Europe and its naval problems were new to him, so he just sat about and absorbed for days and days in London.

"And he absorbed to such purpose," a diplomatic observer who was there said to the Bystander, "that when he did get ready to talk, he was equipped to act as counsel for either party in any dispute."

Other new senators, notably Davis of Pennsylvania, don't feel that way about it. Two weeks or so of senate sitting was enough for him. Then he roared into action in the maternity bill debate.

Roared is right. The ex-labor secretary let go all holds, oratorically speaking.

"Perfervid"

You don't have to take the Bystander's word for that. Senator Bingham of Connecticut described the event. Being in opposition to Senator Davis' point of view on the bill, he arose to make a few remarks "notwithstanding his (Davis') perfervid eloquence."

Perfervid? That means ardent, for one thing. It also means too fervid, the books say. Mr. Bingham did not specify.

Former Senator Allen of Kansas became a Hoover senate spokesman on very short service. Perhaps both he and Davis felt no time should be wasted.

The worst you have is not so bad
As some one else has surely had.
—Old Mother Nature.

For a time Stumpy, the crippled young muskrat lived in constant fear of the return of Little Joe Otter or Billy Mink. Only when he was curled up with his father and mother in the snug but crowded bedroom in the bank of the Smiling pool did he feel quite free from fear. You see two things had happened to make him fearful; he had seen his sister caught by Little Joe Otter and he had been chased right to the door of that very bedroom by Billy Mink. The Smiling pool which, with its roof of ice, had seemed such a safe and wonderful place, the finest place in all the great world, no longer seemed this at all. With that roof of ice over it he felt trapped. He said as much to Jerry Muskrat.

"That is because you have had two frights down here," said Jerry. "It might have been just the same had there been no roof. Your sister might have been just as foolish and probably would have been. Billy Mink might have seen you and chased you straight home just the same. You have learned something of two possible enemies to watch out for and with your experience you will be better prepared for them another time. You don't know what a bad winter storm is yet. When you do you will be thankful for the roof on the Smiling pool."

Stumpy doubted this but wisely didn't say so. Afterward he was glad of this for it was only two days later that he swam to the open water in the Laughing brook just above the Smiling pool and as he put his head out of water it seemed as if his breath was fairly snatched from him. Rough Brother North Wind was howling and roaring and blowing such a cloud of icy particles before him that Stumpy was forced to close his eyes. They stung his face. He crawled out on his favorite tussock. The icy particles were blown into his fur and he was glad to dive into the water again.

Twice afterward that day he tried it and twice was driven back. And such a contrast as there was. Above that roof of ice the storm raged so that no living thing could face it. All through the green forest the little people in feathers and fur sought shelter where they could find it and shivered and went hungry and were utterly miserable. Over in the dear old briar-patch Peter Rabbit and little Mrs. Peter retreated down in the old house that had been dug by Johnny Chuck's father years before and were glad of that shelter.

He crawled out on his favorite tussock

Below the ice was serene and quiet. No more peaceful place could have been found in all the great world. Of the shrieking and howling of Rough Brother North Wind nothing, not so much as a murmur was to be heard. Water plants on the bottom swayed in the gentle current in the Smiling pool just as in mid-summer. Trout and minnows darted about or lay motionless. They didn't know that up above it was storming and many little folk were in for hard times, much of their food buried and the snow and ice making getting about a matter of difficulty.

"I guess you were right," said Stumpy to Jerry Muskrat. "The Smiling Pool isn't such a bad place, even with a roof over it."

"Of course I am right," replied Jerry. "You are lucky to be living in the Smiling pool. A chance visit from Little Joe Otter or Billy Mink is all we have to fear, and if we keep watch we needn't fear this much. I wouldn't change places with Reddy Fox or Peter Rabbit or any of the other folks who live on land in winter. Phew! It makes me shiver to think of just trying to keep warm in such a storm as is raging up above this very minute."

Diphtheria Is Preventable

By L. B. Hudson, M. D., Hattiesburg, Miss.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

This season, when the schools of the nation are well into their 1930-31 session, when the cold winter air causes us to lower our windows, and congregations of people within doors are breathing and coughing into each others faces, may be considered the beginning of the dephtheria season. Many of us practised medicine some years before we realized that diphtheria begins in September, gradually increases until about Christmas and gradually disappears as spring approaches. Sporadic (scattered) cases may be found the year around, but substantially, the facts have been stated as to the time of its prevalence.

Do your children have to be exposed to a person sick with the disease to get it? Not by any means. Carriers are persons who harbor the infection in their respiratory tracts, they themselves being wholly oblivious of this infection being possessed by them, and innocently spreading the contagion. This is why we rarely ever trace a case to its source. Everybody will shun the red flag of danger, but we cannot dodge the innocent spreader of the contagion. What then can we do? It is entirely possible in five years to rid our nation of this scourge. Immunize all children from six months to six years of age by giving them toxin-antitoxin or toxoid. Recent investigations by the public health departments disclose the fact that diphtheria toxoid has a protective value perhaps greater than that of toxin-antitoxin. I would therefore advise you to leave the selection of the proper protective remedy to your physician or the public health officer.

From 8 to 12 years of age, it is possible to determine whether a child is susceptible by a skin test known as the Schick test. It is made by injecting, just beneath the thin outer skin, a small amount of diphtheria toxin, and if the person is susceptible, in 24 to 48 hours a reddened area will appear, which your physician knows, means danger. I would therefore enjoin all parents, guardians and others responsible for the welfare of children to protect them. The tendency of the human race is to wait until the red flag is out before getting scared. Then they rush to the public health workers or their doctors and implore them to protect their children. Do not forget that it takes from 30 to 90 days for this protection to be acquired. Do it now and relieve yourself of the responsibility. Remember too, have your child given the Schick test after 90 days to see if he or she got a "take," and if not, repeat toxin-antitoxin or toxoid. It is as safe as taking an automobile ride. In fact, the percentage of fatalities is nothing per 100,000 as compared to automobile fatalities.

When spring comes, and all nature bids you to open up and get out into the great outdoors, you will forget about the diphtheria menace. So, secure the protection now. Statistics show that of 100 unprotected children exposed, 10 will take the disease and 1 will die. Can you afford to take this risk? Public health workers and your family doctors all over the nation are eager to give your precious children this protection now.

At Islington, England, the postmortem on Robert William Smith, age fifty-three, tobacconist, who committed suicide, revealed that he had had a bullet imbedded in his throat since the war.

Stories That Recall Others

Glad When It's Over

Bobby, who has three grown-up sisters, was asked whether he was happy to see Christmas approaching.

"I'll be glad when it's over and I have my gifts. Then I won't have to mind the girls," he said.

They Had Company

Billy spent a week with his grandparents in the country. While playing in the back yard he noticed a hive which contained bees and, being of an investigative turn of mind, he picked up a stick and began pounding on it. Immediately hundreds of bees rushed out and little Billy was severely stung. When reprimanded by his grandmother, and questioned why he did such a thing, he said:

"I knocked on the door to see if there was anybody at home and I think they had company, grandmother."

He was born in Westerly, the son of William E. and Margaret A. Maxson. He attended the public schools of Westerly and graduated from the Westerly high school in the class of 1907. He graduated from Amherst in the class of 1911.

BOY SLIDER, HIT BY MACHINE, PATIENT AT W. W. BACKUS HOSPITAL

Louis Peloquin, 12, of Sterling, was brought to the W. W. Backus hospital here late Tuesday afternoon, suffering from a possible fractured skull and other injuries received in a coasting accident in that town. The name of the driver of the machine which struck the child was not learned.

The Peloquin boy was admitted to the local hospital at 5:40 o'clock, being brought here in a private machine. It is understood that he was first taken to the office of Dr. A. G. Garcia in Moosup. The latter ordered the boy to the hospital.

At the hospital early this (Wednesday) morning his condition was regarded as fairly good. Besides a probable fractured skull the child is suffering from a severe laceration of the left thigh. An X-ray will be taken of his injuries today (Wednesday).

At the request of City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, the case of Manuel Vincent of No. 36 Thames street, who is alleged to have been responsible for his wife, Mrs. Viola Marshall Vincent, 22, jumping out of the third story of their top floor apartment late Monday evening, was continued at the Tuesday morning session of the city court until Jan. 6. The accused who is charged with breach of the peace is at liberty under bonds of $1,000.

According to a statement made by Mrs. Vincent to the police early Tuesday morning at the W. W. Backus hospital, where she is a patient, her husband threatened to kill her with a bone-handled razor and then commit suicide. While her husband was brandishing the razor, Mrs. Vincent claimed, she rushed to her bedroom window and jumped out for fear of being killed by him.

After the woman was questioned by the police, Vincent was arrested. He denied that he had threatened his wife with a razor and was insistent that she tried to commit suicide by jumping from the window. The police in a search of the house discovered three razors, including the one described by Mrs. Vincent and which she claims was used by her husband in threatening her.

At the hospital it was learned Tuesday that Mrs. Vincent was more seriously injured than at first thought, as X-ray pictures revealed that she received a bad fracture of the pelvis in addition to numerous cuts about the face and body. Eight teeth were also knocked out in the fall. Her condition was fair Tuesday.

WITNESS CLAIMED O'NEIL BEATEN BY OFFICER

Additional evidence presented at the Tuesday morning session of the city court in the case of David O'Neil, 17, son of Police Officer and Mrs. John O'Neil of Lafayette street, which had been re-opened at the request of counsel for the accused, Attorney Edmund W. Perkins, caused the presiding judge, H. H. Pettis, to change a previous decision handed down by him and to enter a nolle. At the original trial of the case on Wednesday morning, Dec. 24th, O'Neil was found guilty and placed on probation for six months. O'Neil was arrested on the morning of Dec. 21 on Lafayette street by Officer Frank Gwiazdowski.

In rendering his decision Tuesday morning Judge Pettis stated that in his opinion the case had grown from a simple breach of the peace charge to a matter of much more serious proportions, and that there was no doubt in his mind that someone had committed perjury in testifying, witnesses on one side or the other telling stories that were not absolutely true. In disposing of the case, Judge Pettis notified both sides that they were at liberty to bring in additional witnesses at any time if they saw fit and that the case would again be re-opened.

At the original hearing of the case according to testimony of Officer Gwiazdowski, he saw O'Neil at 12:30 in the morning and when he approached the youth he asked him what he was doing. The accused replied, "I have a right to be here if I want to," and the officer then ordered him to go home, saying that he had no right to be there. In leaving the scene, the officer claimed that O'Neil made an insulting remark and he set chase after him. O'Neil stumbled over the root of a tree and fell to the ground on his face. The officer claimed that he stumbled and fell on the accused, the latter sustaining a bloody nose and an injury to his eye.

According to the story told by O'Neil at this hearing, he approached the officer to settle a dispute and the latter hit him in the face with his fists in the course of the conversation and that he continued to beat him continually from 12:25 to 12:45 a. m. The accused claimed that he did not offer any resistance, that he was knocked to the ground as fast as the officer picked him up and that while the latter was doing this he continued to abuse him, his father, Officer John O'Neil, and Police Commissioner F. Russell Smith.

Mrs. O'Neil, the boy's mother, testified at the Wednesday hearing that her son had been thrown into a cell at police headquarters in an unconscious condition the morning he was arrested and that on that particular morning she tried to locate Officer Gwiazdowski after her son was released under bonds. She claimed that the officer was in the Falls school building from 3 to 5 o'clock that morning, and that he admitted to her that he had struck the boy a little.

Officer Gwiazdowski denied the testimony given by the accused and by Mrs. O'Neil in rebuttal at the Dec. 24th hearing and Sergeant John Casey denied that the O'Neil boy had been thrown in a cell at police headquarters in an unconscious condition. The sergeant also testified that Officer Gwiazdowski had made his hourly calls from the police box at the corner of Sachem and Lafayette streets on the morning of Dec. 21.

At the Tuesday morning session City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy had all the witnesses taken to the office of Chief George Linton in charge of Officer Patrick Murphy and brought in one at a time to testify. Mrs. Isabelle Yeomans Baker, of 21 Lafayette street, the new defense witness, was the first to be called. She testified that on the morning of the 21st she was awakened by loud talking. She saw Officer Gwiazdowski and a youth whom she later learned to be O'Neil, from a window in the house, and that the officer struck the accused several blows in the face while they were near the signal box. She claimed that the youth was struck down as fast as he got up and that the officer kept calling O'Neil a "yellow snake and a liar." She said that the accused "was actually thrown into the police patrol."

The state had two new witnesses in Steven Majewski, 10, of 16 Lafayette street, and Howard Ryan of 181 Sachem street. The former testified that in returning home he saw the officer and O'Neil walking in the middle of the street toward the signal box and watched them behind a telegraph pole, but he did not see the officer strike the youth, and that there was no loud talking or cursing. Ryan testified that he met Gwiazdowski at 3:35 o'clock on the morning of Dec. 21 at which time Mrs. O'Neil said he was in the schoolhouse, and that they walked to the police box, where the officer made his hourly call at 4 o'clock.

In his testimony Officer Gwiazdowski repeated the story he told at the original hearing and stressed the fact that there had been no blows struck and that the only noise being made on the street was by O'Neil. The officer claimed that when he arrested him he started to cry and begged him to let him go home. O'Neil was bleeding from the nose at that time, according to the officer.

At the conclusion of the argument presented by Attorney Perkins for the discharge of his client, the city attorney, in his lengthy remarks, stated that in his opinion there was little doubt as to the guilt of O'Neil on the breach of the peace charge. "As far as the assault on the part of the officer, I do not believe that Officer Gwiazdowski would resort to such means. If I thought he had, I would have had a warrant made out for his arrest," said the city attorney.

No charges have been brought against the officer, according to Police Commissioner Smith.

HOLIDAY FUND MAINTAINED DESPITE GENERAL DEPRESSION

Miss Mary E. Richards, chairman in charge of the holiday fund for emergency use the year around at Uncas-on-Thames, said Tuesday that notwithstanding the hard times and general financial depression, the response to soliciting for this worthy cause has been most generous, and that the general ratio, in proportion to more prosperous winters, has been well sustained.

Every patient at the sanatorium received on Christmas day a gift purchased by this money, and throughout the year, holidays and birthdays will be remembered, and many a good time made possible by reason of this fund, which is maintained by voluntary giving. While the annual campaign for contributions is, naturally, more active during the holidays, donations at any time may be sent to Miss Richards, at her home, 93 Sachem street, and she will be glad to add any such gifts to the holiday fund bank book.

The committee, individually and collectively, achieved splendid results but, as usual, the banner must be awarded to Jewett City, which every year sends in the largest amount of money. It would seem as if the very spirit of Christmas walked the streets of that town, and the untiring cooperation of Miss Dorothy F. Paul, the Jewett City collector, has always been invaluable, said Miss Richards. This winter Miss Paul has been confined to the house by illness, but Mrs. Paul, who assumed her daughter's place as chairman in charge, has so efficiently carried on the work that once again the Jewett City contribution heads the list.

As the year closes, it is indeed pleasant to realize that this fund, which is entirely dependent on the efforts of its friends, and which has now assumed a very necessary and important place in the sanatorium life, has again received such substantial addition to its steadily-growing nest egg, and thanks are due to all who have so kindly contributed to its maintenance, Miss Richards concluded.

Uncas-on-Thames holiday fund contributions follow:

NORWICH MAN SUES MONARCH INSURANCE CO.

Herbert E. Hanna of this city has brought suit in the court of common pleas against the Monarch Accident Insurance Co., of Springfield, Mass., for damages of $1500.

The plaintiff alleges that under an accident policy issued him, the company agreed to pay him $20 weekly, not exceeding 65 consecutive weeks for total disability due to sickness.

Plaintiff took out his first policy in 1922 and on May 21, 1929, while the policy was in full force and effect, the insurance company issued to him a new policy in place of the old.

The company under the terms of the new policy agreed to pay weekly indemnity for sickness when he was totally disabled for not more than 65 consecutive weeks and according to its terms agreed to pay hospital and medical bills.

Plaintiff claims that on May 27, 1929, he became sick and was under the care of Drs. William T. Driscoll and George H. Gildersleeve, both of Norwich, and by their orders and advice and instruction was on June 16, 1929, taken to the Backus hospital and thereby became a beneficiary under the terms and conditions of the policy. The plaintiff claims the company has not carried out its part of the agreement.

LUCAS ATTACKS SENATOR WALSH OF MONTANA, DEM.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—(AP)—Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the republican national committee, took another fling at two of the senate's independent republicans tonight and sent a shaft, as well, in the direction of Senator Walsh of Montana, a democrat.

"It is not at all surprising that Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, a democrat, would come to the aid of his fellow democrat, Senator George W. Norris, as he did in a statement last night at Miami Beach, Florida, concerning the Nye 'investigation' of the recent senatorial contest in Nebraska," Lucas said.

Nye is chairman of the senate campaign funds committee which disclosed that Lucas borrowed money from a Washington bank to pay for literature opposing the re-election of Senator Norris, independent republican of Nebraska, and that the loan was secured by an account of the republican national committee.

POETRY

New Year's Eve

The moon gleams white through the frosty air,
And the wind sings shrill in the gusty sky,
And December's length of days has run,
And the silent king of the year goes by.

Ah, not with the thrill and the stir of joy
That he came with, this silent king of men,
Doth he pass by now, o'er a chill, dark stage,
That will thrill to his footsteps, not again.

He who came to greet all white seals and saw
Cast down all the dreams of earth's godlike folk—
The fair white pages of life, besmirched,
And the blameless crushed 'neath the guilty's yoke.

Goodby to him now, and be still, all men!
(He has been to our joys and our tears e'er nigh);
So! Lower your heads and forego all joy,
As the once proud king of the year goes by.

—Helen Chase.

In December

No sound within the sombre woods today
Save oak-leaves whispering;
The pines are silent; birches softly sway,
But sigh not, neither sing.

Only a brown bird stirs through grasses gray,
Calling, "The year is old"
And seeded flower-stalks along the way
Are still amid the cold.

The year is old—so old she will not stay;
Silent, yet understood;
For in the silence I can hear her say
That even age is good.

—Grace Wight Buckie, in Boston Transcript.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Mother—Horrors! While sister was sleeping the baby licked all the paint—

Father—What, off the chair?

Mother—No—off sister.—Pathfinder.

Whipp—I'm going to get a divorce My wife hasn't spoken to me for six months.

Lasch—Better be careful. You'll never get another wife like that.—Exchange.

Aunt—Hans, you have been good all day today, so you can wish for something for yourself.

Hans—Then I wish to be allowed to be naughty tomorrow.—Nagels Lustige Welt.

"I hear your wife's been on a diet for many months. How is she by this time?"

"Oh, shipshape."

"Then she hasn't lost a pound, eh?"—Exchange.

"How did you like the opera, Minna?"

"It was lovely, ma'am. It was 'Lohengrin'."

"So you made the acquaintance of Wagner?"

"No ma'am, he told me his name was Miller."—Moustique.

Litle Minnie had been sent to the draper's to buy some pearl buttons for mother.

"A little larger than a sixpence," mother had explained.

Full of importance, the child had entered the shop and announced:

"I want two dozen pearl buttons as big as sevenpence."—Bystander.

"'Are you married?' they asked the bachelor.

A family's tradition for sustaining membership in its state legislature was maintained when Ben H. Hiner, of Franklin, W. Va., was returned to the state senate and his son was elected to the house of delegates. Five generations of the Hiner family have served successively in the legislature of Virginia, before West Virginia became a state, or in the West Virginia legislature. The great-great-grandfather, great-grandfather, grandfather and father of Delegate Hiner established and maintained the tradition which he is now maintaining.

On Armistice day, Thomas and Ross McKenney, of Lincolnville, Me., suddenly decided to have a try for a deer, and gathering all the old shells they could find in the house (the stores being closed), started out. In the woods they separated and in a comparatively short time Thomas saw a buck and downed him. He ejected the shell, loaded again, and attempted to fire the gun to signal his brother, but the shell would not explode. On trying every shell he had in his pockets, he found that the shell with which he had shot the deer was the only good one he had with him.

NET ADVANCES OF 1 TO NEARLY 6 POINTS IN STOCK MARKET YESERDTAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(AP)—Although this was railroad day in the security markets, the carrier equities and liens unselfishly shared the legacy of good cheer made in their favor by the consolidation agreement, and stocks and bonds generally improved. Grains rallied in sympathy.

On the share market, the net advances of 1 to nearly 6 points—the average rise for 90 issues was 2.7 points was the best since the big upturn on December 17. It was also the most active session since that date, for sales totalled 3,431,115 shares.

Reports to the effect that yesterday's conference of the eastern railroad executives had been conclusive seemed sufficiently convincing to rally the market almost from the opening, so that President Hoover's formal announcement only added impetus to the upward movement. Rails soared 2 to 8 points and were joined, with more modest advances, by the industrials and utilities, profit taking, inevitable after so lusty a swing, cut down the maximum gains, but prices closed strong.

News from the steel industry was cheerful, too, "Iron Age" said each week of December had added to confidence toward the 1931 outlook and that by the end of January ingot production should be about 50 per cent of capacity against the estimate of 36 per cent made for this week.

Steel output in 1930 amounts to about 40,000,000 tons, a drop of 27 per cent from the 1929 volume. Production averaged 63 per cent of rated capacity, the lowest since the 37 per cent average of 1921, when, however, capacities were smaller.

Other developments of the day were less stimulating, although none was particularly gloomy, bar silver went to another new low here. Department store sales in the New York federal reserve district for the first 24 days of this month were 4 1-2 per cent under a year ago, but in view of the lower prices prevailing this year the comparison was relatively favorable.

The appearance of some good news affecting the long suffering rails found that group well liquidated and harboring a fair-sized short interest, eastern lines, directly involved in the consolidation plans, were naturally most buoyant and extreme gains of 5 points or more developed in New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and Reading. New Haven closed 6 3-4 higher, while Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, Wabash, Atchison, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific closed 2 to 4 higher.

Miscellaneous shares rising 1 to 3 included U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of N. J., American Telephone, Lambert, Eastman Kodak, Johns Manville, Liggett and Myers "B", American Tobacco "B" Anaconda, Case, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas and Goodyear, Public Service of N. J., North American, Coca Cola, Crucible Steel, Allied Chemical and Western Union, rallied 3 to 4, while Auburn Auto soared 5 and Ingersoll Rand, 9 3-4.

Wheat, closing unchanged to 5-8 higher, reflected the firmness of Winnipeg and unfavorable Argentine weather as well as the strength of stocks. Corn gained about 1 3-4c, influenced by cold weather in the southwest and a better cash demand. Cotton finished 3 points lower to 3 higher.

Year end settlements depressed the foreign exchanges. The French franc sagged 5-16 and sterling cables eased 1-8. Far Easterns shaded off with bar silver.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(AP)—A broad advance in railroad convertible and mortgage issues following announcement of an agreement for consolidation of eastern carriers, featured trading in the bond market today.

Domestic bond prices threw off the lethargy that has marked their movements recently and definitely resumed their upward trend in the largest turnover in four months. Sales exceeded $15,000,000.

It was the last day on which sales for income tax purposes could be made in the regular way, although cash transactions may be negotiated for that purpose tomorrow.

The buoyancy of the carrier group compared favorably with the advances of 10 days ago, when they made an abrupt recovery from the low levels of the year. As reflected in the average for 10 rails, the day's improvement amounted to 1.3 points, and the advance of 30 domestic bonds, in the averages, was 1-2 point.

Obligations of the Baltimore and Ohio, the Van Sweringen group, and Pennsylvania, three of the four systems involved in the merger plans, were conspicuous in the advance. The New York Central, was less affected. Virtually all of the high grade rails joined the upward trend however, and some of the widest gains were in second grade issues that are not included in merger plans of the eastern lines.

United States governments were very active and about steady in the face of the continued firmness in the call money market.

Foreign dollar bonds found the line of least resistance was toward lower levels. German international 5 1-2s duplicated its record low at 68, but recovered partially to close 5-8 off. The 7s reacted 3-4 and German industrials declined. Cuban 5 1-2s rallied 1 3-4 points. A shipment of $1,650,000 in gold arrived today to pay the interest on the bonds. Most of the Latin Americans sold off, in some instances losing 2 or 3 points. Chilean 6s touched a new 1930 minimum.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(AP)—Curb market prices stiffened in an active session today.

Gains were largely narrow, and a few lightly traded issues again came out on the tape at new low prices, but total transfers aggregated 1,117,200, the highest since December 17, and more than 500 separate issues were again traded.

The rally seemed largely in sympathy with the upturn on the big board.

The low priced investment trust shares were as active and firm as they have been in some time. In a large turnover, Goldman Sachs sold up 1 3-8, and closed up 1-2, Blue Ridge and Shenandoah, also closed up fractionally. American Founders rose 1-4. United Founders was turned over in large volume, closing at 6 1-4, off 1-8. Among the higher priced issues in this group, Ungerleider gained a point, and Continental Shares preferred, regained yesterday's loss.

Oils also pointed upward. Indiana gained a point in active trading, and Cities Service rallied fractionally. The Indian territory shares, controlled by Cities Service, were buoyant, the A stock gaining 2 and the B stock 4 points. Standard of Ohio, mounted 4 International and Imperial were again firm. Vacuum sold up 1 3-4 and closed 3-4 up.

The more active utilities moved narrowly, although American Gas was an exception, selling up about 4 points. Electric Bond and Share sold up to 41 3-8, then closed at 40, up only 1-4.

Central Public Service A, United Light A, Utilities Power and Light, and Middle West were firm. St. Regis, which has large utility holdings, became active, and sold up more than a point in a fair turnover. Tampa gained 4 in a few transactions.

In the industrials, Deere, Aluminum company, and Fajardo Sugar rallied 3 points. Cord corporation was firm in sympathy with Auburn. Pines Winter Front, comparatively inactive of late, appeared at 14 7-8, off 3 points.

Pennroad was firm in sympathy with the rails on the big board. It sold up 2 points to 7 1-4, then reacted to 6 1-8.

In the mines, Mohawk dropped nearly six in a small turnover, but Noranda was firm and Newmont sold up more than 3.

CONSTRUCTION CO. AT NEW LONDON HALTED BY BLDG. INSPECTOR GUNN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 30.—The Springfield Construction Co., of Springfield, Mass., which company is having erected a three-story apartment building on the Boardwalk, Ocean Beach, which structure was blown down in the gale of Saturday, is encountering much opposition to the reconstruction of the building. Today Building Inspector William Gunn ordered the operations on the erection of the apartment to cease. There is a probability that the city council will inspect the building as it now stands, and action may be taken at the next meeting of the city fathers. Today it required the services of two patrolmen on duty to prevent the contractors entering on the premises of the adjoining property owners for the purpose of making repairs. The building, as it now stands, is on property directly adjoining private property and in order to prevent the Springfield company from continuing work the edict of the city's attorney was obtained.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 30—(AP)—Fresh evidence of much enlarged use of corn by industries, led to higher prices today for all grains. Speculative purchasing of corn future deliveries broadened out to a notable degree, with additional stimulus coming from the fact that at Chicago and other main centers corn receipts had been suddenly curtailed. A brace for wheat resulted from advices of moisture dearth in domestic wheat territory, both winter and spring.

Corn closed unsettled 1 1-4 at 2c a bushel higher than yesterday, wheat irregular at a shade decline to 3-4c advance, oats 3-4 at 1 5-8c up, and provisions from 35c setback to a rise of 17c.

The high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. George Clark. The bearers were John Kelly, David Hoar, Peter Dyer and William Sauter. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Eagle Realty company has sold three building lots on the former Burrows Homestead plot, off Bayonet street, to Albert R. Darrow.

Nicholas Andrelli has sold a house and lot on Warren street to Raymond & Alexander.

The Metropolitan Finance company has brought suit for $500 damages against Joseph Goodman and Ida, Max and Barney Zaslow. Property owned by the defendants on West Coit street has been attached. The action is returnable before the next term of the court of common pleas.

Mrs. Cornwall Sells Business

Mrs. Elizabeth McC. Cornwall, owner of the pharmacy, corner of Montauk and Willetts avenues, has sold the business and fixtures to Christopher J. Collins. Mrs. Cornwall succeeded her husband in the business about a year ago when the latter died. Arthur and Frank Di Maggio, owners of the building, today had a transfer of the lease from Mrs. Cornwall to Mr. Collins filed for record at the office of the city clerk.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of F. Wells Geer, 27 Franklin street. Geer was the driver of a five-ton truck that hit and instantly killed Louis W. Eldridge, 18, employed as messenger boy by the Western Union Telegraph company, a week ago on the Thames river highway bridge.

Constable Douton, of Waterford, at 2 o'clock this morning communicated with the New London police and requested that a lookout be maintained for an automobile carrying Connecticut markers, C—2349, and in the event that the auto was observed to arrest the occupants on a charge of breach of the peace, for they had created a disturbance. The auto was not sighted.

Fined $200 and Costs

Walter Benedict, proprietor of a drinking resort at Ridgewood park, Waterford, was presented in the Waterford town court yesterday afternoon charged with violation of the liquor law on one count, illegal possession. He pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs. It was the second time that Benedict has been arrested within three months on the same charge. Benedict was arrested Christmas eve when state police officers raided the resort and seized several quarts of liquor, which were found in a secret hide, although it was the same hide that contained the liquor when the cottage was raided last October.

DIES FROM BURNS AS HER SISTER DID 10 YEARS AGO

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 30.—Burns resulted in the death today of Mrs. Nellie Charnock, about 62, widow of Louis Charnock, formerly of Lawrence, Mass. She died from second degree burns at Lawrence-Memorial hospital where she had been a patient but a few days. A peculiar coincidence connected with the fatal burning is that Mrs. Charnock's sister was fatally burned in the same manner, ten years ago this month. Mrs. Charnock was employed as housekeeper by Mrs. Sara J. Oliphant, 15 Parker street. Saturday, while engaged in household duties and while attending to cooking on a gas stove, Mrs. Charnock's apron became ignited and in an instant the flimsy material of her attire caught fire. The flames quickly enveloped the woman, who suffered terrible burns about the chest and upper part of the body before they could be subdued by another occupant of the household. Mrs. Charnock was administered medical treatment, but because of the seriousness of her condition, she was taken to the hospital.

UNLIGHTED MOTORCYCLE THE CAUSE OF ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 30.—Leroy Buffington, about 27, a laborer residing at 59 Connecticut avenue, was presented in the police court this forenoon charged with reckless driving. He pleaded not guilty, but Judge Daniel M. Cronin found Buffington guilty and imposed a penalty of $25 and costs. Buffington filed a notice of appeal and furnished a surety on his bond for his appearance at the next term of the court of common pleas.

Buffington was operating a motorcycle on Williams street on the night of Sept. 24, last, without a headlight being displayed. At the corner of Granite street, Miss Catherine Ganey, 104 Williams street, employed as housekeeper by Edmund D. Barker, was in the act of crossing the intersection and, not observing the approach of the cycle because of the absence of the headlight, the woman was hit with much force. Miss Ganey was hurled to the ground and sustained among other injuries a fractured arm and leg. She was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital where she remained a patient until a fortnight ago.

Ignored Danger Signal

Albert Loscano, 298 Broad street, was charged with passing an automatic danger signal, corner of Broad street and Connecticut avenue. He was fined $5.

Stephen Krall, charged with vagrancy, had his case continued until tomorrow.

Russell Davis, employed at the plant of the Electric Boat company, was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. His case was also continued until tomorrow. Davis, who has been arrested several times on the same charges, is on parole. He drank freely yesterday and when he engaged in a brawl his arrest was the result.

Forfeited Bond

Douglass A. Anello, 311 Huntington street and Brunswick, Me., was charged with violation of the city's traffic laws in causing a blockade of traffic on Bank street. He failed to present himself in court and his bond of $2 was declared forfeited.

A Double Fracture

Mrs. Francis W. Neilan, 298 Eastern Point road, Groton, is confined to her home suffering from a fractured ankle, sustained Sunday. Mrs. Neilan was walking in the yard of her residence when she slipped, falling in a manner as to produce two fractures, which injury was determined when Mrs. Neilan went to Lawrence-Memorial hospital, and an X-ray picture revealed the double break.

Patrolman Henry Hick reported at police headquarters this morning that an automobile, a Ford, had been parked on Division street, near Bank street, five days. An investigation revealed that the automobile had been purchased of Roswell Burrows, Mystic, on a conditional bill of sale and that the owner of the auto, Mary Pierson, Bank street, had notified Burrows that she could no longer continue payments and to take charge of the car. This Burrows failed to do, so this afternoon the auto was taken to a garage and placed in storage, where it awaits Burrows taking it to the Mystic sales station.

Crooks Tried New Game

It developed today that within two or three days a pair of crooks operated in New London, but it was not revealed that they conducted their scheme of stealing with any degree of success. One of the men would enter a chain grocery store and make a nominal purchase, tending a $10 bill in payment. His confederate would enter at that point of the transaction and as the purchaser was given his change, the former would insist on making payment with a piece of silver. When this was done the clerk would be requested to give a $20 bill for bills of smaller denomination and then the crooks would attempt to give their own $10 bill and the $10 in change that had figured in the first act of the purchase and which was the store's money in turn for the $20 bill. If the scheme had been successfully carried out the crooks would have defrauded each salesman they worked the scheme on of $10.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Starting today at the Palace, a double feature bill of unusual merit, headed by "Billy The Kid." An imposing cast personifies the various historical characters in this new production, including John Mack Brown, last seen in "Montana Moon," who has the title role; Wallace Beery, who scored in "The Big House" and "Way for a Sailor," as Sheriff Garrett; Kay Johnson, featured in "Dynamite" and "Madam Satan," in the feminine lead, and Karl Dane as a comic cowhand.

In depicting the vivid career of Billy the Kid on the screen, it was Vidor's intention to recreate the "last stand of the wild west," namely, the famous Lincoln county cattlemen's war which centered in Lincoln, New Mexico. That truth is stranger than fiction was ably demonstrated in the exciting incidents which make up the historical narrative of the twenty-one-year-old outlaw who bore the reputation of being the most dangerous man in the west.

Divorce Among Friends is the second feature on this great double bill, this is a story of the ever present domestic misunderstandings, made for your entertainment by such well known stars as Irene Delroy, James Hall, Lew Cody and Natalie Moorhead, a fast moving comedy of the divorce courts.

REMEMBER HOW WE USED TO CELEBRATE NEW YEARS EVE WHEN WE WERE YOUNG? IT'S LIKE OLD TIMES TO GET OUT FOR A NIGHT, THAT ORCHESTRA IS DRIVING ME NUTTY—MY NERVES ARE IN SHREDS!
OH, LOOK THEY'RE PACKING UP FOR THE NIGHT—NO USE STAYING HERE IF THEY AREN'T GOING TO PLAY ANY MORE!
HOT DOG—THAT'S A BREAK FOR ME—LOOKS LIKE THIS YEAR IS STARTING RIGHT.
NEW YEAR'S EVE IS ALL RIGHT FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS TO GO OUT AND MAKE WHOOPEE—BUT GIVE ME A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP—I CAN HARDLY WAIT TO GET HOME AND JUMP IN BED—
WE WERE AT THE CLUB AND HAVING A FINE TIME TILL THE OLD ORCHESTRA PACKED UP AND QUIT!
OH, THEY WERE COMING HERE—MAMA—I'M GIVING A DANCE AND I HIRED THEM FOR THE REST OF THE NIGHT—

N. Y. COMMISION TELLS SCHMELING AND JACOBS JUST WHERE TO GET OFF

(By Edward J. Neil)

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(AP)—The blast that may blow Max Schmeling right out from under the heavyweight championship crown was touched off today in the offices of the New York Athletic commission.

Like a spark drifting into a curtain of black damp in some coal mine, Joe Jacobs, spokesman for the Teuton clouter, strolled into the den of the solons and the charged atmosphere flashed lightning. "Mister Yockups" wandered out dizzily a few minutes later, faced with the problem of accepting within seven days the ultimatum of the commission that Schmeling must fight Jack Sharkey here in June or find himself bereft of recognition in this state as the heavyweight king.

In no uncertain terms James A. Farley, chairman of the commission, told Jacobs that Schmeling must keep the promise he made the commission shortly after he won recognition as the titleholder by the simple process of claiming foul in his match with Sharkey here last June. That promise was for an immediate return bout with the Boston sailor, a promise that was not kept and later was amended to read "next June."

Going even further, the commission let Jacobs know that it was rather eager to take Schmeling's title away and on second thought had come to the conclusion that Der Maxie could have risen with little effort and continued after Sharkey struck him low in the fourth round in the Yankee stadium. Almost since his arrival here three years ago, the German heavyweight has been embroiled at the commission in either managerial or personal difficulties, and the fathers seem determined to bring him to heel once and for all.

The commission's stand, opposed by promoters who would have to stage the match without popular support and by critics who believe Young Stribling, the sensational southerner, deserves consideration as the challenger, may wipe out definitely all plans for an elimination tournament, with the winner fighting Schmeling in the spring.

Bill Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, sought approval for a bout between Stribling and Sharkey for Miami, Fla., this winter, but this was frowned down, although Sharkey would like one major battle under his belt before tackling Schmeling again. Neither he nor the German has fought since last June.

The developments of the day increased the probability that Sharkey will not get another title chance at all. Schmeling has a $500,000 offer for a championship defense against Stribling in Chicago next June and his refusal to kneel to the dictates of the local commission probably would be accompanied by acceptance of the bid from the mid-west. Stribling already has agreed to terms for the Chicago match.

Commissioner Farley, talking the matter over after the meeting, left no doubt that the commission, right or wrong in its conception of the situation, was determined to force Schmeling to battle Sharkey or lose his title standing here.

"We've been very kind to Schmeling," Farley said. "Although he was under suspension here last June we permitted him to fight Sharkey for the championship because the bout was for charity. Otherwise he never would have been permitted in the ring until he had fulfilled other contracts, particularly the one to box Phil Scott, and had straightened out his managerial troubles with Arthur Buelow.

"At Schmeling's request we removed the clause calling for payment on a round basis in case of a foul from the contracts made for that match. We promised that the winner would be recognized by us as the heavyweight champion and even though the bout ended in a foul we were good sports and kept our promise.

"Not until after we recognized him as champion did we suggest to Schmeling that his bout with Sharkey was an unfinished contest and unsatisfactory to everyone concerned. We asked him to meet Sharkey again and settle the question once and for all. He agreed to do it within 30 days, then contracted an injured hand, promised to meet Sharkey in September, and went home to Germany. We are holding him now to that promise."

INDIANS LOSE FIRST GAME OF SEASON

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Arrows defeated the Springfield Indians, 2 to 1, tonight in a Canadian-American league hockey game. It was the first defeat for the Indians after a winning streak of 13 consecutive games.

Sharp defensive work by both teams prevented scoring in the first period, but the Arrows tallied early in the second when Hudson shot the puck into the net unassisted. Springfield evened the score just before the period ended after a swift dash down the ice, Dillon counting on a pass from Heller.

The Arrows jumped into the lead again soon after the third period opened, Anderson rambling through the pack with a sudden burst of speed and shooting an unassisted goal in 3:15.

SHYMAS EASILY BEAT MONTVILLE ACES FIVE

The Shyma club of Taftville swamped the Montville Aces, 54 to 41, Tuesday evening at Parish hall. The Taftville team was never in danger, having a substantial lead at all stages of the game.

Practically every member of the club broke into the scoring column, with Pingree, at center, and Yerrington, at forward, leading the attack.

In the preliminaries, the opening games of the Shyla league, the Lipsticks defeated the Powder Puffs, 24 to 18, in two minutes of overtime and the Rouges nosed out the Permanents, 26 to 23. Raymond was the referee and Wilk the umpire.

Tomorrow (New Year's) afternoon at Parish hall the Shymas will have the Radio Five of Danielson for the attraction. There will also be a fast preliminary.

JOANNA PALFREY ELIMINATED IN GIRLS' INDOOR TENNIS

BROOKLINE, Mass., Dec. 30—(AP)—Seven of the eight seeded players in the ninth annual girls' national indoor singles tennis tournament today advanced into the quarter final round here on the Longwood covered courts.

Joanna Palfrey, 15 year old sister of Sarah, who won this tourney three times in the last four years, was the only favored player to suffer elimination. She was defeated by Helen Boehm, of Malden, sister of the top-seeded player, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1.

Four first round matches were played this morning to bring the tourney up to date. The second round matches took so much time that only one doubles match was put on.

TWO TIED AS S. N. E. LOOP FINISHES 1ST ROUND

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Dec. 30.—At the conclusion of tonight's games which ended the first round of the Southern New England Basketball league, two teams, Plainfield and Danielson, were tied for the lead with seven games won and one lost. Plainfield set Willimantic back into second place by nosing them out by a single point in a fast and well-played game which was the feature of the evening. Danielson had little trouble in holding its position when the New London Tel. and Tel. went down to a 44 to 25 defeat.

The new system of putting the ball into play from the end zone was used again this evening and worked to the satisfaction of all concerned and will in all probability be continued through the remainder of the season. The scores:

ROSE BOWL TEAMS TAPER OFF WITH LIGHT WORKOUT

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 30.—(AP)—With both teams reported in the pink of condition, Alabama and Washington State took no chances today of losing their edge before the tournament of roses football game Thursday. The opposing warriors from the south and northwest indulged in the lightest sort of workouts and called it a day.

Tomorrow the same program will be followed and Coaches Wade and Hollingbery expect to send their teams on the Rose bowl turf New Year's day ready for the fray.

Before going to the practice field this afternoon, the players relaxed, the Cougars going for a long sightseeing trip, while the "Bama's" boys lolled in the sun on the lawn of their hotel.

Unofficial observers have figured the big game will develop into a contest of forward passing, reasoning the opposing lines are so powerful, power attacks must fail to pierce.

BABE RUTH IN GOOD OFF-SEASON CONDITION

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The great man was flat on his back, more or less at the mercy of his interviewer, when the subject of baseball finally was brought up.

Strange as it may seem, it isn't so easy to pin the eminent George Herman Ruth down to the discussion of the game in which he has achieved his greatest fame. He has other and quite varied interests besides the responsibility of being an $80,000 a year outfielder for the New York Yankees.

Squash racquets, for example. He had just finished a few sets or whatever they play in squash racquets with his friend and physical counselor, Artie McGovern, at the latter's gymnasium. As the muscles of the big barrel-chested giant rippled under the vigorous labors of a masseur, conversation switched to golf.

"I guess I'm a golf nut," the Babe finally admitted, after we had debated everything from the new ball to the sand wedge, both of which have the approval of the southpaw slugger.

"I can't belt 'em quite so far with the bigger ball but it's great to putt with and I guess I'll have to worry along by socking 'em around 250 or 260 off the tee," he said.

It should be remarked in passing that when in normal health and hitting up to average form, Mr. Ruth thinks nothing of poking the ball up around 300 yards off the tee. Recently, on a course at the Meadowbrook club, where two holes measure something like 390 and 300 yards, the Babe was on each green from the tee.

Only a snowstorm or two prevented Ruth from continuing winter golf and forced him to seek the gymnasium for exercise. His first workout of the winter today at McGovern's place marked the beginning of his real preparations for the 1931 baseball season. His adopted daughter, Julia, shared some of the gym play with him. After a month of regular workouts he will go south with his family to get in a lot of golf at the Jungle club near St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Babe is in fine condition. He scaled 233 today, six pounds less than at the same period two years ago and about two pounds under his weight a year ago this time. His famous waistline measured a mere 42 1-2 inches, less than at any time since the winter of 1927-1928.

"If I don't bust ears off that home run record of mine this year, I hope they give me a good panning," volunteered the witness when cross-examined on the subject of impending events.

"I would have done it last year but for that bum finger. I was going great until August and that accident happened. I made the mistake then of trying to play with the finger still in bad shape. The result was it didn't heal fully until the season was nearly over.

"My legs? Say, they are better than ever. I lasted on 'em a lot longer than some of the boys expected last season and, barring some accident, I figure to play every game next season. Cutting down the regular season workouts from two to one a day has given my pins a new lease on life. They can't be very weak, can they, when I can knock off 36 holes of golf a day right along?

"I'll still be playing baseball when a lot of these boys are through. Why, say kid, I never felt better in my life."

GIANTS BUY PITCHING STAR FROM MEMPHIS

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The New York Giants today announced the acquisition of Roscoe Shepherd, star right handed pitcher of the Memphis club of the Southern association.

Shepherd, who comes to the Giants in a straight cash deal, was second among Southern association pitchers in effectiveness last season with an earned run average of 3.21 per nine inning game. He won 12 and lost four games.

The Giants also announced the release of Andy Reese, utility infielder and outfielder, to Oakland of the Pacific Coast league in completion of the deal by which New York gets Johnny Vergez, hard hitting third baseman.

Secretary James J. Tierney of the Giants explained this deal was completed now because it was started prior to the break between the majors and big minors over the draft.

GAMES AT THE Y. M. C. A. NEW YEAR'S NIGHT

All the senior members of the local Y. M. C. A. and their friends are invited to witness two snappy basketball games in the large gymnasium. The first game will start at eight o'clock and this will be a contest between the ex-Phi Delta team and Cecil Weatherbee's All Collegians. The other game will be a match between two fast teams representing the Church league recently organized under Y. M. C. A. auspices. There is something about fast amateur games that always attract, and doubtless a good sized audience will be present to witness these games in the popular sport of basketball. Admission is of course free to all.

VETERAN SPORTSMEN FIND LITTLE WRONG WITH THE FOOTBALL RULES

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(AP)—Leaders of thought in inter-collegiate athletics, many of them grown grey in the service of sportsmanship, reported to the National Collegiate Athletic association today that they found little wrong during 1930 either with the games as they are played or the rules that govern them.

There were a few dissenting voices but in the main the faculty representatives, the physical directors, the graduate managers found less to criticise in football and other intercollegiate athletic endeavor than did the football coaches themselves, who gave recognition in their convention yesterday to the cry of over-emphasis and adopted resolutions tending to answer such criticism.

Faculty representatives from the eight districts of the N. C. A. A. were almost unanimous in praising the conduct of athletics in their territories.

"It has been a most pleasant year, with a marked tendency on the part of institutions towards maintaining their athletic activities on a high plane and making efficient use of sports for character building," reported Dean S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia, representative of the third district. Further along he said: "It is unfortunate that at the present time so many half-baked statements are appearing indicting college sports, x x x Too often these statements are based upon current rumors and not upon facts."

Several of the district leaders reported an increase in interest in intramural sports in their localities.

"One institution reported there was much more interest in intramural baseball games than in intercollegiate baseball games," Prof A. D. Penick, of the University of Texas, reported. Then he added: "If it were not for the large financial investment which we now have in our inter-collegiate athletics, many schools would, even now, be easily persuaded to have only intramural activities. How our problems would disappear."

E. K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee, sounded the keynote of the rulemakers in his report, in which he said: "It is their (the committee's) belief that the period of real changes in the rules—and by that I mean changes that materially affect the style or nature of the play—is for the time being, at least, at an end."

The baseball rules committee, the swimming rules committee, the track rules committee, all adopted practically the same attitude. The hockey rules committee, reporting on certain rules such as the one allowing off-side passing in the center zone, said further study and observation would be needed to give a decision on the benefit of the changes, although believing the off-side pass had proved successful.

There were meetings all over the Hotel Astor today of physical education directors, of student health societies, and three N. C. A. A. sport forums were held while various rules committees polished up their reports in a number of private sessions. Tonight the N. C. A. A. executive council received the reports of the various district leaders and the rules committees.

These reports will be formally presented to the full meeting of the N. C. A. A. tomorrow.

Dr. T. K. Richards, of Harvard university, gave some interesting information to one group discussion on how Harvard patches up its cripples and better, guards them against injury.

A special ankle taping worked out at Harvard resulted in no ankle strains in seven years of football competition, Dr. Richards reported as other trainers and college physicians gave audible expression of surprise.

One of the day's by-products was the setting of March 27-28 as the dates for the N. C. A. A. swimming championships, which probably will be held either at Ohio State, or at the Lake Shore A. C. in Chicago, under the auspices of Northwestern university. The University of Texas wanted the meet but it was decided Austin was a little too far away to attract a representative gathering.

The Cits were originally scheduled to meet the All-Hellers of Willimantic, but the latter team has cancelled its engagement. The Polish team has played and won two games this season, its first at the sport.

BILL TILDEN ANNOUNCES THAT HE HAS RETIRED FROM AMATEUR TENNIS

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(AP)—William T. Tilden, 2nd, veteran Davis cup star, today announced his retirement from amateur tennis competition to enter the movies.

The tall Philadelphian, for years a storm center in the tennis world, announced his retirement in a letter to Holcomb Ward, chairman of the amateur rules committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Tilden said he had signed a contract to appear in short films, on tennis subjects, for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer corporation. Since the films will be devoted to tennis, Tilden automatically is disqualified from competing under the rules governing amateurs. His letter to the U. S. L. T. A. said:

"Dear Mr. Ward:

"I wish to inform you that I have signed a motion picture contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Film corporation, the terms of which will violate the amateur rule of the U. S. L. T. A. Therefore I am announcing my retirement from amateur tennis to take effect immediately."

Tilden, now 37, generally has been rated as the greatest player the game of tennis has produced. He has dominated American tennis for a decade and been a prime factor in America's success in Davis cup competition.

He captured the American singles championship seven times, first breaking through in 1920 and ruling for six years before Rene LaCoste of France broke the spell in 1926. LaCoste repeated in 1927 and Henri Cochet won the title in 1928, but Tilden returned to the heights in 1929 for his seventh singles crown. This year he was beaten by John Hope Doeg, of Santa Monica, in the semi-final round and Doeg went on to win the championship.

Tilden won the British singles title three times, amazing the sports world by conquering a strong field at Wimbledon this summer for his third British championship.

The veteran Philadelphian also won many doubles titles and, all the important tournaments at one time or another in his long career.

BULKELEY OPENS SEASON WITH WIN OVER ALUMNI

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 30. — The Bulkeley school basketball team opened its season here tonight on the Y. M. C. A. court as it crushed the Alumni, 41 to 10.

This year's team, the second since the revival of the sport at the school, displayed power at all stages of the game. The Tigers got off to a fast start and bombarded the graduates throughout.

This decisive victory over experienced men against last year's slim win of 23-14 illustrates the Bengals' improvement and gives them a good start for interscholastic competition.

Murphy, Bulkeley forward, was high scorer for the evening, netting 16 points. Summary:

CROWD OF 16,000 SEE RANGERS TIE AMERICANS

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Before a capacity crowd of almost 16,000 noisily partisan fans, New York's two National Hockey league teams, the Rangers and Americans, played their second tie game of the season tonight. The score, after 70 thrilling minutes, was 2-2.

Neither team could break through until well into the third period. The Rangers took the lead then only to have the Americans tie the count a minute and ten seconds later. In the overtime period, the Blue Shirts again went ahead but this time their lead lasted only 30 seconds.

Butch Keeling, hard skating, hard shooting Ranger wingman, led the scoring and was outstanding among the many stars of the game. He passed to Murray Murdoch for the first goal and scored the second on passes from Murdoch and Paul Thompson. A fine pass from Red Dutton to George Massecar enabled the Americans to tie for the first time. Normie Himes scored the final goal, all alone, lifting a high hard shot past Johnny Roach. Red Dutton, American defense man, was in the penalty box when the last two goals were scored.

PLAN FOR CONSOLIDATION OF ALL EASTERN RAILROADS

ware, Lackawanna and Western in return for the concessions it makes.

The Pennsylvania, like the Baltimore and Ohio and Nickel Plate, would gain long sought concessions consisting of trackage rights over the Nickel Plate along the south shore of Lake Erie which would make it possible for them to enter Buffalo easily and to move freight between lake points without long round about hauls.

Signs of opposition immediately arose on Capitol Hill. Senator Howell, of Nebraska, said the senate interstate commerce committee would undoubtedly consider the plan fully. He expressed the personal view there was "little economy" in the proposal.

Senator Wheeler, of Montana, said if it was similar to the proposed merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, he would oppose it.

Senator Couzens, of Michigan, author of a resolution barring railroad consolidations until after March 4 next, said if the plan did not appear to be in the public interest he would press for house action on his measure which already has passed the senate. He called at the white house shortly before the president made his announcement.

RAILROAD SHARES ADVANCE ON MERGER ANNOUNCEMENT

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(AP)—The announcement of an eastern consolidation agreement opened the throttle wide for the railroad shares in today's stock market.

Individual issues gained from $1 to $6.75, and the price index of 20 representative issues advanced 2.8 points, duplicating the advance of Dec. 17, when it was first widely rumored that such an agreement was in prospect. As measured by the price index, these gains are the widest for a single day since November 1929.

The market as a whole made less extensive gains than on Dec. 17, when the list rebounded violently after recording a new low for about 3 1-2 years, but utilities were bid up in the late trading, when profit-taking reduced the extreme advances made by the carrier issues, and several of the industrials made fair progress.

While the swift advance in the rails represented in a considerable measure hasty covering by bears who had grown skeptical of the rumors that a move to end the 10-year eastern unification controversy was being sponsored by Washington, the financial district generally was inclined to regard the agreement as highly constructive. While it cannot be expected to have any near term influence of earnings, bankers said, it at least removes an important degree of uncertainty, and permits the roads to develop long range development projects with some assurance.

The advance in the rails included stocks of companies not involved in the eastern merger plans, as well as those that are. New York, New Haven and Hartford made one of the widest gains, surging up 8 a share, and closing up $6.75. Baltimore and Ohio advanced nearly $7, and closed up more than $5. New York Central gained nearly $5, after making an extreme gain of $6.50. Lackawanna and Delaware and Hudson gained about $4 net. Atchison and Union Pacific surged up about $6, then lost half their gains. Atlantic Coast Line surged up $8, only to fall back nearly $10.

MAYOR ROBBINS TO NAME G. & E. COMMISSIONER NEXT MON. EVENING

Mayor Lee Roy Robbins will name a new member of the board of gas and electric commissioners at the January meeting of the court of common council which will be held next Monday evening, it was learned Tuesday evening. Mayor Robbins stated that he had no announcement to make at this time regarding the appointment, other than that he will present the new commissioner's name to the council meeting next week. The new commissioner will be named to complete the unexpired term of Samuel Goldberg whose death occurred recently, and who had been a member of the board for several years.

The only other business of importance slated for the council's consideration at next Monday evening's meeting is a public hearing on the proposed ordinance allowing parking on one side of Church street and allowing the street to be used as a two way street by traffic.

Several years ago a city ordinance was adopted making Church street a one-way street, from Washington square to Union square and allowing parking on both sides of the street. Recently the present administration decided that it would work for the best interests of the city to amend the ordinance making the street a two way street and to allow parking on only one side of the street.

The police commissioners, as an experiment, have, for some time allowed the street to be used as a two way thoroughfare, and the experiment has proven its worth. It is not expected that there will be any opposition to the proposed amendment when the hearing is opened by Mayor Robbins.

BRING $10,000 COURT ACTION TO COLLECT LOANS

Damages of $10,000 are asked by Frank S. Rathbun and Allen H. Brown, administrators of the estate of Edwin L. Brown, late of Colchester, against Pincus Cutler, also of Colchester, according to papers filed in the superior court.

The complaint alleges that the late Edwin L. Brown on Oct. 24, 1922, lent P. Cutler, $4,000; on April 3, 1923, Brown lent Cutler $2,000; on June 25, 1929, Brown lent Cutler $1,400. These loans, the complaint alleges, have never been paid and are due.

LA BOUNTY CASES TAKEN TO SUPERIOR COURT

Counsel for the plaintiff has filed in the office of the superior court notices of appeal from two jury verdicts in the two suits brought by William La Bounty of Montville against the Frisbie Pie Co., of Hartford. The cases now go to the supreme court of errors.

Mr. La Bounty asked damages of $35,000. A jury returned a verdict against Mr. La Bounty in superior court here. The accident occurred near Gallows lane in the town of Waterford on the Norwich-New London turnpike.
